RANDOLPH TO BE FLOATED

Gasoline Schooner Not Badly Damaged—Accident Was Unavoidable.

The gasoline schooner Randolph, which was driven on the beach at Rogue River about ten days ago, has been hauled up out of danger and is being repaired and in a couple of weeks will be hauled over the sand and launched in Rogue River. The vessel is not badly damaged and the cost of repairs and getting her back in deep water will probably be about $2,000. The vessel was not insured, unless some of the stockholders had their individual interest insured, but the cargo was insured. The insurance rate on the small boats plying in and out of the small harbors on the coast is prohibitive, being about ten per cent.

Tom Golden, a member of the crew, arrived here yesterday from Rogue River and is arranging to put the gasoline schooner which has been tied up at North Bend for several months, on the run again. The Enterprise is owned by the Wedderburn Trading Company and has been completely overhauled. Captain Anderson, of the Randolph, will be master of her and will reach here in a couple of days to take her out. The Enterprise is most too small for the run, but was being figured on just prior to the loss of the Osprey, to be operated in conjunction with the Osprey.

Mr. Golden says that the report that the wreck of the Randolph was due to the fault of Engineer Wulff is absolutely without foundation. He says that when they attempted to enter, the Rogue River bar was pretty rough and a breaker struck them, ripping some of the rear planking off and opening the gasoline tanks. The salt water getting into the gasoline made their engine useless and they were driven up on the beach. They did not lose their deckload, as was reported, and only part of the deckload was damaged.

All in all, the results were lucky for Mr. Golden. In the last trip, they got caught on Clatsop Spit on the Columbia and lost their rudder but got off safely and made the repairs and then followed the accident at Rogue River, following a wait of several days outside and at Port Orford for a chance to get in.

Besides escaping from the two wrecks with his life and without injury, Mr. Golden barely escaped a heavy financial loss in the Randolph. He had arranged for the purchase of an interest in the boat and the bill of sale was left in Marshfield with C. F. McKnight ready for the transfer when Mr. Golden paid over the money. He had his cash in the bank in Marshfield and on his last trip in here was ready to do it but Mr. McKnight was at court and he could not make the deal. He intended to do it on his return but they went direct from the Columbia to Rogue River. The delay saved him quite a loss. The Randolph was valued at about $8,000 and was owned by people in and near Langlois, largely.

So far, very few fish have been caught at Rogue River, although the season opened last week. There are a large number there for the fishing season.

BANDON MAX IS INVENTOR.

Automatic Lumber Assorter Is in Operation.

BANDON, Ore., June 10.—(Special.)—C. Mc. C. Johnson, of Bandon, has completed the invention of an automatic lumber assorter. His application for a patent has been forwarded to Washington.

This labor-saving device is the first thing of its kind. There are other assorters which handle the various cuts of lumber speedily, but the hand of man is necessary for their operation. Mr. Johnson's invention is proving now by daily trials that the entire cut of the big Randolph mill can be assorted automatically, doing away with the labor of at least 12 men and greatly facilitating the loading of the lumber on steamers.

A framework 12 feet high and 200 feet long, 20 feet wide forms the basis of the structure. This has 152 divisions. There are sections to conform to the consecutive lengths from eight to 40 miscellaneous cuts as they are fed by machinery from the mill and carry these down the course of the assorter. The longest pieces are dropped first, and so on down until the shortest lengths are dropped into the last section. Each section contain all the widths that are cut by the mill. The lumber is started on the journey in a lateral position, according to their lengths into pockets from which they are rolled outward on both sides, passing through openings that admit of certain widths. From the assorter the lumber is dropped in regulated heaps which are picked up by an electric crane for loading.

CULLINGS FROM COQUILLE.

Coos County Seat News as Told by The Sentinel.

Although it may be early to consider prospective candidates for county judge, the election being a long way off, there is talk along that line, and among those who have been suggested for the place is A. T. Morrison of this city and Mr. Hoy of the Bay. While nothing definite is known as regards the candidacy of the present incumbent, it is probable that Judge Hall will seek a continuation in office. There is, however, a growing sentiment against his re-election because of his attitude on the good roads question.

Simon A. Simonsen and Beatrice McLeod, both of Riverton, were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Clifton of that place on Wednesday, the Rev. Roy Clark of Coquille officiating. It was a quiet home wedding, only a few friends witnessing the ceremony. The groom is a rancher near Riverton.

On the following day, Rev. Cleaves united in wedlock, Allen Leneve of Lampa and Ida May Hodge of Prosper. The ceremony being performed at the parsonage in Coquille.

The annual school meeting of District No. 8, will be held at the High school building on Monday, June 16, when one director will be elected for three years; one director for two years to fill the unexpired term of J. J. Stanley, resigned, and a clerk of the board for one year. Mr. Sanford the present clerk, is not seeking re-election.

Hon. Binger Herman, one of Oregon's best known citizens, has been invited to deliver the Independence day oration in Coquille.

Dr. A. P. Graham and family, who went to Portland from Coquille a year ago, have returned, and again taken up their residence here. The doctor succeeds to the practice of Dr. H. B. Moore, who has moved his family to Portland. Dr. Moore will take a post graduate course.

FIX MYRTLE POINT ROAD.

Mr. Murphy, of the general merchandising firm of Hill & Murphy of Bridge, told The Sentinel that Road Supervisor Ed. Weekly moved his camp into the canyon Monday morning, and would work forty or fifty men on that particular road for several weeks to come. This is the outcome of the good roads meeting at Roseburg, says Mr. Murphy, the county court having ordered the canyon road put in good condition. Work will be inaugurated at the Coos-Douglas county line by both counties, and the improvements made this year as far as the money in hand will permit.—Coquille Sentinel.
