Noti Tunnel About Completed— Good Weather Helps.

The Eugene Guard says: "Work on the Eugene-Coos Bay line has been pushed forward rapidly during the late good weather. Grading has been taken up all along the line. The grade is practically completed to the tunnel through the Cascades, 23 miles from Eugene.

Why can a sleek fat poodle dog 6 to 8 years old occupy a whole seat on a train and not have to pay when a little boy or girl over 5 has to pay half fare and sit on their papa's or mama's lap?

Why do the mothers have to help their children on the train when the conductor will get down on the ground and pick up a white curly cur and put it on the train and handle it as if it might be glass?

Why should the ladies be smiling and good natured all of the time when the conductor is as cranky and cross as a bear with a sore head?

COLONEL IN THE PULPIT

Splendid Sermon on Commerce and Confidence by a Lay Member of the Congregation.

Editor and Minister of The Times: As a lay member I want to congratulate you on your "Saturday Sermon."

I hope every man and woman in this community, that even aspires to be any factor whatever in its affairs, has read or will read the article and benefit as I have in the inspiration that it gave me. Too many of us are waiting to have a boom thrust upon us from the outside, that some person, persons or factor will invade the community and lavish thousands of dollars in great factories, large and sightly buildings, railroads with great wharves and store houses, so that we can "get rich quick" on enhanced real estate values. If such a condition does not happen in a day, then everything is wrong with us—"the town sure is a dead one now"—"when will it pull out?"

"When are things going to start up?"—"that railroad and bridge never will be built!"—"Smith's mills are closing down, they cant sell their output!"—"nothing doing" and kindred expressions can be heard. No wonder The Times editor got sick and fired the Saturday's Sermon at this community. Go to it, "Fighting Parson," for such able talk has struck at the very heart spirit of this community, and to be allowed to stand unchallenged would be saying to the outside world and the strangers coming among us would say "such are the facts," "that community and that bunch are dead ones." For the last seven years there has not been a day, a week or a month but what this city has substantially advanced in stability and enterprise, until it has become the marvel of the old neighbors that have returned after an absence of but a few years.

At the present time we are on the eve and in the beginning of the greatest development the Bay has ever experienced. The expenditure of $2,000,000 port funds, in harbor improvements, over a million and a quarter in railroad and bridge building in the vicinity of this community, over a half a million by the C. A. Smith interests in pulp mills and other improvements, several thousands of dollars in another lumber manufacturing company on Isthmus Inlet, two brick blocks being built by W. S. Chandler and Chandler Hotel Company, numerous homes being built, besides the contemplated city street improvement for the year as well as a contract amounting to near $30,000 for Terminal Railway extension, besides numerous other small investments and outlay, that is and will give employment to labor and increase the dinner-table brigade, thereby substantially adding to the wealth of our community.

For the Lord's sake, how much more are we going to require to satisfy the mind of the man that does nothing for the community but grumble? But, Mr. Parson, put this down, the men that stand on the street corner and indulge in such talk are the men that do the least for any community, and I venture the assertion that he does so little to help to aid the town that if you went to his home you would find the weeds and grass growing on his lawn to such an extent that you could hardly see the struggling roses trying to get through and would shame a well-groomed cow if she was turned in the yard to pasture. We will have to admit the city has to many such knockers as evidenced by the neglect of their own small efforts to help even in beautifying their own holdings to the advantage of themselves or of the community. We are waiting for the other fellow to do it. If we want progress; if we want buildings, factories, hotels, etc., for the up-building of our own community, do as we have in the past, wait for no one, do it ourselves as business conditions from time to time demand. Do what you can in your own way with your own means and resources. I have been absent but a few months from the city, but I have observed many improvements in the way of better stocks of goods, better displayed, by improvements in the way of lifts fronts to their stores. The eating-houses were made more inviting by the same display of enterprise. As our own citizens are impressed, so is the outside world—help ourselves and the outside world will only be glad to join in our prosperity; make our business places attractive, make our homes attractive as far as our resources and energy will permit, no matter how small the business, nor how humble the home—it will all add to the progress and general prosperity of the community, as the man with the humblest home in the city that he grooms and keeps well, is worth more to the community than the real estate parasite that depends upon the other fellow building to enhance his property and does nothing whatever himself for his city.

Now, Mr. Editor, if you and your readers will indulge this, I would like in the near future to give you my recent outside observation of a matter that is, in my opinion, of great importance to this city, as the railroad or the improvement of the Bay; that is, Mayor Straw's project or plan to build a hard-paved surface boulevard to the sea.
