Visits Here.—J. E. Oren, formerly general manager of the C. A. He stopped to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Oren, and with other relatives. He expects to leave in a day or two. He is rapidly recuperating from the effects of his long illness.

Disappointed.—Geo. Goodrum was as cross as a yard arm on a telephone pole today, because his famous "Paige 36" automobile failed to arrive on the Breakwater. Through some hocus-pocus mixup between the company and the transportation people the car was not on the boat today. Dr. W. A. Toye, who has purchased the car, was also disappointed. He threatened to pull out one of George's teeth and George threatened to bite the general freight agent but after a promise to have it on the next Breakwater without fail hostilities were avoided.

Contest Hearing.—Before Land Commissioner Arthur K. Peck today, the land contest of Robert Symington versus William J. Rust is being heard. Rust entered the tract, which lies on Isthmus Inlet above Millington, as a homestead and Symington claims it is coal land and entered on it as such. The tract was overlooked for years, it being generally supposed that it was part of the old Coos Bay Wagon Road land grant. Symington is conducting his own case and this morning he, M. J. Barnes and J. R. Barnes testified to show the land was underlaid with coal.

Has Narrow Escape.—While crossing the street from the Claymore saloon to the Red Cross Drug Store, W. R. Haines had a narrow escape from being run down by an automobile. The car driven by a woman, came around the corner at a rapid pace just as Haines started to cross. He caught sight of the car just as the lady driver caught sight of him. Both, in an effort to avoid a collision, started the same way. This increased the danger and for about ten feet Haines broke all records in making a quick get-away and thus escaped being run down, but it was a close call.
