

BUILD NARROW ROADWAY NOW

Coos County Good Roads Committee Meets at Coquille to Discuss Bonding.

At a meeting of the Coos County Good Roads Committee at Coquille yesterday, preliminary arrangements were made for putting up the Coos County road bonding proposition to the voters at an early election. The meeting was held at the Coquille city hall in the office of Mayor Morrison, who is president of the Good Roads Association. The committee's report will be made to the next good roads meeting which will probably be called at Bandon in the near future.

The division of the funds raised by bonding between the different sections of the county, the character of the road to be built and what Douglas County is going to do about its portion of the Myrtle Point road were the principal features discussed.

It was finally decided to recommend that the proposed trunk highway to be built by the money from the bond issues should be graded their full width, but that only nine feet instead of sixteen feet of them should be hard surfaced at first. This will reduce the cost to about $10,000 a mile and the balance of seven feet can be hardsurfaced later. By having the road graded the full width, the dirt portion can be used in the summer time if desired.

As to the attitude of Douglas County, some of the committee held that it would be foolhardy to expend a large amount on building a hard surface road from Myrtle Point to the Douglas County line unless they were certain that Douglas County would continue the permanent roadway from that point to Roseburg.

Myrtle Point is especially desirous of having this portion built and is insisting that of the $450,000 bond issue, $265,000 shall be set aside for building that portion of the road. Bandon wants $110,000 to build the eleven miles of road from Bandon to the Curry County line. This would leave only about $75,000 for the roads on the Coos Bay side of the county and the Coquille district proper.

This resulted in figures on what the different districts were paying in county road taxes. Wm. Grimes insisting that unless the Coos Bay side be assured that they would get a fair portion of the money from the bonds they would probably vote against the bond issue. He insisted that the road should be at least built from North Bend to Coquille out of the funds and that unless Coos County is guaranteed that Douglas County will hard surface its portion of the Myrtle Point roadway that the money be spent on the principal highways in the county.

He quoted the following figures of what the road taxes of the different sections of the county would pay under the new assessment:

Coos Bay and Coquille sections—North Bend district, $14,630; Marshfield district, $23,160; Millington district, $24,335; Summit district, $3,690; Coquille district, $8,535. Total, $52,450.

Myrtle Point Section.—Myrtle Point district, $5300; Remote and Bridge districts, $8985. Total, $13,285. This includes all the districts between Myrtle Point and the Douglas County line.

Bandon to Curry district—Bandon, $8470 and adjoining district, $820. Total, $9290.

This makes a total of $52,450 taxes paid by the Coquille and Coos Bay districts in which it was first proposed to allow only about $75,000 of the bond money for permanent roads against a total of $22,475 for the Myrtle Point and Bandon districts which were to get $375,000 of the bond money. Mr. Grimes contends that such a division would probably result in the voters of the county defeating the proposition altogether.

Some suggested that probably if there was not enough money raised by the county bond issue to complete the trunk lines, the road districts through which they pass might vote additional tax levies and thus be able to finish the trunk lines.

Those present yesterday were Dr. Ira B. Bartle, Peter Loggie, Hugh McLain, Col. Grimes, J. W. Mast, L. A. Roberts and Claude N. Nosler.

"THE GIRL OF THE HILLS" WELL PRESENTED.

The audience at the Masonic Opera House last night was the largest of the week and the company is gaining in popularity each night. "The Girl of the Hills," as presented by the Manion-Claman Players last night was an unusual play, exceptionally well presented. The characters of the piece were all of the Tennessee mountaineer type with their quaint drawl and peculiar characteristics. There was a great deal of ability displayed last night by the various members of the company and one who is familiar with the class of people which they were portraying could not but admit that the characterizations were true to life and cleverly done. Tonight promises to be the best of the week. "The Girl from Keswick's" said to be a modern political play of great merit, will be presented. This is the company's feature performance and is looked forward to as a genuine treat.

Many Persons Looking Over Siuslaw For Suitable Lands for Homes.

A Eugene paper says: "Curtis Gardner and Dale Johnson, of Eugene, returned Friday from a trip into the newly opened Siuslaw reserve, where each has picked a homestead and made application to file. The men are enthusiastic with their finds, each claiming to have a valuable 160-acre farm. "There is much good land in along the Siuslaw," said Gardner. "We located upon Myrtle Creek, off from the South Slough, eight miles from Glenada. There is splendid land in that vicinity that I know of, not over a half mile from the railroad. We met many other people in that country looking for homesteads." "The local forestry office is virtually swarming with prospective settlers from morning until night. Hundreds and inquiring, and even more are making inquiries, and even more are making trips into the country to see for themselves following the suggestion of Forester Cohoon. Already 41 have made application for land. This means that they have made the trip into the reserve, made their selections and returned to make application. "Mr. Cohoon expects even more next week, when many will be ready to come out after their search in the woods. He expects over 100 next week. There are 440 old applications which will be considered along with the rest."
