ADELINE SMITH ARRIVES EARLY

Steam Schooner Has Fine Passage Up From San Fran- cisco With Owner Aboard.

Making a fast passage with exceptionally fine weather all the way up, the steam schooner Adeline Smith, Captain Olson, having on board C. A.
Smith, head of the big lumber company, arrived in the harbor early this morning and proceeded to the upper harbor to load lumber for the return voyage.

The steamer Hardy, Captain Michelson, arrived in the harbor yesterday afternoon from San Francisco after a fair trip up the coast. She brought a considerable shipment of general merchandise which was discharged at the depot dock and then shifted to North Bend where she is taking on freight from the box company's plant and the Porter mill.

L. A. Parkhurst, cashier at the office of the Breakwater, stated that the steamer was due to arrive in the harbor early tomorrow morning with a full list of passengers and a capacity cargo of freight. He announced that the steamer would sail from Marshfield on the return trip Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

RAINS CAUSE OF FLOOD IN TEXAS

LEVEE BREAKS AT EAST WACO AND CENTRAL PORTION OF STATE IN DANGER FROM THE CREEKS AND RIVERS.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.) WACO, Tex., Dec. 3.—Water ten feet deep flowed through the principal streets of East Waco today, while the Brazos River flood passed all previous stages and continued to rise.
The East Waco section began flooding last night when the levee gave way.

CENTRAL TEXAS FLOODED.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.) DALLAS, Dec. 3.—Swollen by the heavy rains the creeks and rivers reached a dangerous stage today in central Texas. Much of the west Texas and south Oklahoma flood has receded at Austin and Fort Worth.
The interurban trolley service was stopped by a number of washouts in north Texas on the Denver & Rio Grande, International & Great Northern and Houston and Texas Central lines the train service was interrupted.

PLAN TO FILL MILL SLOUGH

Proposes to Pump in Dredgings in Both Arms as Far as Tenth and Twelfth Streets

Members of the City Council met with Roy Miller, local manager of the dredge Seattle, yesterday afternoon, and went over the plans for the filling of the low lands south of Mill Slough and the Mill Slough district proper. It was agreed that for the time being no attempt would be made to fill Mill Slough east of Broadway.

It is proposed to take up the disposition of the mouth of Mill Slough with the abutting property owners and make arrangements for a street to the waterfront and also for a ferry landing. A committee of the Council will take the matter up with C. A. Smith, Arno Meehan and others in a few days.

It is also proposed that the fill of Mill Slough be made by private contract. Most of the property owners in and along the Slough have agreed to it. By doing it by private contract it can be arranged to be done immediately, whereas if it went through the usual Council routine, it would be three months or so before it could be started.

The purpose of the conference was to enable the Council members to become thoroughly familiar with the filling projects planned, so that when the matter comes up to the councilmen for action, which is expected to be next Monday night, there will be no unnecessary delay in arriving at a suitable agreement between the city and the dredging company over the work.

Miller was asked regarding the quantity of soil it would be possible to secure for south of Hall street, and answered that there would be enough for all purposes. Miller's proposal is to begin on the upper end of the north arm of Mill Slough and work toward the waterfront, so as to make the job a complete one as far as Twelfth street, and on the west arm down to Tenth street.

City Engineer Buckingham's plans for the sewer to take care of the water in Mill Slough after the fill called for a wooden box drain two feet deep and eight feet wide, to be built on piling foundation, with piles driven every eight feet. He estimated the cost would not exceed ten cents a cubic yard for all the improvement.

LUKE M'LUKE SAYS:

You can't fool a girl when she goes to match a delicate shade of goods.
But she will wear a bunch of black store hair with her own mud-colored, home-grown locks and imagine no one can tell the difference.

There is only one thing that looks worse than a faded married woman who got the wrong man. And that is the girl who has been engaged three times and failed to land anything.
Why is it that people who haven't any money get the most fun out of spending what they get their hands on?

The guy who squeals that he is "being kept down" is usually the last one up out of the hay in the morning.
At 16 a girl will believe anything you tell her but at 26 you have to show her the blue prints.
