No. 7, are confined in the Gardiner Lumber company's dry kiln here for safe keeping following a brawl, almost of riot proportions yesterday, when one man shot through the arm and another seriously cut around the head. (By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1.—Disclosures to follow the reopening of the Senate's lobby investigation are expected to be among the most important developments in recent years in congressional inquiries since the publication of Martin Mulhall's story of how he operated to influence legislation and elections in behalf of the American Manufacturers Association, scores of labor leaders also and former congressmen and others have come forward with testimony and asked that they also be heard by the investigators.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who figured prominently in Mulhall's story as the object of a long continued attack by those who attempted to bribe him and force him to give up his fight in behalf of labor legislation, has made public details of the attempted bribery. It confirms the story told by Mulhall. President Gompers and other officials of the Federation of Labor probably will testify before the Senate committee as the alleged activities of the lobbyists bore directly upon the national legislation. John Kirby and D. M. Parry of the Association of Manufacturers are in San Francisco, and were expected to sail for Australia today. They wired Chairman Overman asking to be excused from testifying before the Senate committee now but promised to appear on their return in several months.
