OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF MARSHFIELD.

GOOD EVENING

Life regarded in its highest aspect consists in the maintenance of our relation to God, in growing likeminded with God, loving what He loves.—Bishop Woodford.

A GOOD PLACE TO LIVE.

MARSHFIELD is a good place to live. Although rent and taxes seem high one gets the worth of his money. There are good schools, good churches and pleasant associates. Verily the lot of the average Coos Bayite is cast in pleasant places.

BLAME YOURSELF.

THE man who lays his downfall to "wine and women" is most generally a liar as well as a coward. The man has himself to blame and should place the blame where it belongs. Don't try to hide behind the "woman," just because Adam did.

ANVIL IS SLIGHTLY MOVED.

Stranded Schooner Pulled 15 Feet Nearer Deep Water. FLORENCE, Or., April 26.—The schooner Anvil was moved 15 feet nearer deep water at high tide Tuesday when a strain was put on the cable by which she is anchored to 10 tons of rock. She also dragged the rocks toward her for a considerable distance.

Another attempt is being made to pull the craft off the sand with the high tide.

Look out for the NEW BEDFORD addition to Marshfield and make your RESERVATION for the choicest HOME SITES and VIEWS at STUTSMAN & CO. office 136 Broadway, Marshfield, Ore.

NEIME FIGHTS SPEED CHARGE

Claims That he Was Not Driving Car on the Day he is Charged with Speeding.

Fred Neime appeared before Recorder Butler today with Attorney Joehnk and entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of violating the auto speed limit on April 19. Neime claims he was not driving a car then, having chartered his car for a few days to Jerry Kinney. His trial was set for next Thursday.

George Johnson and Arthur Craig appeared last evening and each paid a $15 fine for breaking the speed limit on their motorcycles. No new arrests have been made and no complaints have been filed with City Recorder Butler although it is rumored that evidence has been secured against others.

the campaign against speeding have had City Engineer Gidley measure a number of "speedways" on the straight stretches of street in the various parts of town so that parties holding stopwatches can exactly time them.

Street Commissioner Lawhorne, City Inspector Tribbey, Marshal Carter, Walter Richardson and a few others have been given stop watches and generally two of them time the speeder.

Dr. Dix' Escape.

John Goss, City Attorney, is telling an interesting story in connection with the efforts of the city officials to put a stop to speeding.

Geo. W. Tribbey, who has been delegated to gather some of the evidence against the speeders, was on the lookout the other day and espied Dr. Dix coming down the road at a rapid clip.

Tribbey grabbed his stop watch and set it as Dix crossed the marked line and was elated over the certainty of landing in the first auto speeder in Marshfield. In a minute or two, Dix had reached Tribbey. He saw Tribbey in the street looking towards him and pulled down his machine to a stop.

"Come on and ride up town," invited Dix.

"Sure," replied Tribbey as he hopped into the auto.

A few minutes later as Tribbey was alighting from the auto, he recalled that he forgot to set his stop watch when they crossed the second dead line. However, he did not mention it to Dr. Dix and the latter probably doesn't know yet how he narrowly escaped being hailed before the city recorder.
