Little Talks on the Teeth

This is the fifth of a series of helpful and informing talks on the care of the teeth, which will be well worth reading:

REXALL ANTISEPTIC TOOTH POWDER

should be used even if your teeth are now in good condition, because it will help to keep them that way. It is a toilet necessity that, through its cleansing, antiseptic, preserving qualities, insures in large measure freedom from decay.

Wife Sick.—Marshal J. W. Carter was called to Allegany yesterday by the illness of his wife who has been camping near there for a few weeks with the children. He expects to return today or tomorrow.

Main Damages Paving.—The water main on Commercial avenue near Second street burst yesterday and did considerable damage to the hard surface paving, breaking through it in several places. A force of men is repairing the break today.

Read Adv. in Seattle.—The Coos Bay Realty Co. received a letter this morning from Seattle in answer 4000 feet of all new pictures.

GAUMONT WEEKLY.—You have read about the great events of the world; now come and see them.

HER INNOCENT MARRIAGE.—A young woman who thought her worthless husband dead, marries again only to find that the grave sometimes gives up its supposed dead.

THE GIRL DETECTIVE'S RUSE.—A bunch of crooks outwitted by a pretty girl. And don't forget, it's a Thannhouser.

to a small want adv., appearing in The Times last week. The Times reaches the people, the people read the want advs., and that's what gets results.

Myrtle Point Booming.—J. E. Schilling drove over by auto from Myrtle Point last evening. He reports unusually heavy traffic through Myrtle Point. He says every residence and every store room is filled and that the hotel has about all the business it can handle. They are expecting a big crowd for the fair.

Seaman Buys Property.—A. E. Seaman has purchased the east 32 feet of lots 1, 2 and 3, block 9, South Marshfield, from Mrs. Peter Clausen. The consideration was $1000. This property has a frontage of 150 feet on Seventh street at the corner of Flanagan avenue and the house on it was recently burned. It has an excellent location, being convenient to the new high school and the downtown district.

Child Burned.—Seth Burroughs, the young son of Mrs. Burroughs in First Addition, severely burned his feet and hands yesterday. He was barefooted and in playing ran into what he thought was the dead ashes of an old brush fire. There were still hot embers in the ashes and before he could get out, he was pretty badly burned, the heat on his feet causing him to fall down on his hands into it.

Alaska Case.—A press dispatch from Juneau, Alaska, announces that the trial of Joseph N. McDonald, former manager of the Treadwell mines there but now a wealthy Mexican mine owner, for the murder of N. C. Jones, a mission worker, several years ago is nearly over. D. L. Rood of Marshfield, who was in Juneau at the time was first subpoenaed as a witness in the case. The trial will cost about $100,000.

Fire Damages Home.—The home of J. N. Burke in Ferndale had a narrow escape yesterday noon. Fire originating from a flue started on the roof of the kitchen and had gained considerable headway when noticed. Mr. Burke and his neighbors formed a bucket brigade and after a few minutes, the blaze was extinguished. All the water from the well had been drawn. The fire department responded to the alarm and was prepared with the small fire engine to pump from the mains. The damage is estimated at $100.

Get Logging Pictures.—Photographer Westler of the Southern Pacific has been out with Frank Heath taking pictures of the Smith-Powers Logging operations for the booklet which the S. P. company is to issue for the Marshfield and North Bend Commercial bodies. Secretary Motley had him take views of the Rogers ranch and 53 head of thoroughbred Holstein cattle, of the E. L. Bessey ranch with oats over seven feet high and a panoramic view from the forks of Coos River. A number of pictures of the Bay, of Marshfield and North Bend views and other places have also been taken.

Elks Tooth Found.—The far-reaching results of a Times Want Adv. was proven again Saturday, when John G. Smith came to The Times office with an engraved and mounted Elks' tooth which he found on the county road near Daniels Creek. It was lost by P. M. Hall-Lewis, of Coquille, County road engineer on one of his inspection trips. Mr. Hall-Lewis had no idea where he lost his lodge emblem, which he wore as a watch charm, but he valued it highly as a keepsake and he knew from previous experience the effectiveness of The Times Want Ads., so he placed an adv. in The Times. Mr. Smith, while traveling the county road noticed the gleam of the gold in the roadway and picking it up found it to be the Elks' tooth. The lost adv. in The Times formed the connecting link and Mr. Hall-Lewis will soon be in possession of his charm again. Everybody reads The Times Want Ads. That's why they produce results.
