Watkins' Observations

Marshfield, Or., Jan. 6, 1914.

Editor Times:

It is undoubtedly true that the manner of Mr. Taft's nomination had something to do with his defeat and the defeat of his party. That Mr.
Roosevelt's personal following also contributed to the result, no one denies. However, with these elements eliminated, the writer believes Mr.
Taft would have been overwhelmingly defeated anyway.

And why? Because it seems to me it is plain that the folks had had enough of Mr. Taft and his policies.
Because they believed there were too many unfulfilled promises; too much effort, time and money expended on the great game of how not to do it, commonly known as "horse play;" too much Aldrich, Mulhall and in-earned mileage and too many free shaves and free baths. The people felt there was something radically wrong and wanted something done.
Their idea of just what ought to have been done was perhaps somewhat vague, but still they were determined to have something done anyway. They insisted that a remedy for their grievances, real or imaginary, should be sought and applied.

They sought for bread and instead received adjectives and scorn.

Naturally they wearied of all these round robins, special pleas and dilatory tactics and said as much in every possible way, whereupon Mr.
Taft operated that automatic smile and dared them; they took the dare and dumped the aforesaid, bag and baggage, into the rain barrel.

Are these not some of the facts in the rough? Uhuh! I think so.

I take it the manner of Mr. Taft's nomination or Mr. Roosevelt's following had little to do with the election of the U. S. Senator in this state, still the Republican candidate was defeated. And why? Because the candidate actively espoused the cause of Mr. Taft and his policies.

Had the candidate kept aloof, I feel assured he would have been elected, hands down. It is true the candidate posed as a Progressive and probably was so in fact, still, in the very nature of things most everyone thought he could not be a progressive in the general acceptance of the term at the time and stand in the wake of His Ossified Highness.

Now the plain truth is that many of the wandering boys tonight are not going back to the Republican party.
They espoused the cause of that party when and because it was virile and progressive. The lure is with the living and not with the dead; it is with those who do things.

Life in the depth of the tail uncut may not be a continual round of political joy, still it is preferable to the morgue.

It would seem that the party is in need of a lot of repair.

The application of a little goose grease here and there and a bread and milk poultice in one place and another won't do.

Resort to heroic treatment must be had, especially in this state.

If the party shall be effectually rehabilitated and overtakes the wanderers, comes alongside, many will gladly join the procession, but they are not going back—they are not going back.

The craft must needs be steamed and steered rapidly ahead by those who have seen the light, else it won't get anywhere.

It won't do to expend all its motive power in the eternal blowing of the whistle.

The folks expect greater results and less noise.

Yours with an eye on the storm cellar.

FEDERAL JUDGE

Court of Appeals Affirms Sentence of Twenty-four of Iron Workers

[By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The judge of the Federal District Court at Indianapolis in sentencing to prison thirty members of the International Association of Iron Workers was affirmed today by the United States Court of Appeals here in twenty-four cases and six cases were reversed. These were remanded to the lower court for retrial.

The defendants are Olaf Tveitmoe, San Francisco; William McCain, Kansas City; James Ray, Peoria; Richard Houllhan, Chicago; Fred Sherman, Indianapolis and William Bernhardt, Cincinnati. The sentence of seven years penal servitude against Frank Ryan, of Chicago, president of the association, was also affirmed.

There were thirty-two convictions in the dynamite cases growing out of the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times. Two of the convicted did not appeal.

ADOPT PLANS TO AID NEEDY

Marshfield Fellowship Club Secures Quarters on the Waterfront

The special committee of the Marshfield Fellowship Club yesterday made plans for temporarily caring for the needy men who have been drifting to Coos Bay the last few months from the railroad camps and elsewhere. R. M. Jennings, A.
T. Haines, W. F. McEldowney and Rev. Samuel Gregg are on the committee.

They will have the co-operation of Bart Doremus and have arranged to convert a warehouse on the waterfront in the rear of Mr. Doremus' employment agency into a reading room and sleeping room. This will be under Mr. Doremus' supervision. It is planned to have business men and others subscribe to a small fund for its upkeep and reading matter will probably be donated.

Meal tickets at the various restaurants will be issued to the men until they can get employment and each man assisted will be asked to reimburse them when he gets on his feet and help maintain it to assist others. No one will be allowed to bring liquor into the place and parties receiving its benefits will be warned against indulging too freely and if they do not heed will be denied future assistance.

While there is not a great number to be aided, there are occasionally some, and the committee has devised the most practical way of meeting the needs and also the least expensive. Its success is assured by the co-operation of Mr. and Mrs. Doremus.

NEW MEN TO OPEN BAKERY

Messrs. Rinne and Peters Purchase White House Bakery—Open Thursday

Messrs. Rinne and Peters have closed negotiations for the purchase of the White House Bakery on Second street, near Central avenue, and have taken possession and are remodelling and overhauling the place.
They plan to open for business Thursday.

Mr. Peters has had twenty-seven years experience in the bakery business, having until he came to Coos Bay about four months ago, been identified with the largest bakery in San Francisco. He was with the bakery in North Bend the last four months. He is thoroughly up-to-date and is having the White House Bakery remodelled so that he will be able to turn out the best that any bakery can produce.

Mr. Rinne came here about a month ago from Berkeley, California, where he has been in business for some time.

Under the name of Marshfield Baking Company, they plan to give Coos Bay one of the best bakeries to be found on the coast.

[By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The executive committee of the Union Pacific railroad announced today that it would recommend the distribution among its stockholders of the Baltimore and Ohio stock owned by the company and valued at about $82,- in cash. It is estimated that on the present market value of the Baltimore and Ohio stock this is equivalent to an extra dividend of 33 per cent.

HIRAM SEEKS RE-ELECTION

California's Governor Reluctantly Consents to Run for Office Again.

[By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 7.—Hiram W. Johnson ended all conjectures as to his future political plans today by announcing he would seek re-election as Governor of California. He declared he had consented reluctantly to run for any office, but he personally preferred to run for United States Senator if his candidacy for the office was necessary. The wish of the majority, he said, guided his course in seeking the Governorship again.

NO EXECUTIVE COUNCIL PROBE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 7.— President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor today announced that a meeting of the executive council was contemplated to take up the Calumet strike situation.
At their regular meeting on January 19 the council will discuss the situation, but Gompers said today he saw nothing yet for further action than the federation has already taken, such as aid to miners. The same situation prevails in the Colorado coal strike, he said.

THE AGED FATHER.

Years ago my home was mine,
With children prattling at my knee, A happy home, with thoughts sublime

Of what the future seemed to me.

From early morn, till set of sun, My laboring hours ne'er were done My thoughts they always seemed to be,

How well I'd raise my family.

And from my work I'd homeward wend

With happy thoughts of childish glee, When to my heart their greetings bend,

With fondest love and kisses free.

But now I'm growing old and gray, My feeble steps are in the way;

My children now would turn me down

And o'er my ruin crave renown.

Oh! What a world of pain and woe, For such a feeble frame as I;

As through this life I tottering go,
'Tis naught but cruel shame I cry.
