No. 5. MADELEINE CHURCH.
Copyright, 1913, by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.

TWENTY-THREE hundred years ago there stood upon the Acropolis overlooking Athens the most perfect building of all those produced by the architects of Greece. When Athens was occupied by the Turks, the Parthenon was used as a mosque and later to store munitions of war. In 1687 a cannonball ignited the powder stored there, causing an explosion that threw down many of the superb pillars and wrecked the handsome structure. Since then it has fallen and later by Huvil. It was not finished until 1844, since when it has been used as a church. Surrounded by massive Corinthian columns, this is one of the most beautiful edifices in the French capital. Broad and stately flights of steps lead to the level bronze doors. Upon them appear illustrations of the ten commandments. The interior contains several fine sculptures and paintings, Napoleon receiving the emperor's crown at the hands of Pope Pius VII. During passion week and at noted festivals the Madeleine is one of the finest in Paris, and this is supplemented by a large orchestra. Standing on the steps of the Madeleine one looks down the Rue Royale to the Place de la Concorde. Past the front sweeps the traffic of the Rue St. Honoré, one of the city's busiest shopping streets. Within the church is absolute quiet. Here one cannot help thinking that Napoleon builded better than he knew after all, and that the beautiful pile is in reality a temple of glory, linking his name and achievements with the magnificence of the art of Greece. Every day a different human interest story will appear in The Times. You can get a beautiful Intaglio reproduction of this picture with five others, equally attractive 7 by 9 1/2 inches in size, with this week's "Mentor." In "The Mentor" a well known authority covers the subject of the pictures and stories of the week. Readers of The Times and "The Mentor" will know Art Literature, History, Science, and Travel, and own exquisite pictures. On sale at The Times office. Price ten cents. Write today to The Times for booklet explaining The Associated Newspaper School plan.

still further into decay, and many of the sculptured figures upon its exterior have been carried to England. The Church of the Madeleine in Paris is an almost exact reproduction of the Parthenon, and one may look at it and imagine oneself upon the Athenian hill, except for the motorcars and cabs that rush through the splendid street upon which it faces. The Madeleine, or the Church of St. Mary Magdalen, was not always used for religious purposes. Occupying the site of a former church, the present building was begun by Napoleon in 1806 as a Temple of Glory, where the victories of Austerlitz and Jena should be commemorated every year with elaborate ceremonies. After the battle of Waterloo this plan was abandoned, but the building went on as originally designed by Pierre Vignon.

Criticism
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Melville E. Stone, attorney of the Associated Press, at his own request today Senate lobby investigators regarding the claims of some correspondents of Hamlin, as to the publication of the sugar men had been through the Associated Press committee had been carried by the Press, given out by Hamlin, the sugar refiner, and a short interview, Hamlin, answering about 1000 words long statement is about 1500. He read a letter written complaining that his name carried in full and the sugar men would much better be excluded Press refused to be entirely than in the situation in which it appeared. on to say that he associated Press was in tisan and aims to be all great interests of the he urged that the Press receive the same treatment "Certain reformers" who are pushing the propaganda with the average at least putting a stop of the best sugar men. Mr. Stone introduced his answer to Hamlin's asserted his desire excluded Press be fair and treatment of every man "Arbuckle's statement not because it was the a sugar refiner but bearing on the general which as you know has been subject of keen interest in States". Stone went on further the day and night Hamlin his answer at Colorado a very busy one, with coming from Kansas City in cisco. Stone enumerated among the events he carried: "The President United States at San Plans for Justice Hild al." The McNamara World Series of Baseball Situation in China," and lical Situation in Mexico closed by saying the party would come up before and he trusted "We will give you as good a hearing attending the other side". WASHINGTON, D. C., Correspondence with the ice of the Associated introduced which develop question was reasonable brevity of the statements letter from Hamlin to read in which Hamlin's ly understood how he arose, and reasoning he knew the Associated to be fair to all. The stated that there was being of best sugar men in the near future and statement of the public sugar men would Hamlin asked that the Press handle this statement and correspondents the Chicago office was to handle the best sugar on its news merits were Senator Newlands submitted: In answer to the by T. Oxnard read which it was stated he tried to have Newlands the Senate Philippine bill 1907. Newlands announced that his application on the Philippine committee suggested nor influence, but was a result become impressed with regarding the Philippine a result of a visit by with the Taft party in
