

ELKS TO HAVE A BIG TIME

Final Preparations Made at Meeting Last Night for Big Doings Next Sunday.

At a booster meeting of the Marshfield Elks last evening, final plans for the gala day next Sunday when the Coos Bay Elks will meet the Bandon Elks in the second baseball game of the series were made. There was a big turnout and the "whole bunch" was most enthusiastic over the affair.

The Elks were jubilant over the spirit of hearty co-operation which the members of the Marshfield band and the business men are showing by offering to co-operate in every way possible. The band will take an important part in the affair and all of the business houses will be requested to decorate in honor of the host of visitors from the valley who will be here that day.

Manager Hildenbrand has arranged for a special aeroplane flight for the visitors. Aviators Steele and Gorst will, the weather permitting, make a flight over the crowd at the depot immediately after the arrival of the train.

George Goodrum, who has charge of the automobile feature of the parade, says there will be the finest turnout of cars that has ever been seen in this section. Owing to the large number of Elks coming and the desire of the committee to provide autos to carry all of the visiting Elks from the depot, Mr. Goodrum would like to have every Elk who has a car or a friend with a car to get it out for the event. The autos will be gaily decorated and will make a pretty spectacle.

Gay Chambers, of Empire, has been appointed Chief of Police, and will see that order is maintained during the parade. Perfect decorum will be insisted upon by him and his assistants and he will have one assistant to take care of each baby along the line of march.

Andy P. Davis, who has charge of the decorations at the Tabernacle where the visitors will be received, is busy and the way he is hauling in green trees to make his bower of beauty caused some to think that he was starting a young sawmill.

Saturday night there will be a turnout of the local Elks. The big touring car of Gorst & King will carry the Elks through Marshfield and North Bend and every Elk, homeguard or visitor, is expected to be at The Chandler at 7 o'clock Saturday evening to join in the joy ride.

Partial plans were made last night for a big initiation to be held the first Wednesday in August when a class of six or more candidates will be taken in.

DIAMOND IS GIVEN TEN YEARS

Pleads Guilty to Robbery of Glendale Bank and Receives Sentence.

IS GIVEN TEN YEARS.

ROSEBURG, Or., July 17.—Late Tuesday afternoon Ray Diamond plead guilty and was sentenced to a term of ten years in the state penitentiary.

ROSEBURG, Or., July 17.—The News says: "The members of the grand jury met in adjourned session this morning, and immediately took up the case of Ray Diamond, the youthful Glendale bank robber. The first and most important witness to appear against Diamond was Acting Cashier Smith, of the Glendale State Bank, and the person who was held up by Diamond. Mr. Smith told the story of the robbery, which in substance was the same as published.

"In corroboration of Smith's testimony several other Glendale citizens appeared before the grand jury and told much the same story as related by Smith.

"Diamond, who was yesterday suffering from a slight fever, is reported much better and his case will probably be disposed of during the present term of the Circuit Court.

"In this morning's issue of the Portland Oregonian there appears a drawing of an Indian girl, in native costume, which is the product of the young man's pen. The picture was drawn by Ray Diamond while he was incarcerated in jail at Gold Beach and is a very clever piece of work. Under the drawing Diamond makes the following remarks in his own hand writing, 'I thank you for the way you put my case in the paper. You came nearer to the truth than any of them. If you will reproduce this in your paper it will show the public that I could make good if I had the training.' Diamond's signature appears below the writing.

"In addition to drawing the picture in question, Diamond's cell at the county jail evidences his skill with the pen. The walls of the cell are literally covered with cartoons and drawings of varied descriptions. Many of the drawings are excellent and attest the youth's natural talent along this line."

Saturday night at 8:15, Rev. Hidden will deliver a lecture in the Finnish hall, his subject being "Finland and Russia." The lecture, which will be in Swedish, will be illustrated by a large number of stereoscopic views.

WOMAN VICTIM OF DOG BITE

Mrs. Chas. E. Seafuse, of Marshfield, Goes to Portland for Pasteur Treatment.

Mrs. Chas. E. Seafuse, residing at Broadway and Commercial, left yesterday on the Breakwater for Portland to secure Pasteur treatment for a dog bite which it was feared might develop seriously. While there were no immediate indication of rabies, her trip was taken as a precaution, owing to the prevalence of rabies in Portland and northern Oregon.

Last week the pet dog of Mrs. M. D. Meeks became suddenly enraged and bit Mrs. Seafuse's hand severely, chewing the fingers before she could jerk away from the little animal. The dog is a pet Spitz and had never been vicious before.

The wound was promptly treated, but healed in a strange manner, the flesh not healing but the skin growing over it.

Mrs. Seafuse, who is a popular Marshfield woman, decided to take no chance and upon the advice of her physician, went to Portland where the Oregon State Board of Health physicians are prepared to administer the Pasteur treatment.

TWO DIE OF MAD DOG BITE

Rabies Cause Fright in Northern Oregon and Portland—Something About Disease

PORTLAND, Or., July 17.—Alarm over rabies has stirred to action the Oregon State Livestock Sanitary Board. Notices were received this forenoon by the Board of County Commissioners to co-operate with the state board in the effort to control the spread of the disease. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, has notified the Commissioners that he has established a zone in Clackamas and Multnomah counties, throughout which all dogs must either be muzzled or held in leash by the owners. The zone lies west of the division line between ranges 3 and 4 and extends north from the Clackamas river to the Columbia. It includes part of Clackamas county, the city of Portland and nearly all of Multnomah county.

With two deaths from hydrophobia within six days, health officers are making every effort to handle the situation. The council is expected to pass an ordinance to muzzle all dogs in Portland, the ordinance to become immediately effective.

Cases of rabies are treated free by the State Board of Health. The virus is supplied from Washington, D. C., at the government's expense. On telegraphic order, the virus is immediately shipped. In the government laboratory a new supply is constantly manufactured, as it does not "keep" long, and seven-eighths of the virus is thrown away. Mad-stones and the like are considered worthless by the officials, who declare the only treatment to be given is the Pasteur.

Cats Also Feared.

In the past few days many reports have been received at the City Health Department regarding dogs and cats supposed to be mad. Whenever one of these reports is received there is an immediate investigation, on the theory that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Any dog or cat which acts peculiarly these days is under suspicion. Any dog which barks at people passing is being reported as mad.

Calvin S. White, secretary of the State Board of Health, says, "do not kill the dog—the him up." "If a dog has bitten a person, do not kill him, but place the animal in restraint. If the dog has rabies he will die in a few days, and if he is not infected he will be all right, and so there is no occasion to destroy him.

Persons bitten should notify the State Board of Health and treatment will be given quickly. Half of the people bitten are in no danger, and if they have been attacked by an animal with rabies they are safe if the Pasteur treatment is given in time. Those who have succumbed to hydrophobia in Portland have waited a month or more before applying for treatment and then they were beyond help.

Symptoms of Disease.

To place a pan of water before a suspected dog and expect him to throw a fit is no way of testing rabies in the animal. The first symptoms are a change in the dog's disposition; usually becoming more sullen. Then there is a restlessness developing into a tendency to snap or bite at anything that moves. They refuse food and usually drink, but may attempt to eat indigestible articles, like stones, dirt and leather. There is a change in the voice, the voice becoming a sort of half howl and half bark. Later there is a tendency to tremor, with possible blindness of the right eye, extreme irritability, with gradual increasing paralysis.

Rabies should be the most easily curbed of all contagious diseases by the simple method of muzzles or tying up dogs, but unless there is a drastic muzzle ordinance owners refuse to use the safeguard. The dogs dilike the muzzles, of course, but after a few days will become accustomed to them.

FREEDOM MAKES TOILET.

Workmen Scrub Statuesque "Lady" on Capitol's Dome.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 17.—Freedom, whose form surmounts the dome of the Capitol, made her biennial toilet. A score of husky workmen clambered to the top of the dome and gave Freedom a bath, using a heavy lather of castile soap and scrubbing brushes to remove the dust and grime that had accumulated on the face and figure of the lady of the Capitol since her last ablutions were performed, in the summer of 1910.

Freedom's jewelry will be replaced, as the seven platinum tips which surmount her headdress have been badly damaged by lightning bolts. Several hundred dollars' worth of precious metal will adorn her brow and protect her from the elements.

HIS MAJESTY.

I'm the king of the road! I got My toll on the world's highway. They pave the street for my feet, And the man in the wagon takes With my sturdy heels I leave wheels; I hurry to no man's will. For the rich who ride my metal pride; They must feed the king to his end.

I'm king of the road! Before me My way lies over the land. With a wild rose train from me and lane And the hail of a song bird takes They are slaves who team by wagon or steam; The footman carries the cross What cares the tramp whose camp and camp Are waiting in every town?

I'm king of the road all summer In winter I still go free. Let the snow blast come, in a gale I'll chum With a gypsy crew like me. I'll ask no shares with home and hold; They're the scorn of my soul and I Can tread the floors of the great doors, And nobody asks me why.—Theron Brown.
