CONTRIBUTIONS concerning social happenings, intended for publication in the society department of The Times, must be submitted to the editor not later than 6 o'clock p. m., Friday of each week. (Exceptions will be allowed only in cases where the events occurred later than the time mentioned.)

Woman Wins.
I'm for patient, loving woman, whether poor or rich or sown.
She is on the road to glory—and you just can't keep her down.

There's my little wife Roxana; she's as artless as can be.
Yet's she not so simple, mark you, but she gets the best of me.

If you try to best a woman when discussing something grave,
She'll come bobbing up in triumph like a cork on the wave.

Then before you've time to meet her with a sermon on her doom,
She'll have floored you with an adjective and chased you from the room.

Though you try to stop her progress, put her momentarily to rout,
With her logic she'll attack you, knock you down and drag you out.

Man has sense, but woman senses of a kind to cause dismay,
And can tell a man's chief weakness when he's half a mile away.

She can scent a winter bargain with the cunning of a fox,
And heat all her male contenters to the shop by twenty blocks.

That is why I bow to woman, noble, pure, and sweet withal—
But before her gentle wisdom, kneel and knuckle, aye, and crawl.

—Exchange.

AT THE outset of this winter season it was confidently announced by congresses of dancing masters and other potentates of waxen floors, that there would be no more turkey trots, bunny hugs, and chicken flips, says an exchange. The flight of these terpsichorean birds of passage was confidentially announced. The longed-for return to days of stately and graceful dancing was predicted. The dancing masters, however, are not the masters of dancing. These creatures of pumps and glides are eminently discreet persons, almost invariably they are conservators of manners, morals and the established social order. It were well indeed if the young folks would foot it according to their wise advice.

The reports of elite social functions from the great urban centers give the impression that flapping and trotting is by no means on the wane, and that the ragtime of the bands is fully matched by the rag steps of these new dance eccentricities.

To the dancing master dancing should express grace, poetic motion. These qualities he finds embodied in the contemplative romance of the waltz glide, or the sweeping curves of the lancers. When you interrupt the lofty and gracious dignity of his steps by rough house, it is as if some player walked on the stage when a grand symphony orchestra was performing Beethoven and blew a series of discordant notes on a fish horn.

But young blood will dance what it wills, and not all the dancing masters in the world may say it nay. There is fire in those stamping heels that laughs at twinkling prettiness, and demands an outlet for surplus vitality.

Nevertheless, symmetrical and graceful motion is as enticing as ever, and it appeals to more people than some of the young sprouts think. These graces are not found in the latest output from the dance halls. Our grandmothers knew more about it than the grandchildren.

Sweet sixteen may look very picturesque playing leap frog on the dance floor. But fat, fair and forty cavorting thereat is a sight for gods and men.

BRIDGE PARTY

Miss Maud Reed was hostess at a delightful bridge party last Saturday afternoon at the home of Captain Hans Reed in Centerville. The home was prettily decorated in greens.

Four tables of bridge were played. The ladies receiving the highest score were prize winners. The fortunate ones were Mrs. W. S. Nicholson, Miss Genevieve Sengstacken and Miss Alice Butler.

After cards refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Misses Jeanette Upton and Ruth Golden.

The invited guests were: Mrs. Arthur Upton, Miss Alice Butler, Mrs. Otto Schetter, Mrs. F. D. Cohan, Mrs. R. K. Booth, Mrs. W. Stoll, Mrs. G. W. Kaufman, Mrs. F. E. Hague, Mrs. Norris Jensen, Mrs. F. Mr Bicycle Rider:
We know that every one of you have heard of THE GUNNERY, but do you know that our BICYCLE SUPPLY DEPARTMENT is one of the most complete on Coos Bay? We handle everything that the bicycle rider needs for the complete equipment and repair of his wheel and carry it in stock ready for immediate use.
We would like you to know that THE GUNNERY is a "bicycle rider's headquarters," just as it has long been recognized as a "sportsman's headquarters," because it handles the standard makes of everything required in bicycle equipment.
We will have more to say later in reference to the bicycles which we handle, THE RAMBLER, FOX AND FLYER, but just now we want every bicycle rider in Coos county to know that we carry a full line of supplies and equipment for his wheel no matter what make or where he bought it. Tires, bells, lights, tools, repair parts, etc., in fact anything and everything that may be needed.
Make THE GUNNERY your SUPPLY DEPOT for bicycle supplies and let it become to the bicycle riders of Coos County what it is already acknowledged to be to the sportsmen of Coos county, their personal headquarters.

It Has Arrived!
The 1913 Excelsior Motorcycle
and it is as perfect as skill, money and machinery can make it.
One of the first products of the Excelsior Motorcycle factory reached Marshfield and has been given a thorough and satisfactory tryout by J. L. Koontz.
It has a number of improvements over the 1912 model, including an arrangement by which the clutch is controlled by the left handle bar instead of by a special lever. This makes it possible to handle the machine and control it without removing the hands from the handle bars.
The machine is a beauty in appearance. Compactly built and beautifully finished. It looks like a greyhound and has the going qualities of one. Backed by an experience of 24 years as a machinist J. L. Koontz says he cannot see a single thing in this new machine that could be changed or altered to advantage. "It is perfect," he exclaimed in an outburst of enthusiasm.
Don't miss seeing the new 1913 Excelsior Motorcycle, whether you expect to buy or not. It will be a liberal education in the perfection of mechanical equipment and artistic attainment in new vehicles.
