FOR McALLISTER CASE.

H. L. Tabb, Wanted in Portland Vice Crusade, Arrested.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 14.—H. L. Tabb, under indictment in Portland's vice crusade, was arrested in Los Angeles Friday. Tabb was a soliciting freight agent in that city. He was one of the men in the automobile into which Jack Roberts, since hanged at Salem, fired, killing George Hastings and Donald M. Stewart. It is understood that Tabb has information which will make it much easier for the authorities to secure convictions in several of the pending cases. He is wanted particularly in connection with the E. S. J. McAllister case.

MYRTLE POINT BOY LOSES.

Dalzell King Tries Out for Varsity Team.

The Eugene Register says: "In the final of three debate try-outs at the university, held Friday night in Villard hall to select the Varsity debating team to go against Utah, Stanford and Washington, the following named contestants gained places: Howard Zimmerman, a senior from Salem; Vernon Moteschbacher, a junior from Klamath Falls; David Pickett, a senior from Prineville; and Dalzell King, a junior from Myrtle Point. Herbert W. Lombard, of Eugene, Otto Helder, of Sheridan, were the other contestants for places.

BANDON MARINE NEWS

The host of friends of Captain John McClements, formerly of the Brooklyn, will be pleased to hear that he is now in command of the Mackinaw, a large freighter owned by the Dollar Company and plying between San Francisco and Panama. Capt. Johnson of the tug Klyhyam reports a rock in the channel just inside the bar. The rock undoubtedly washed in from the north jetty and has gradually worked into deep water.—Bandon Surf.

The steamer Bandon established a new loading record for herself on the occasion of her last trip to this port, having taken on 459,000 feet in seventeen hours.

While discharging lumber from the Brooklyn at San Francisco on her last trip, a stevedore was crushed and instantly killed by a sling-load of lumber falling upon him.

Captain Alfred Morrass of the launch Norma reports that a large ash tree slid into the river at Cedar Point during the recent storm which almost blocks the channel against navigation.

FREAK IN TIMBER.

White Cedar Log Found in Heart of Big Tree.

The Bandon World says: "While cruising timber last week, near Bandon, J. H. Ferger discovered a curiosity which speaks volumes for, and is undisputed evidence of the non-perishable qualities of white cedar. The discovery consists of a white cedar log about 35 inches in diameter which was evidently blown down many years ago, as two trees fully two feet through are growing over it with roots extending on both sides, locking the log in a firm embrace. Another strange feature is the bark still remains on the cedar. Mr. Ferger intends cutting the trees leaving the stumps about eighteen inches high, and sending them east as a practical illustration of the lasting qualities of this valuable product of our Oregon forests.

FRANK CHANCE

—BY—BOB STANLEY

O, Husky Chance, O, Husky Chance, what means this news at which I glance? I read that you have quit the game—that you'll no longer lead to fame that scrappy bunch that often bore a pennant to the West Side door in days, before this Western land had reached and grasped me by the hand. And, that reminds me, Husky Chance, of times I've seen your stick advance some runner for a base or two when things were looking rather blue because Old Christy's mighty wing had sped to burn and ev'rything was Giantlike, and Muggyswise, and other ways that tantalize. I see you yet, as in a dream, line out a hit that brings a scream forth from the sea of loyal bugs that pull for you and all your plugs. I hear them counting off that score you brought home with you once before when Giants made a lonely run against the nineteen that you won. Of course, I wasn't on your side in those good days when souls were tried by awful scenes, and fears, and shocks while Cubs were struggling with the Sox, for all my heart was with the man who ruled the "Hitless Wonder" clan—the man who holds a timber claim out here somewhere, I cannot name.

But, now that you have quit the game, the Cubs, if wise, will change their name for you were sure the only bear that growled around the West Side lair.
