M'ALLISTER CASE.

The Portland Telegram says: Attorney E. S. J. McAllister went into Judge Morrow's court just at closing time and announced that he was ready for arraignment. He waived the reading of the indict-ment and asked for a week in which to submit his plea, which was granted. McAllister drew the $1000 in cash which was deposited in tourt to secure his release when he was arrested at Medford and was permitted to substitute a personal bond with Ray Parkhurst as surety.
