all the ceremony and expertness within the power of the Marshfield Elk's lodge. There was a good turnout of members to see Mr. Tozier "set his." An informal banquet was enjoyed after the initiation.

Judge Hall Better—Judge John F. Hall, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Mercy hospital the other night, is reported to be getting along fine today, much to the gratification of his many friends.

Uncle Dead—Rev. G. LeRoy Hall has received news of the death of Mrs. Hall's uncle, Eli Cook, at Blackburn, England. He visited here two years ago and met many Coos Bay people, who will deeply regret his demise. Miss Alice Tickell is also a niece of the deceased.

Perham in Roseburg—E. G. Perham, the Marshfield bridge builder, who was in this city today, left this afternoon for his home. He will return here later to bid on the three new bridges authorized by the county. Mr. Perham built the Dear Creek bridge in this city.—Roseburg Review.

No Action Taken—No definite action was taken by the Marshfield Swedish Lutheran congregation last night towards selecting a successor to the Rev. John E. Ostlund. The committee had not heard from several ministers with whom they are corresponding and so action was deferred until replies are received. Rev. Ostlund has refused a call from the church at Kingsburg, Calif., and will accept the call to the pastorate at Chicago Lake, Minnesota.

Buy Logging Business—The Smith-Powers company has purchased the logging business and timber of the Abraham-Dekeater company near Bridge. John Dushney will take charge of the camp for the Smith-Powers company. The logs will have to be got out on a freshet and the affair will be sort of an experiment as it is feared that the freshets will cause heavy losses in handling logs out of there. If it does, the camp will be closed until a railroad can be built in there, which will probably be some two years to come, as the C. A. Smith company owns most of the timber and the present logging road will tap all the timber they will need for years to come.

No Railway News—There was nothing in the local railroad situation today. The deal for the North Bend box factory right of way has not been closed. It was said that affairs were progressing satisfactorily in the bridge matter. Warren Reed of Gardiner was here booming Reedsport, which he expects to soon put on the market and said that the work there is being rushed and he expert activity all along the line soon. He went to North Bend this afternoon to confer about some business matters.

Break in Door—Unknown parties last evening broke in the door of Mrs. M. J. Elrod's millinery store on North Front street. The glass was broken and the lower part of the door rumbled as though a machine had run into it. So far as Marshal Carter could ascertain, nothing was broken or lost. It is presumed that some drunk caused the damage.

More Restaurants—There is apparently a craze among newcomers here to engage in the restaurant business. In addition to the new ones just started, two or three others are trying to get locations. One man has added to have offered R. M. Sarter $200 for his lease, another was consulting with Justice Penneck trying to get a room today and another is talking of opening a restaurant where the Sanitary Market was located on North Front street.
