Graft the Neglected Apple Trees.

There are thousands of apple trees growing in fields and pastures and roadsides that bear only poor, natural fruit and many of the apples are left to rot on the ground. If these trees had been grafted 15 or 20 years ago they might be bringing a handsome profit now. Many of them are not yet too old to graft. See that they are properly trimmed and fertilized.—W. W. Maxim.

SCOW DRIFTS OUT OVER BAR

Simpson Lumber Co.'s Barge Breaks Away From Moorings at Empire.

A big scow belonging to the Simpson Lumber company and used by Al Nichols of Empire broke loose from her moorings at Empire last night and was carried out over the bar by the ebb tide. This morning she was reported to be piled up on the end of the jetty.

The scow had been used to take a load of coal to Empire and had just been unloaded. She was anchored in an apparently safe place but whether she broke the anchor chain or got the anchor fouled is unknown. At any rate, she was swept out by the ebb tide. She was worth in the neighborhood of $300.

WIRELESS MAN SPEEDWELL HERO

Operator Mansfield Repairs Broken Apparatus—Sends Out Call for Aid.

The following particulars of the accident to the Speedwell is given in a dispatch from San Francisco:

When the steam schooner Speedwell, from Coos Bay to San Francisco, with a cargo of lumber, plunged and bucked so heavily in last Saturday's gale that her deckload burst its chains and carried overhead with it the mainmast, H. W. Mansfield, the wireless operator, was the hero of the hour.

With the mainmast went down the entrance of the ship's wireless. Between the deckhouse aft and the forecabin, the decks were swirling with water and loose lumber, but Mansfield made his way forward, gathered together the loose ends of the wire and strung them again in a makeshift, which enabled him to send out an "S. O. S." call and later an explanation of the vessel's plight, before it failed utterly.

The Speedwell made her way into port unaided. Her 44 passengers, among whom were six women, were badly shaken by the pounding they had received, but the captain said they behaved admirably during the gravest peril.

Captain Rosenblad said the Speedwell encountered rough weather immediately after leaving Coos Bay and the vessel bumped the ground as it went over the bar. The gale that the ship lived through lasted eight hours.

The estimated damage to the ship is $3000. The seas that carried away 200,000 feet of lumber also took most of the trunks of the passengers.

TELLS OF VISIT.

Miss Pearl Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Watkins, who has been making a great hit on the stage, in a recent letter tells of her visit to the home of Rodney Lee, dramatic critic of the Toledo (Ohio) Blade, as follows:

"We saw a most wonderful office containing a library, probably known to every one in the world theatrical. The walls are hung with autographed pictures of all the great people of the stage from Jane Cowl to Sarah Bernhardt and Emma Calve.

"Mr. Lee showed us a letter written to him by Edwin Booth, this he keeps in a case. This library, which extends all round the room, he has filled with scrap books in which are arranged all the names of any one who really did anything, their notices, plays, ads, photos, etc. When one has enough to fill up the few pages allotted to them they are given a larger book all to themselves.

"We were shown some that were completed for Belasco, Warfield, Bernhardt and Faversham, all autographed, a word of thanks, etc.

"I noticed a great difference in them though, for instance Belasco had written: 'I thank you for giving me a small place in your wonderful library.' While Faversham, over his own picture on the first page, wrote: 'The worst picture I ever had taken.'

"It was a great privilege and pleasure to meet Mr. Lee and have him show us his library, the only thing of its kind in the United States.

"It certainly is something to work for, that one may be given a place in it, at least it gave me that new ambition."

The other day we head a girl say that her alarm clock stopped every time she left her room. If she would it up as tight as she winds her clothes the clock would run all right and keep its hands over its face.

THE LESSER EVIL

Senator Paynter of Kentucky was discussing the Immigration Bill.

"Of two evils, you know," he said with a smile, "we are liable to choose the lesser." We are not quite so badly off as the plain young woman, "I have taken a job," said the plain young woman as a school teacher.

"At this her chum cried: "What! Teach school! Why, I'd rather marry a soft, fat, baldheaded widower with eight children, than teach school!"

"The plain young woman sighed. "Ah," she said, "so would I."
