DIAMOND TO PLEAD GUILTY

Glendale Bank Robber Will Not Make Defense—Blames Whiskey for It.

ROSEBURG, Or., July 8.—The Review says: "I don't know anything about court proceedings, so I will plead guilty and take my medicine." Thus spoke Ray Diamond, who robbed the Glendale bank on June 16, last, to District Attorney Brown, who asked if he would make a defense to that charge. Sheriff Quine arrived here with Diamond last Saturday night from Gold Beach, having come over the trail from Rogue river to West Fork and thence by train to Roseburg. Diamond is bright and vivacious and when he saw the crowd assembled at the depot about 11:30 p. m., to see him, he remarked to the sheriff: "George, you ought to put up a tent and charge 10 cents admission. You could make a lot of money." There was no time for the indulgence of idle curiosity, however, and he was taken quickly to a waiting automobile and in a very few minutes was landed in jail. Then the sheriff had to "skirmish" for bedding for the newest arrival, for the jail equipment was fully occupied with the gang of five young Russians brought here from Gardiner Saturday evening, and the three other prisoners, Geo. Rodbey, the Sutherland burglar, R. A. Miller, the bad check man, and J. A. Griffo, the Glendale horse thief.

Sheriff Quine did not bring back the stolen money with him, it being cumbersome to carry, especially in bad weather. It was placed in a bank at Gold Beach and will be transmitted at convenience, through the usual channels.

Whiskey Cure Bad.

Since his arrival Diamond has not hesitated to talk freely of the robbery and of his ten days wanderings in the mountains. Speaking to newspaper representatives he said, in reply to questions: "What on earth ever caused you to do such a thing as you did?" "To tell you the truth, I don't know," said young Diamond. "About five years ago I was thrown from a bucking horse down in the Klamath country and my lung was crushed. It got well and gave me no more trouble until some time ago when I was stabbed in the same lung during a fracas at Glendale. My lungs had been paining me considerably of late, and hearing that whiskey would benefit them I began using it. I drank only a little at first, but gradually kept using more and more. I had been drinking quite a lot for about 10 days."

FINE BANQUET ENDS SESSION

Coos County Hardware Dealers Enjoy Social Following the Recent Convention.

The semi-annual convention of the Coos County Hardware Dealers came to a close at The Chandler last evening with one of the finest banquets that has ever been held in Marshfield. There was a program of impromptu toasts and singing and a general good time.

The association was organized about eight years ago by E. K. Jones of Marshfield.

J. T. Harrigan presided as toastmaster last evening, being selected by President P. N. Rehberg.

Among those present at the banquet were J. T. Harrigan, H. S. Krebs, Milo Sumner, Charles E. Hogue, Don Gardner, Harry Bultman, Wm. Ford, Ray McNair, J. A. Johnston, P. N. Rehberg, A. E. Neff, W. N. Ekblad, S. Peterson, Roscoe Hazer, Rom Nelson, George Hazer, Geo. Black, Geo. Gilbertson and D. A. Hulling.

BOY SEES FATHER DROWN.

Douglas County Rancher and Team Lost in Umpqua River.

ROSEBURG, Or., July 8.—Swept over the rapids when he was fording the Umpqua River in his wagon, Judd Early, a rancher living three miles from Myrtle Creek, was drowned. A valuable team which he was driving was also lost. Early passed the day with friends near Myrtle Creek and was returning home when the accident happened.

According to his 8-year-old son, who was standing on the shore and was the only eye-witness to the tragedy, the wagon had reached a point near the center of the stream when the team suddenly foundered and was swept over the rapids.

UNAWARE HE WAS SHOT.

Pain in Side Found to be From Bullet Wound.

PORTLAND, Or., July 8.—Chas. Alexander, a logger, while celebrating in Stevenson, Wash., Friday, was struck in the side with a bullet from a target rifle, and his injury was not discovered until Sunday night, when he complained of feeling ill. When the bullet struck him he felt a twinge of pain and went home, and failing to improve by last night, his associates sought for the cause of his illness and located the bullet hole. Physicians hope to save Alexander's life.

AUTO SERVICE TO ROSEBURG

G. W. Carr Makes First Trip Through to Marshfield—Will Operate Daily Service.

G. W. Carr arrived here last evening on the first trip of the new through auto service between Marshfield and Roseburg. It is an extension of the auto stage service which J. L. Laird has been maintaining between Coquille and Roseburg. The schedule provides for leaving Marshfield at 5 o'clock each morning and getting into Roseburg at 7 o'clock in the evening. The fare between Marshfield and Coquille is $2, between Coquille and Myrtle Point 75 cents and from Myrtle Point to Roseburg $7.

The roads are drying up rapidly and will soon be in good condition. The worst part is in the canyon but this will soon be put in fairly good shape.

Mr. Carr had a Winton Six machine.

Who's Who and What's What

An Englishman visiting this country recently commented on the advanced development of our advertising. He said that one might get a liberal education in a remarkably short space of time by an intimate study of the advertising in first-class newspapers.

That may have been expressing it rather strongly—perhaps as a result of his enthusiasm—but it must be apparent to every thoughtful reader that newspaper advertising as it is conducted nowadays possesses an unusual educational value.

We are quite sure that our countrymen from over the sea might come here a total stranger and by diligent attention to the advertising appearing daily in this and other newspapers, soon be well informed as to the customs and the fashions, where to go for his shopping and his recreation.

Who's who and what's what have a persistent manner of finding their way into the daily newspapers, so that he who reads may profit.

EASTSIDE TO EJECT PEOPLE

City Council to Get Rid of Undesirable Residents—Concrete Jail.

At a meeting of the Eastside council last evening, steps were taken to try and eject two undesirables who have recently taken up residence near the Eastside school house. The council passed an ordinance providing for their ejection from the community but evidence is now lacking to enforce it. At the council meeting, it was stated that they had come from Marshfield, Marshal Carter having notified them to leave Marshfield.

It was also decided to have a concrete jail building erected near the new city hall. It was first proposed to put in jail cells in the old building but it was found that the state law requires a fireproof structure. The size of the new concrete jail was not determined.

George Watkins was re-appointed city attorney for the ensuing year.

Partial payments were made to Contractors Perham and Gidley on their work, and Johnson and Larson were paid for completing the short wharf on Isthmus Inlet.

Mr. Platstone was allowed $2.00 apiece for each of the three bodies which were disinterred in the street grading. The bodies were not identified.

The council will meet again July 22 to take up various matters when a successor to R. J. Montgomery on the city council may be appointed.

FOREST NOTES.

The Balkan war has brought about a rise in certain lumber prices in Europe because of the big demand for wood for ammunition boxes.

Dogwood, the principal source of shuttles for use in cotton mills, is growing sparser year by year, and various substitutes are being tried, but with no great success.

The officials of the Yosemite National Park are cooperating with the forest officers of the Stanislaus and Sierra national forests for fire prevention and control in both the park and the forests.

Experiments with a tree planting machine at the Utah Agricultural Experiment station indicate that it may be used to advantage in reforesting old burned areas on the national forests.

The leading forest schools of the country not only have their own forest tracts for continuous experiments, but give their students actual experience in the woods by having them take part in big lumbering operations.

PROGRESS ON LOGGING ROAD

Walter Condron Buys Last of Rapid Transit Company's Scrapers.

Walter Condron, of Myrtle Point, was in Marshfield today to close a deal for the purchase of the balance of the scrapers of the Rapid Transit Company and Major L. D. Kinney to be taken to Myrtle Point for construction of the new Smith-Powers road. The scrapers, which were purchased at the time of the Rapid Transit work, were used but little and will come in handy for Willett & Burr.

Mr. Condron reports fairly good progress on the line despite the bad weather. He has just finished bringing in 100 head of horses and mules to be started on the scraper work.

For the present camps, they have sufficient men, but if they could pick up 100 or so more workmen soon, they would open a couple of more construction camps and thereby hasten the completion of the road. With the additional horses and mules, they would be able to do this.

Mr. Condron says that with good luck they ought to get the first 16 miles of road to Roland Creek done by early in August. The tunnel work beyond there is slow and will probably delay the completion of the road.

The Smith-Powers Company will probably be able to open some logging camps on the line early this fall.

MYRTLE POINT PARTY

Mrs. Leslie Gloyd Johnson entertained at her home Thursday afternoon in honor of her sister, Mrs. W. F. Lillis, of Portland. The house was effectively decorated with sweet brier and St. Joseph lilies. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in playing cards, the prizes being won by Mrs. G. A. Stephenson and Mrs. J. O. Stemmler. Mrs. Johnson was assisted in serving by Mrs. Ralph Rogers and Miss Mary C. Drain. The invited guests were Mesdames Condron, W. T. McClosky, L. H. Pearce, Phelan, J. O. Stemmler, M. O. Stemmler, White, Lester Dement, Ray Dement, D. W. Giles, McMullen, Stephenson, W. E. Lowellen, G. W. Carr, A. S. Riggs, Lloyd Spies, L. J. Roberts, and Adelsperger. Clabough and Straw of Marshfield, Misses Winnie Spies, Crouch, Rush, Mattie Hulling, Nellie Dement and Marian Suplee.—Myrtle Point Enterprise.

HOW TO KEEP THEM IN SCHOOL

Idaho Educator Says Vocational Training is the Real Secret of Success.

(Special to The Times.)

EUGENE, Or., July 9.—"How to Keep the Boys and Girls in School" might have been the subject of the lectures that are being given this week at the University of Oregon Summer School by Charles S. Meek, the superintendent whose system of vocationalizing of the school system of Boise, Idaho, has attracted national attention. "In four years," says Superintendent Meek in his lecture today, "in which the total school attendance at Boise has increased 100 per cent, we have increased the total high school attendance 150 per cent, and have increased the proportion who stick to it and graduate by 230 per cent."

"Now, this has been no magical conjurer's trick—it has involved the offering of a whole new type of education—directly and immediately marketable vocational training. If any are constitutionally averse to radical changes I say this to encourage the conservatives—the development of the vocational courses does not weaken the traditional activities of the school. Latin, mathematics and cultural studies are thriving and vigorously in competition with keeping, millinery, drafting, culture, cooking and pattern-making than they did before these studies dragged the boy-abouts into the school and began to fill it for some useful place in the community."

"Our pride is that our agricultural courses send the boy back to the farm; our commercial courses get him a job in an office; our work in drafting enables him to earn up to $100 a month socially graduating. All repairs are made in Boise school buildings are made by students; more than that, a portion of Boise's $175,000 expenditure was planned in the vocational drafting classes at a saving of 600 in architects' fees. The work is paid in cash for much of the work as they go along. The 'required study' is English, and expect to give much of that vocational character in the through commercial letter-writing, agricultural descriptions, journals and like devices."
