NORTH BEND M. E. CHURCH

The Wesleyan Bible class and the Epworth League, both organizations of the Methodist Episcopal church, held social evenings Thursday and Friday evenings, respectively, in the church parlors.

Rev. John Lewtas, lecturer and evangelist, will begin a series of meetings tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the M. E. church in North Bend.

ADJOURN COURT UNTIL MONDAY

Balance of Jury Not Ready for Trial—All Criminal Cases Done.

Owing to no more jury cases being ready for trial, Judge Coko last evening adjourned Circuit Court at Coquille until Monday, when the jury cases will be resumed. There will probably be two or three days of jury cases before the equity cases are taken up. All of the criminal cases have been disposed.

One of the last criminal cases to come up was that of James McCutcheon, of Beaver Hill, indicted on two counts for selling liquor on Sunday. He pleaded guilty. The law provided a fine of $5 to $25 for the offense and Judge Coko, in view of the plea of guilty, fined him $15 on each count.

The case of Clark vs. Couch, of Bandon, being an appeal from Justice's Court on a board bill, brought a verdict for the plaintiff.

Road Tax Case.

The other evening Judge Coko heard the arguments in the special road tax levy cases, timber owners fighting them on the ground that the law is unconstitutional. J. D. Goes appeared for the timber owners and Mr. Liljeqvist for the county. The submission of the case was not completed, but will be by submitting briefs at an early date.

This case is very important, involving about $150,000 in tax money. Much of this is on timber lands which were either in the old Coos Bay Wagon Road grant or the Southern Pacific grant. As the Federal court has held that the latter grant is illegal, it is possible that it will be, if the higher cases hold the grants illegal, impossible to collect these taxes.

Judge Harris Coming.

Judge Harris, of Eugene, to come here June 4 to hear some cases which he cannot hear. Judge Coko will go to Eugene June 2 to take Judge Harris' place there. He may also go to Portland to hear some cases there later.

The present term of court has been a most strenuous one, the sessions running from 9 until 12, 1 until 6:30 and then evening sessions almost every night and Judge Coko is almost worn out in his effort to expedite the work.

Barton Case.

J. S. Barton, convicted of assault on Miss Madge Yoakum, has been granted 20 days in which to present a petition for a new trial. It is understood that his attorneys are planning to appeal to the Oregon Supreme Court in case a new trial is denied.

Mrs. Barton has been a firm supporter of her husband in the case, being with him at the Courthouse throughout the trial, her conviction of his innocence, despite the outcome, never wavering.

District Attorney Geo. Brown returned direct to Roseburg, being unable to come via Marshfield as he expected.

In the concluding of the criminal cases, C. H. Coddling and the other grand jurors are feeling fine. Every person indicted by them has been convicted. They threw out about 25 cases which were presented to the grand jury but which they thought were not warranted.

Bunker Hill Case.

The case of Brinkley vs. Dennison for damages for personal injuries sustained in an assault has been settled out of court, Brinkley accepting $7 damages in place of the $25 which the first jury awarded him. Dennison was fined by Justice Penock for the assault.

UNABLE TO FIND STATE PROBER

City Officials Can't Locate Any Water Inspector From Railroad Commission.

Has the Oregon Railroad Commission an inspector here gathering data or evidence to be used in deciding the complaint of the city against the Coos Bay Water Company?

The Marshfield city officials have been unable to find who he is, if there is one, and think that possibly some of the people who reported that the state official visited their homes confused him with an inspector of the water company, who has been gathering data for the water company's side of the case.

Parties who informed The Times of the presence of the state inspector today declared that the party who visited their homes gave them to understand that he was sent out by the Railroad Commission. He inspected the water service and asked them many questions about it. It is likely that it will be ascertained within a day or two whether there has been a state inspector here or whether all the tests have been made by the Coos Bay Water Company's representative.

Fine Lecture.

A large audience greeted Rev. Lewtas last evening when he delivered a splendid lecture on the Holy Land and Egypt. The pictures and lecture were conceded to be among the highest-class lectures ever delivered in Marshfield and for over two hours and thirty minutes Mr. Lewtas spoke not one individual left the church but would have remained another hour.

POWERS GIVES "BULLY" JOLT

Prominent Marshfield Man Receives Praise for Handling Man Insulting Women

A. H. Powers is today receiving the congratulations and praise from a large number of people for a deserved thrashing which he gave a man named F. W. Dickman, an alleged I. W. W. member, who last night insulted a number of women on the incoming train from Coquille, by using vile and offensive language in their presence and also making a vile attack on Powers, despite the efforts of the latter to avert trouble and to save the women from the indignity thrust upon them.

Dickman was pretty well beaten up and spent last night in jail and it is understood that charges will be filed against him, charging him with using vile and indecent language in a public place.

The affair started soon after the train left Coquille. It seems that Dickman, who had been working on the Smith-Powers logging road at Coquille, had been discharged by the foreman. Afterwards he evidently imbibed pretty freely and when he saw Mr. Powers on the train insisted on talking to him. He started in by using loud, profane language about the Coquille foreman. Mr. Powers requested him to desist on account of the presence of ladies in the car. He retorted with a most vile expression. Finally Mr. Powers told him that he must be quiet and then Mr. Powers left him and walked to another seat to sit down. Dickman did not desist and after using more vile language is said to have made a pass at Mr. Powers, declaring the "revolution is on and we are going to get you." Mr. Powers immediately grappled with Dickman, and although the latter is a larger man, of apparently powerful physique, forced him down into a seat and held him there. The train was just then pulling into the Marshfield depot. Mr. Powers held him there until the women got out of the car, Dickman continuing his vile tirade. When the women left the coach, Mr. Powers proceeded to give Dickman what was coming to him and it wasn't only a moment or two until Dickman hollered "enough." An officer was called and he was sent to jail.

In the fracas, Mr. Powers lost a large diamond from his ring. Later this was found on the window sill of the coach, the stone being concealed under Dickman's arm, which was resting on the window, when the officers came.

Mr. Powers was not hurt in any way. A dozen prominent Marshfield men, including Judge Hall, Judge Coko, W. U. Douglas, R. O. Graves, C. F. McKnight, Ed. Moehler and others, witnessed the affair.

Pending the filing of charges Dickman was released from jail by Marshal Carter.

Who's Who in Merchandising

When a manufacturer perfects some new article of merit, the first question that comes up is how to market it; how to create a demand for it.

The usual answer is to place his article in the leading stores and then to co-operate with the retailer in announcing through the newspapers its chief points of excellence.

The newspaper is chosen because it is the most potent medium for spreading information, the surest way of reaching the greatest number of people in the quickest space of time.

It is not surprising that so much of our present-day information, especially that which benefits the most, comes from the habit of reading newspaper advertisements.

A little careful study each day gives us a practical working knowledge of every worth-while article, and most of the leading and dependable lines of merchandise in the world.
