FARMERS ORGANIZING IN OREGON.

The following is taken from an article entitled "Businesslike Community Farming," published in the current issue of Farm and Fireside:

"One of the best demonstrations of the businesslike attitude of the Oregon mind is the East Gaston Association of Washington county in the Willamette Valley, about twenty-five miles south of Portland. The Association embraces a rich farm area of about seventy-five square miles. The genius of the scheme is Mr. W. K. Newell, president of the Association, which includes about fifty farmers.

"They voted to raise the same kind of stock. They at once proceeded, about three years ago, to raise only Holstein cattle, to buy, in common, high-standard bulls. Some got registered heifers, and all cows had the Holstein strain, no other bulls being used.

"On the same principle they selected two breeds of hogs—Berkshires and Jersey Reds—and worked out all that did not all that did not have one or the other of these strains.

"They also settled on one breed of sheep, and for poultry they raised only White Leghorns and Rhode Island Reds.

"No one in the association advertises or pushes the sale of anything as from his special farm, but everything is 'East Golden.' They get four cents a pound more for the butterfat in Gaston cream than any other brings. They guarantee the quality and also the amount they will furnish.

"No one of them pays more than five per cent interest on money, and in a part of the world where eight per cent is quite the common figure. The members of the association know all about one another's business, and if necessary will back up anyone who needs money for the improvement or development of farm or stock.

"They have clubbed together and purchased the best thrashing machine on the market, and confine its use to their own members. The same is true of other farm machinery.

"If any one of them discovers a bulletin, or book, or article that all should read, he passes the word around.

"So extremely profitable is this to all members of the Association that it is to be given state recognition, and other communities are to be organized for the same purpose along lines of interests in different localities."

The way you're allowed to spend your money, son, depends on how you make it. A prizefighter makes more money than a preacher, but he never moves in the same society.

As the steamer Dora left the dock this afternoon on her way to Myrtle Point the engine stopped and she drifted to the beach across the river where she is stuck at present but will get off tonight. Her engine is O. K. now and she will probably be on the run all right again tomorrow.

The city council met in regular session at the city hall Wednesday night with Mayor Mast and all the councilmen present. An ordinance was passed incorporating one of the measures to be submitted to the people at the special election to wit: To authorize the city council to issue and sell bonds to the amount of $12,000 to equip the city with adequate fire protection. A resolution appropriating $300 for the purpose of erecting a fire house across the street from the city hall was passed. This will save $20 a month rental and provide a tower in which to dry hose and prevent the same from mildewing.

MERGE BOAT LINES.

A. Dunham Sells Out on Coquille and Others Consolidate.

The Bandon Recorder says: "A deal has been consummated whereby A. Dunham, former manager and heaviest owner in the Coquille River Transportation Co., has sold his interests to Coquille parties. The following parties being the new stockholders: Chas. Ashton, E. F. Johnson, R. S. Knowlton, R. H. Mast, and James Watson. Geo. Boak and Thos. White retain their interests in the company. In addition to this change, Captain O. R. Willard of the Wolverine has united with the company and will put the Wolverine and his new boat, Charm, in as assets and take stock in the new company.

"We are informed that as soon as the preliminaries can be arranged a change in the schedules will be arranged so that the service will be much better than it is at present."

When we hear a man boasting about how awfully smart his wife is we wonder if she was temporarily insane when she faced the parson with him.
