THE SLENDER MAIDEN

In our grandmother's time, a maiden's attire No less than today bore the critic's fire. And when the slenderest maid appeared Some fleshier lady would tell what she feared: "I don't care how fair her face is; I'm very much afraid that she leaves!" At the present time when a sylvan-like form And a winsome face brings praises warm, Some stouter dissenter is certain to say, In exactly the tone of our grandmother's day: "Her face may be beautiful, but I note That she hasn't the sign of a petticoat!"

AN INTERESTING STATEMENT

Caught my eye not long ago in a daily paper. It was to the effect that the successful modern marriage does not rest so much on the mental capacity of the husband as on the common sense of the wife, and the young man with brains is demanding a real helpmeet, and "the fool is catching the doll."

All this would be much more interesting to us, says Dolly Wayne, if we only knew whether this statement is borne out by the facts. Human nature is much the same in one generation after another. "The doll," as my authority terms one class of girls—and the name conveys to our minds what he means—has caught a good many brainy men in her day, and will, I suppose, keep on doing so to the end of time, and, on the other hand, many a so-called "fool" has luckily married a sensible girl.

The "Doll" Girl as Wife.

When the "doll" is not in sight nearly every level-headed unmarried man will agree that she is no wife for a man who needs a helpmeet in his home, and that he for his part intends to steer clear of her and marry, when the proper time comes, a girl who will spend the income wisely and not fritter it all away for clothes and amusement. Possibly he may be able to stick in his sensible conclusion, but when the modern temptress appears, she may find him none the less a willing victim.

Not all pretty, stylish, up to date, attractive girls are "dolls"—no, not by any means, many of them have just as much commonsense as their plainer sisters, and all other things being equal, who would blame a man for preferring a pretty wife to a plain one?

There is, however, a great difference in plainness. Some girls who appear hopelessly plain before some men discovered that they were charming companions, have become remarkably fine looking women after marriage. Over and over again we meet it remarked, "How much Mrs. A. or B. has improved in looks!" and conversely, too, "How Mrs. D. or E. has fallen off!"

Wives and Purses Strings.

That common sense is appreciated more than beauty by many men is being demonstrated more and more, for we often say that "men are marrying more sensibly than they used to do."

Nearly all a man's income passes through his wife's hands. Very little of it, after all, is spent on himself, and though a man usually pays the rent, fuel, water, light and insurance and attends to the savings account, it is his wife who disburses most of the income for living expenses. She buys the food, pays for help, gets almost everything in the way of furnishings for the home, and the clothing for herself and children. It is on her wise distribution of the income that her husband depends. If she knows just what that income is, should take pride in being a good partner, and should know without asking her husband, whether or not she is entitled to a certain article of dress that she craves. Many a good woman who is blamed for extravagance has no idea of how her husband's financial affairs stand. She rather expects an outburst the first of every month when the bills come in, and naturally dreads the date.

After it is over, peace reigns till the first day of the next month comes around, when things may be even worse. A heart-to-heart talk would be much better than these periodic fits of anger, following in many cases, by repentance shown in the form of a gift or some unexpected treat.

Any woman who loves her husband wishes to be a help to him, but in many cases she does not know how to aid, or where to begin. We train our children for almost everything but marriage and parenthood. They enter both, nine times out of ten, it seems to me, quite unprepared for their responsibilities.

It is a sad state of affairs, and at many weddings I have felt depressed, rather than happy, as I knew the truth was being concealed under the outward show that custom appears to demand at such times.

We women have a great many sentimental theories concerning marriage which we may have imparted to our daughters, or they have acquired as we did, and we are loath to remove any of the glamour by suggesting that life after the wedding will not be a continuation of the pre-nuptial round of entertainments.

We do not even like to suggest that there may be many really unhappy hours before the new life becomes settled and the wife adjusts herself to it. She will often be lonely, if she has been used to a large family at home. The return of her husband to the business life that he has forsaken temporarily will throw her back on herself and she must learn, if no one has taught her, how to accommodate herself to her new life.

ENGAGEMENT.

At a delightful little party of intimate friends at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. Minus in West Marshfield last Monday afternoon, the engagement of Miss Mary Ellen Mahoney to Mr. Blair Dana was announced by the sister of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Elizabeth Adams. The announcement came as quite a surprise. Miss Mahoney is one of Marshfield's most accomplished and talented young women and has spent the greater portion of her life on the Bay. For several years she has been cashier of the Coos Bay Water company. Mr. Dana is employed in the Planagan & Bennett bank and is a highly respected young man. The date of their nuptials has not been announced. Mrs. Minus' guests were Miss Mahoney, Miss Genevieve Sengstacken, Mrs. R. K. Booth and Mrs. M. C. Maloney.

HONOR VISITOR.

Miss Genevieve Sengstacken entertained a few friends Wednesday afternoon complimentary to Mrs. Harry G. Butler of Myrtle Point, who has been spending the holidays here. The guests were all girl friends of Mrs. Butler.

HONOR VISITORS.

to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hartman of Portland, who have been visiting on the Bay. The rooms were prettily decorated, emblematic of Christmas time. Refreshments were served and cards and music enjoyed. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hartman, Miss Edith Hildenbrand, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Blanchard and Mr. and Mrs. George Ayre.

WATCH PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kammerer entertained a few Marshfield and North Bend friends at a delightful little watch party Wednesday evening at their home on North Second street. It was rather impromptu, being arranged after the Millcoona Club dancing party for that evening had been called off.

NEW YEAR PARTY.

New Year's night a number of A. E. Gagnon's friends enjoyed an elaborate dinner served at his residence in Banker Hill at 8 o'clock. The evening was joyfully spent by playing cards and with music. A vocal solo by Mrs. Levi Daigle, a vocal duet by Mrs. Levi Daigle and Laura Dubay, several piano solos by Miss Lilly Bremer and a piano duet by Misses Mina and Lillian Daigle, were much enjoyed. Those present were A. E. Gagnon, Mr. and Mrs. George Hennessey, Mr. and Mrs. R. Daigle, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Daigle, Mr. and Mrs. George Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dubay, Misses Mina Daigle, Lillian Bremner, Laura Dubay, Lillian Daigle and Messrs. Walfrid Erickson, Alfred Joran, Joe Hennessey, Bartlett Kox and Abraham Dubay.

HONOR VISITORS.

Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Simpson entertained at New Year's dinner Mrs. George Snyder and children of Coos River, Mrs. A. J. Snyder, of Marshfield, Mrs. J. M. Jenkins of Bellingham, William and Miss Eva Jenkins, Mrs. E. E. Hayes, Mrs. Carl Andrew Simpson.

NEW YEAR'S PARTY

Joel Ostlund and Gosta Norback were hosts to about twenty-five of their friends on New Year's eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. B. Ostlund. The house was prettily decorated in red and green, and a beautifully decorated Christmas tree added greatly to the effect of the rooms.

A novel feature of the evening was an old fashioned dance around the Christmas tree. Each guest was presented with a horn or whistle to aid in welcoming the New Year. At the close of the evening, most delicious refreshments were served.

PLAN FOR REVIVAL.

Revival meetings will begin at the Marshfield Methodist Church on Sunday, February 1st.

EVENING PARTY

Mrs. Wm. Schroeder and Mrs. E. P. LeMieux were hostesses at a delightful evening party Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. LeMieux. The house was prettily decorated, cedar and Christmas decorations, with a Christmas tree, making it most attractive. Cards were followed by refreshments. Mrs. H. Fourier won the lady's prize and H. L. Crawford the gentleman's prize. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kinney, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. S. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hildenbrand, Mr. and Mrs. Fourier, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Denning, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoeck, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. LeMieux, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Well, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stadden of the club and Mrs. Miller and Lloyd LeMieux.

CARD PARTY

Mrs. J. W. Hildenbrand Wednesday afternoon was hostess at an informal card party at their home in South Marshfield. The home was in Christmas attire, the decorations being very clever. Refreshments were served. The prizes were won by Mrs. J. G. Kinney and Mrs. L. F. Denning. Those invited were Mrs. L. F. Denning, Mrs. H. L. Crawford, Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, Mrs. C. C. Goring, Mrs. Norris Jensen, Mrs. J. A. Stadden, Mrs. P. W. Dodson, Mrs. T. S. Harvey, Mrs. J. G. Kinney, Mrs. Wm. Schroeder, Mrs. Sylvester Jones, Mrs. H. A. Wells, Mrs. C. B. Wells, Mrs. R. N. Fenton, Mrs. E. P. LeMieux, Mrs. H. Fourier and Mrs. Harry Bradford.

SURPRISE PARTY

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Houseworth were the recipients of a most delightful surprise party at their beautiful home in South Marshfield Thursday evening. Cards and dancing were followed by refreshments. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Burgett, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Neff, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McKnight, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Haines, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reid and Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Gettins.

CLUB MEETING

Mrs. J. G. Kinney was hostess at an informal gathering yesterday afternoon, her guests being a little club which meets each Thursday, the meeting being postponed this week on account of New Years. Next week they will meet with Mrs. Sylvester Jones at her new home on North Broadway and Birch.

D. M. C.

The D. M. C. Club will meet January 14 with Mrs. Robert Simpson at North Bend.

MISSIONARY MEETING

The Baptist Missionary Society will be entertained next Wednesday by Mrs. A. Z. Downs at her home on South Broadway. Mrs. A. F. Bassford will be the leader and the subject will be Japan.

BRIDGE CLUB.

The Marshfield Bridge Club was delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. G. W. Kaufman at her home in West Marshfield. It was a sort of Christmas party. Mrs.

COLDS TO BE TAKEN SERIOUSLY

Intelligent people realize that common colds should be treated promptly. If there is sneezing and chilliness with hoarseness, tickling throat and coughing, begin promptly the use of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It is effective, pleasant to take, checks a cold and stops the cough, which causes loss of sleep and lowers the vital resistance. Owl Prescription Pharmacy, Frank D.
