FRIEDMANN'S DISGRACEFUL PIECE OF COMMERCIALISM

AN ASSOCIATED PRESS dispatch to The Times today tends to confirm a recent editorial criticism in the American Medical Journal, the official organ of the American Medical Association, of Doctor Friedmann and his cure. The editorial in part is as follows:
"Last November Friedrich Franz Friedmann read a paper before the Berlin Medical Society announcing that he had succeeded in producing a race of virulent tubercle bacilli by which he claimed to be able to produce curative effects in all but the most advanced cases of tuberculosis and to immunize children against the disease. Immediately there appeared in the newspapers of this country, and to a less extent in those abroad, sensational accounts of this new treatment. It was lauded as a discovery that was to banish tuberculosis from the world. This was the beginning of a most remarkable—on the part of those who were responsible—disgraceful newspaper exploitation. The press agents of this obscure bacteriologist certainly have done their work well. Friedmann was a registered physician in Germany with a right to use his remedy there. The German government fully secured to a discoverer by patent a monopoly of the financial benefits to be derived from his discovery. In spite of this, he left his own land and came here, and his actions since he has been in this country have been such as to destroy any confidence which thinking physicians may have had in the man. The American medical profession has listened to the claims of Friedmann with an open mind. It has waited patiently for him to prove his claims and to show his real intentions. To wait longer is now unnecessary. Even if it should ever merit scientific classification among the many more or less helpful methods of treatment the sensational publicity that has been given this vaunted 'cure' adds no more disgraceful chapter to the history of exploitation of the sick for profit. We can disregard the fact that the remedy is a secret one, we can ignore the unethical and dishonorable conduct of Friedmann as a physician; we can even forget the possible danger that lies in his treatment; we can let all this pass. But one fact stands out clearly and should be emphasized: Friedmann has presented no proof, no scientific evidence, clinical or otherwise to justify the claim that he has developed a cure for consumption."

A recent issue of the Portland Telegram has an account of the emissaries of some 10,000 Canadians who are coming to investigate the resources of Southern Oregon and the Willamette, Salem, Albany, Corvallis, Eugene, Roseburg and Grants Pass are mentioned, but never a word about Coos Bay. It is to smile.

WISTARIA.
The diamond bride of morning tide,
Decked with dew, Wistaria gleam,
Aurora's spirit of bloom and light,
And elusive as dim dreams—
Velled Amethyst in silver mist
Wooded by trees and butterflies
In open trust, by sunbeams kissed
Before shy April's smiling skies.

And then at e'en, an opal sheen
When Liber comes and softly twines
Her purple veil and silken trail
Fringed with verdant little vines
Till, soft and soon, a pearly moon
Shimmers through caressing airs
And circles down a halo crown,
And incense chaste as cloistered prayers.

DIRE TRAGEDY IN MONTANA

New Arrival Kills Rancher and Seriously Wounds Three Others Near Dixon.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)
MISSOULA, Mont., May 9.—H. A. Wellington is dead on his ranch near the Dixon, Montana, Flathead reservation. His wife is probably fatally wounded and a young boy named Cook, employed on the ranch, is seriously wounded as a result of an assault upon the family by A. Stansky, who attacked them with a revolver and then killed himself. After the shooting, Mrs. Wellington dragged herself three-quarters of a mile to the nearest neighbor and the woman was nearly dead from loss of blood. Four bullets were fired into her body. Both hands were shot through and there was a bullet in her chest and one in her neck. The murderer was a stranger. He arrived in Dixon late yesterday and told people he came from Wisconsin.
The theory in the Sheriff's office is that Stansky was acquainted with Mrs. Wellington when she lived in Wisconsin and that jealousy prompted him to the crime. Mrs. Wellington and the boy, Cook, are being brought to the hospital here. Neither has been able to give any connected account of the tragedy.

STRANGE BEETLE FOUND.

Florence Man Discovers Peculiar Bug Near Tsilicooos Lake.
FLORENCE, Ore., May 9.—A bug which has completely puzzled all Siuslaw entomologists and which looks as if it might have grown like a plant out of the ground, has been discovered by Carl Miller, of Tsilicooos lake.
The first specimen of this remarkable beetle seen by Miller was standing perfectly still in an attitude of expectant movement; but as he continued to observe it, it did not move. Finally, thinking it dead, he started to pick it up but found its six feet so firmly imbedded in the earth that a considerable pull was required to lift it.
He has since seen several and in each case they have been standing erect and immovable, their legs buried in the ground. He thinks it probable that they die on their feet and so remain standing like their own statues, but he cannot understand why in every case their feet are so firmly fastened to the ground, not infrequently pulling loose from the body when one tries to uproot them.
The insect is about half an inch long and has noticeably long feelers.

RAILWAY NEWS FROM EUGENE

Southern Pacific Sends More Supplies to Florence—Work Along the Siuslaw.

EUGENE, Ore., May 9.—The Register says: "J. W. Shumate is making arrangements to ship fifteen carloads of hay from Coburg to Yaquina where it will be shipped by boat to Florence and other points down the coast for the use of the horses which are at work on the grading contract for the Willamette Pacific. The supply of hay for horses is almost exhausted in that section and it is necessary to ship in all they use from this time on until the job of grading is completed."
Get Montana Job.
MacArthur Brothers, a firm allied to MacArthur-Perks and company, which is building a large section of the Eugene-Coos Bay railroad, submitted the lowest of several bids for the construction of two tunnels and forty-five miles of canal for the Sun River project in Montana. Their bid of $858,615 for all of the six sections, is over $100,000 lower than the next lowest bid. The tenders were opened last week and were forwarded to Washington for approval of the department.
Work on Siuslaw.
F. E. Dunn has returned from his trip down the Siuslaw Valley to Florence, where he went to look over the prospects for investments. He says the entire lower valley is filled with men working for Porter brothers making the grade for the Willamette-Pacific and they are making wonderful progress and he predicts the road will be running through to the coast by fall. They have cut clear through the spur at the mouth of the Wildcat and can now see daylight through the little tunnel and are making good progress on the big one at Noti. He thinks the chances for investment at Florence not so good as it is his opinion they are holding their property entirely too high.

IOWAN FOUND SLAIN TODAY

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)
ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 9.—Lieutenant B. Richard Hill, U. S. N., was found dead in his room at his boarding house here today, from a bullet wound in the head. A revolver was lying beside the bed on the floor. Hill is from Iowa and was taking a post-graduate course at the naval school in engineering. While it appears that a suicide motive was lacking, the Naval academy authorities are investigating.

GET BUSY AT BROOKINGS

Big Lumber Concern Prepare to Spend Million in Southern Curry County.

(Special to the Times)
GOLD BEACH, Ore., May 9.—The Brookings Lumber and Timber company, a Missouri corporation, which is developing the large timber interests of Southern Curry County, today filed a mortgage with the County Clerk here to secure a bond of $850,000.00. The St. Louis Union Trust company, of St. Louis Missouri, is the Trustee which is handling the bond issue. The company is incorporated for $1,500,000.00 and will spend over a million dollars in building a mill and other improvements in southern Curry County before they begin cutting lumber for the market. This is the beginning of an epoch of development for Oregon's most backward county, yet in natural resources, one of its richest. Capt. W. J. Ward stated today that he hoped to have the plat of the new town of Brookings ready to file at the July term of the County Court. Work is progressing rapidly on the logging road, mill pond, wharf and other improvements at the mouth of the Chetco, and about two hundred men are now at work there.

NO NEWS FROM KINNEY DEAL

Rumors Revived That Receivership Proceedings Will Be Started Here Soon.

Although no direct advices have been received from Portland, so far as could be ascertained today, about the Wilsey-Kinney deal, more rumors were afloat concerning it. The report now is that there will soon be receivership proceedings in the matter, possibly when Judge Harris is here from Eugene next week. It was expected that either Messrs. Wilsey and Brunough or Major Kinney, or possibly all of them, would be here within a day or two. However, something seems to have arisen in the deal that is detaining them.
F. B. Waite, who is here, has had no advices about the matter. He expects to leave on the Breakwater Monday. It was thought that they would be here to close the deal during Mr. Waite's presence on the Bay.

NEW DIRECTORY BEING COMPILED

Polk Company Representatives Here—Find No Vacant Houses in Marshfield.

L. R. Sohns, J. P. Cleland and Edward Raymond, of the R. L. Polk Directory Company, are making a canvass of Marshfield to compile a new directory for Coos County, which will be issued in July. They plan to get out one of the best directories that has ever been compiled here.
Mr. Sohns in talking of it this morning said that Marshfield was a revelation to them. Although they have been canvassing the town for a few days, they have not found a single vacant house so far, a condition most extraordinary.
The new directory will afford a basis for making a more accurate estimate of the population of the Coos County towns, which have been growing rapidly, than has been possible since the last United States census, about which there has been so much kicking.

Along the Waterfront.

The Homer will sail today for San Francisco with coal, box shooks and other freight.
The Adeline Smith arrived in today from Oakland.
The Portland Telegram says: "Out on her maiden trip the new steamer schooner San Ramon, Captain T. H. Jaelson, arrived from San Francisco with forty-six passengers and 500 tons of general freight. Despite unfavorable conditions she maintained a speed of twelve knots an hour the coming up the coast. Although the Arrow Line steamer Paraiso left the Bay City seven and a half hours ahead of her the San Ramon overhauled her off Coos Bay and beat her into the river by ten hours."
Captain Adam Donaldson expects to leave in a day or two for San Francisco, after looking after business interests here. He has just given up command of the steamer Tahoe, on which he has been plying out of Washington ports for some time. It is possible that he will get a run out of Coos Bay and make his home here.
The Alliance is due in tomorrow from Portland and will probably sail Sunday for Eureka.
The Breakwater is due in Sunday from Portland.
The Redondo crossed in this afternoon about 3 o'clock.
The Esther Buhne and Advance arrived at Bandon today.
