"If we do not pass this bill we will disfranchise a large portion of our voting population," stated Eaton. "The women have their eyes on this bill and they want it passed.

"We don't want to call out unnecessary prevariention," said Howard, the minister from Douglas. "Anyway, it isn't necessary to require a voter to tell his exact age."

Forbes said he would desert the steame roller and vote with Eaton. The eight sturday gentlemen who voted against the bill were Nolta. Chapman, Meek, Peirce, Porter, Smith, Thomas and Weeks.
