

PROBE FRAGAS AT GARDINER

Roseburg Grand Jury Expected to Return Indictments in Many Cases.

ROSEBURG, Or., July 16.—The Review says: "Among the indictments expected from the grand jury now in session are of Ray Diamond, the Glendale bank robber; R. A. Miller, the bad check man; Geo. Rodbey, the Sutherland burglar; J. A. Griffin, the Glendale horse thief, and the five Russians brought here from Gardiner, on a charge of rioting. These are all in jail here. Diamond and Miller are expected to plead guilty and Griffino may do likewise, but Rodbey and the five Russians will probably demand trial. Others under bond to appear before the grand jury are Chas. Howard, the Edenbower bootlegger; Riley Andrews, charged with shooting 'Shorty' Brown in the arm during the general fight recently in Ed. Franklin's place in Gardiner; Ambrose La Roche, an accused bootlegger of Gardiner; Pearl Mitchell, of Gardiner, charged with keeping a house of ill-repute in Gardiner; Trile Lovell, of Gardiner, will face a similar charge if caught. She skipped out when the officers went from here to make a 'clean-up' after the fight above mentioned.

PECK HAD FINE TRIP.

Marshfield Man Says Pacific Coast Is Far Ahead of East. Arthur K. Peck arrived home last evening from an extended visit at his old home in Burlington, Vt. He came in via Roseburg and Myrtle Point. Today he expressed himself more than elated over his return, declaring that Coos Bay and the Pacific coast were far ahead of the east. Burlington is a pretty town, he says, but it was so intensely hot that one could not sleep. There were few changes in the town since he left, few of the business houses or even employes changing since he left. Today he was busy explaining that the report that A. Y. Myers, John C. Kendall and others had heard concerning his marriage was incorrect. He says that even when he got home to Burlington, some of his old friends wanted to know where his bride was, presuming he had come back on a honeymoon trip. He is now looking for the man who started the report. He had a fine trip, going via the southern route and stopping off at New Orleans, Washington, D. C., New York and other points of interest. He returned via the Central route. Business conditions are looking brighter although now the east and middle west are suffering from the usual midsummer lull.

CLAM SHELLS MAKE A GREAT FERTILIZER

PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION OF THEIR VALUE IN INCREASING CROP YIELDS ON THE SOIL SURROUNDING COOS BAY.

Down in First Addition, on a small area of an out field, there is an excellent and practical illustration of the value of clam shells and Coos Bay dredgings as a fertilizer of Coos County soil. J. E. Fitzgerald has a small out field, a portion of which was fertilized with clam shells and dredgings, and part of which was left in its natural state. The entire field was cultivated in the same manner, the seed planted at the same time and in the same way. The land on which the dredgings were placed will produce at least three times as large a crop as the unfertilized portion. The land is marked by the growing grain as plainly as if by a stone wall. The exact place where the heavy, luxuriant grain grows on the fertilized section dwarfs into a thin shallow crop may be seen as evidence of the excellence of these dredgings and their great value. Coos County farmers should make some effort to secure these dredgings for their fields, as it will pay large dividends in increased profits.

NORTH BEND NOTES.

C. S. Winsor and Dr. Ira Bartle are planning an auto trip to Klamath Falls in August to take in a big Shrine meeting there. The new barge which Kruse and Banks are completing for Porter Brothers will be christened the Frederick. It will have a capacity of about 500,000 feet of lumber. The second barge which will be considerably larger has not been named yet.

BANDON BEACH DRAWS CROWD

Large Number of Campers Are Spending Summer at Pleasant Resort.

BANDON, Or., July 16.—Delightful weather is bringing more campers and summer visitors to this place than ever before. The camping grounds along the bluff overlooking the ocean are very near all occupied and the hotels are all full. Beach parties and other vacation stunts are in full swing. The clamming is better than for several years past and there is an abundance of crabs. Salmon trolling and deep-sea fishing lure many parties out in small boats every day. Of special interest to the visitors are the drills of the life saving crew; every available spot near the station being taken by spectators during the drills. Open air dances are also very popular and not even old age seems to dampen the ardor with which the merry couples trip the fantastic toe.

The walk along the beach has been rebuilt and the places where walking was difficult eliminated. Two entirely separate beaches, one protected from the south breezes and one from those coming from the north, make it possible to enjoy the bathing and pleasures of the beach at all times. To do other than enjoy Bandon's beach is as near the impossible as we get in these days of modern civilization. There is the great width of sand in which to lie and rest if you feel so disposed. If you love beauty there are the great clusters of rocks standing out of the water just beyond the white line of breakers, presenting untold possibilities for the day-dreamer; the secret of the mask-like face of the Sphinx Rock and a pretty story connected with the Indian legend of Cave Rock.

For the more ambitious adventurer there are numerous trips to the surrounding country, or, on days when the ocean is smooth, to the rocks lying off the coast. On these rocks are to be found the nests and eggs of the sea birds, thousands upon thousands of eggs of all sizes and of many varieties. Fishing from the rocks is a treat for the oldest fisherman. Agates, shells, sea moss and other forms of sea life are abundant all along the beach. On the north side of the mouth of the Coquille River an agate beach stretches away for seven miles toward Cape Arago. On the bluff, 100 feet above the ocean, nature has provided the most delightful spots imaginable for campers. Groves of trees for shelter and a view over the sea for miles with the beach right at one's feet bring to a reality any dreams he might have had of an ideal camp.

by the illness of Mr. Best's father, a pioneer of Park County, who died a few weeks ago.

MRS. MAGGIE COOLEY and children left today for Portland from where they will proceed to Oklahoma and Missouri to visit relatives. Mr. Cooley preceded them there in hopes of benefiting his health. Mrs. Cooley recently received a mother's pension.

HILLIS SHORT who is in from Ten Mile, reports that Tom Sawyer of North Bend expected to resume auto service yesterday between the North Inlet landing and Lakeside. Mr. Sawyer brought his car to North Bend for the Fourth of July festivities.

MRS. M. J. NELSON of South Marshfield is spending a few weeks at the Phillips home in Bay Park. Mrs. Nelson has not been well for some time and the blasting being done near their home necessitated her getting a place where it would not be so noisy.

MRS. GUS JOHNSON and daughter of Woodburn, are guests at the Nels Adamson home. Mrs. Johnson is arranging to erect a monument here for her husband, Captain Johnson, who was lost in the Osage wreck here a few months ago. Geo. New Car.—The Roseburg and FRANK SMITH, superintendent of the South Coos river hatchery, was down yesterday to meet his cousin, Miss Ellen Flook, who arrived from Portland. He is getting the lumber assembled for the new residence at the hatchery which Contractor Johnson of Ferndale will build for him.
