Hot Water Instantly Any Minute in the Year

Hot water is even more important in the summer time than it is in the winter. Perhaps your house heating system has provision for heating water in the winter—but what do you do in the summer? Must the housewife depend upon such insufficient quantities of hot water as can be heated on the kitchen range? It is exasperating to her—and the men feel the inconvenience when in a hurry they find no hot water to shave or bathe.

Even in winter most househeating systems are unable to supply an adequate amount of hot water at all times—and in summer—range water heating is decidedly uneconomical and a source of trouble and vexation.

Eliminate these annoyances by getting a gas water heater. The cost of operation is small and the first cost ranges from $10.00 to $75.00. Telephone 178.
