has leased the former Dr. McCormac residence on Market avenue from A. E. Seaman, who bought it recently, for one year, at fifty dollars per month. Mr. Seaman expects to meanwhile arrange for the erection of an apartment house on the property next year.

Files Bother Deer.—It is claimed that the cause of the apparent scarcity of deer this season is that the deer have gone to the thick brush in the lowlands along the creeks to escape the fly pest. As dogs cannot be used to drive them out, the deer remain secluded from the hunters on the hills. When the rains start, it is claimed that there will be better hunting.

Weds in Portland.—Announcements have been received here of the marriage of C. J. Greene and Miss Jennie G. Kimmel, in Portland, August 6. Mr. Greene was the expert of the Oregon Railroad Commission who spent considerable time on the Bay investigating the Coos Bay Water Company's system. They will be at home in Portland after September 1.

Beautiful Lilies.—That the flowery kingdom has nothing on Coos Bay as to climate and soil for production of beautiful blooms is proven by some handsome specimens of Japanese golden-banded lilies, now on exhibit at the "Busy Corner." They were grown by Mrs. James Bennett and if they had been on display they would certainly have won a prize by their beauty and fragrance.

To Sell Property.—A. E. Seaman will leave next Monday for Florence to close a deal with Porter Brothers for the sale of four lots and a block for an addition to their mill site. Mr. Seaman owns about sixty-seven lots and a thirty-acre tract, adjoining, which he may plat soon. He bought the tract a number of years ago for $650 and it is now figured that it is worth over $40,000.

Back from Cruise.—Dennis McCarthy and Jas. Cowan, who have been cruising the timber in the southeastern part of the county for the Coos County Commissioners, have returned for a short stay. This summer they have been picking up odds and ends in the various cruises. Completing the cruises by townships. Mr. Cowan says they encountered considerable sugar pine on the Southern Pacific land holdings on the Rogue River slope.

Kinney Offices.—It is announced that Major L. D. Kinney will open offices in the Sengstacken building on Broadway in Marshfield. It is said that it is for the purpose of assisting Receiver Watters. Mr. Watters will occupy the former Kinney offices in North Bend, it is said. There are still rumors that W. J. Wisley and Judge Bronaugh will, in behalf of the English syndicate, endeavor to buy in the Kinney properties in bulk.

Prominent Visitor.—E. D. Briggs and wife and son and daughter, arrived here today from Ashland to spend a few days in this section. Mr. Briggs is a leading attorney of Ashland; is president of the Chamber of Commerce there and was formerly in the Legislature, and Mrs. Briggs is Worthy Matron of the Ashland Chapter of Eastern Star. Mr. Briggs has been attorney for the F. E. Conway Company, which recently moved from Ashland to Marshfield and will investigate this section with a view to becoming interested here.

For Dr. Golden.—A communication printed in the Coos Bay News, August 11, 1880, recalls the interesting fact that the fall above Allegany were named Golden Falls in honor of Dr. Golden, father of F. A. Golden. It seems that E. A. Anderson, T. L. Hirst and Dr. Golden went up Coos River on a camping trip and camped near the falls and joshingly named them "Golden Falls," in honor of Dr. Golden, and the name has remained. They named the fork of the river Anderson River and the cascade above Golden Falls "Hirst Falls," but the latter two appellations did not remain.
