ACTRESS GETS LARGE DAMAGES

Marquis of Northampton Pays $250,000 for Breach of Promise to Miss Moss.

LONDON, July 2.—Two hundred fifty thousand dollars and all costs of the suit is the price that the Marquis of Northampton has agreed to pay to settle the suit for breach of promise brought against him by the actress, Miss Daisy Markham...

Had Bad Reputation.

Osborn, who is a rattling good pitcher, has been a resident of Bandon for some time. He moved there on account of the health of his little daughter...

When the baseball season started Osborn came to Bedillon and asked a chance to try out for the team.

Later, Mr. Bedillon began to hear of Osborn's past. It seems that he had been playing in fast company, formerly being in the old Union League...

Then came the "blowup" Sunday. H. J. Kimball, of Marshfield, who umpired Sunday's game, knew Osborn of old...

Sunday, Osborn is said to not only have pitched a poor game, but to have eased up in his batting. He has good curves, speed and perfect control...

Owing to Bandon being so far ahead in the league, no protests will probably be made about the game with North Bend.

Wants Big Game.

Manager R. E. L. Bedillon of Bandon, while in Marshfield last evening, made a proposition to Manager Ogren which he and the Marshfield baseball fans are considering today...

Judge Brunough is expected to reach Portland between July 6 and 8 and he may also come to the Bay. Mr. Waite says there is nothing definite to give out. He says that Mr. Wilsey informed him that he had a cable from London that Judge Brunough was to have left there last Thursday for New York and was empowered to close the Kinney deal.

Whether this means more negotiations or dickering, is not known. In order to get a title to all the property, it is stated that it will be necessary to pay out considerable money to the different claimants before title can be secured. The English buyers were averse to this procedure, but may have empowered Judge Brunough to do so.

David Lamar, New York Broker, Astounds Senate Committee by Evidence Today

SAYS U. P. BOOKS WERE FORGED FOR $82,000,000

Declares Harriman and Others Thus Laid Basis for Their Great Fortunes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—David Lamar, Wall street operator, and one time confidant of Russell Sage, James R. Keene and other financiers, amazed the Senate lobby committee today by smilingly and frankly testifying it was he who impersonated Representatives Palmer and Riordan in telephone conversations with Lewis Cass, Ledyard Cravath, Chairman Robert S. Lovett, of the Union Pacific board and other prominent financiers, telling them that Edward Lauterbach, a New York lawyer, could do great things for them in Washington.

Lamar also astonished the committee by making a detailed charge that the Union Pacific books had been forged in 1901, one item covering $2,000,000, and that as one result Kuhn & Loeb, and the late Edward Harriman and laid the foundations of a gigantic fortune. When Lamar had finished, Paul D. Cravath, of the counsel for Union Pacific, put in a prepared statement to the committee, alleging that Lamar's charges concerning the $82,000,000 was part of the bear campaign to depress Union Pacific stock, of which the railroad officials have had knowledge for several days.

Lamar amused, entertained and astounded the committee as he freely testified as to his impersonation of Congressmen over the telephone. He did it all, he said, to impress the financiers with the ability of his friend Edward Lauterbach, but he stoutly denied there was ever any mention that Lauterbach should profit by legal fees. Lamar diverted from his narrative to denounce the Union Pacific merger plan recently approved in the Federal Court at St. Paul and agreed to by Attorney General McReynolds and President Wilson. Senator Cummins questioned Lamar sharply, and in exchange, the witness testified he was a Methodist and Lamar was not his original name. He declined to give that. "I have had several names," he said.

Union Pacific Forgery.

Lamar's statement today regarding the alleged forgery was substantially as follows: "In the summer of 1901, somebody forged the books of the Union Pacific Railroad Company to the tune of $82,000,000. Who it was, I don't know. As a consequence the men connected with the company thereafter got $82,000,000 in cash as the proceeds of that company and the $82,000,000 was the fulcrum by which all the giant monopolies and conspiracies were fastened on lines of railroads serving the territory from the Rocky Mountains to the Gulf of Mexico and it was the fulcrum through which this group of men were enabled to acquire gigantic fortunes."

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—David Lamar, a Wall street broker, testified today before the Senate lobby committee that he was the man mentioned in the testimony of Robert S. Lovett as having called Wall street financiers on the telephone and having impersonated a Congressman.

In 1897, Lamar said, Russel Sage authorized him to compel the Southern Pacific to pay the Government eight million dollars on a bond owing it. Lamar, with Senator Foraker, came to Washington and conferred with President McKinley. "We were charged with being a pair of conscienceless blackmailers," said Lamar, "but that had no effect on us." When Sage retired from business in 1901 on Sage's recommendation Lamar became associated with James R. Keene. Lamar told of his activity in matters involving the Union Pacific and in the interest of Keene, Keene finally losing his whole fortune. Lauterbach and Foraker were Keene's attorneys.

"For the purpose of rendering my friend Lauterbach services," said Lamar, "and to restore him to his former friendly relations with Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Jacob and the Union Pacific officials, I did have a conversation over the telephone with the Union Pacific officials and others and in those conversations I did use the name of other persons. But there was no suggestion of a fee to Lauterbach. On the strength of those telephone messages, Judge Lovett came here and charged that Lauterbach had tried to blackmail him."
