GOV. WEST'S DEPORTATION?

(Portland Oregonian)
WHEN a half dozen or so members of the I. W. W. descended on Western Lane with intent to create sufficient trouble to make for themselves a living without work, they were quietly but firmly requested to leave the country. They did, and the statehouse at Salem rang with denunciations by a Governor whose sense of justice and admiration of law and constitutional government had been outraged by the peace-loving citizens of Lane County.

When ten times as many trouble-makers descended on Salem, pretending to want work but not wanting it, and camped on the Governor's doorstep, invaded the precincts of the Capitol and overran the streets and public places, they were quietly but firmly requested to move on. They did so.

To deport is to deport. There is no law that authorizes a city or county to force men to move on. They may be punished for law violations if guilty, but there is no legal sanction for insisting that undesirable remove their presence from one locality and inflict it upon another.

Reduced to hard facts there is no distinction between the Florence incident and the Salem incident. Yet there is no talk of martial law in Merion County. No denouncing of officers of the law. No threats of removal from office. All of which leads us to suppose that a close-range view of trouble and a little personal taste of its consequences cool off the hottest of long-distance fire-eaters.

LOCAL OVERFLOW.

Coquille Paper Changes.—It is reported here that Lew A. Cates has sold the Coquille Valley Sentinel, which he has so ably edited the past year, to a new man named Young. Mr. Young is highly recommended. Mr. Cates will go to St. Louis.

Vessels Barbound.—Alva Doll, who returned today from Bandon, says that the Speedwell, Fifield and two or three other vessels are still barbound there. Bandon is progressing rapidly he says and a most prosperous year is anticipated there.

To Oppose Suit.—A. H. Stutsman, named as defendant in a suit brought by George Goodrum to collect $25 for the storage of the defendant's auto in his garage, stated today that no attachment had been filed on his machine and that he was going to fight the collection of the sum by attachment proceedings in court.

One Drunk Fined.—Ed Crow, detained at the city sanitarium for inebriates, was hauled before City Recorder Butler this morning and fined $5, the regular price for spending one day in the institution. The city sanitarium is said to be the highest priced hospital for drunks in the county.

LUMBER ADRIFT ALONG COAST

Alliance Easily Rides Out Hurricane—Yellowstone and Chatham Seen

Coming up the coast this morning from Eureka, the steamer Alliance, Captain Lofstedt passed the damaged steam schooner Yellowstone off Cape Blanco this morning at 5:30 o'clock and the officers report that the William Chatham had parted the line she had aboard the craft and was endeavoring to get another line aboard when they saw her last in the darkness.

Captain Lofstedt reported passing through large quantities of lumber between Cape Arago and Cape Blanco and it is presumed that the most of it is from the deckload lost by the Yellowstone during the hurricane on Saturday morning.

On her way south to Eureka from Marshfield the Alliance ran into the hurricane just after passing Blanco about 7 o'clock in the evening. The Alliance spoke Cape Blanco by wireless and learned that the wind was blowing 85 miles an hour about 9 o'clock at night and was increasing in force. He declared that it was impossible to stay on the deck of the ship without holding on to something.

"The Alliance rode the big seas like a duck," declared Captain Lofstedt, enthusiastically. "The seas were tremendous and the wind was terrific, but although unable to make more than a couple of miles an hour against the gale, the Alliance did not take any solid water on board. Nothing but spray came over the bow, and except making slow time, she was not bothered at any time."

The Alliance made the Eureka bar a few hours after arriving there and the officers were astonished to learn of the trouble experienced by the Yellowstone and Fair Oaks on their arrival here today. The Alliance had so little trouble holding her own against the hurricane that it was not expected that any steamers had sustained damage.

Included in the freight brought up from Eureka by the Alliance was a large Locomobile touring car for E. G. Perham, the North Bend contractor, shipped up from California by W. D. Hutchinson.

The Alliance will clear for Portland tomorrow morning at 5:30 o'clock and all passengers will be expected to board the craft tonight.

The passenger list arriving in was as follows:

Frank Chase, Fred Simon, Georgia V. Smith, E. Schroeder, Jack Davis, O. S. Mash, Mrs. Ella Keir, A. J. Dillon, E. L. Feese, W. D. Hutchinson, Harry Halt and Frank Work.

NORTH BEND NEWS.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid Society of North Bend will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Hevener.

SISTERHOOD MEETS.

The Sisterhood of the North Bend Christian church will meet with Mrs. Tope on Wednesday afternoon. At 6 o'clock refreshments will be served, consisting of "mush and milk" and sandwiches.

R. E. PINEGOR, who has been employed at the Smith-Powers camp at Coaledo, has returned to Marshfield and will probably go on the road for some time.

For Rate Change.—J. V. Smeaton, general manager of the C. A. Smith company, has a lengthy article in the current issue of the Pioneer Western Lumberman of San Francisco advocating a reduction in the freight rates on lumber.

D.R. HODGE TO LECTURE HERE

Specialist on Nature Study to Speak in Marshfield on January 27.

Dr. C. F. Hodge, extension lecturer of the University of Oregon, and late of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., will arrive in Marshfield next week and will deliver a free lecture at the Methodist church on the evening of January 27. He will speak on "The Conservation of National Health and Vitality."

Dr. Hodge was born in 1859 at Janesville, Wis., on a farm next but one to Forest Home, the birthplace of Frances Willard.

Dr. Hodge, who graduated from Oberlin, received his A. B. degree in 1882, having taken the full classical course. After graduating he went to Montana for a summer trip and remained there four years, working as civil engineer on the Northern Pacific and U. S. land surveys. The winter of 1883 he began his serious preparation for his professional work at the Johns Hopkins University, from which he received his Ph. D. degree in 1889.

According to Dr. Hodge there is no reason for the people of any community shutting themselves behind screened doors and windows all summer, with the flies left to sport freedom as they will. Oregon, Dr. Hodge declares, can be entirely freed of flies, and he plans to show the people of the state, through the school children, as well as their parents, how this can be done.

For two years the Oregon school children have had one enthusiasm—school and home gardens, with convincing displays at every county fair this year, as well as at the State Fair. Now at the psychological moment in this industrial work comes Dr. Hodge to show the children of the state how to continue this work to accomplish the greatest results. The standard he will hold up to the boys and girls will not be a bushel of splendid potatoes picked from an acre, but a perfect hill of potatoes. If a boy can raise a perfect hill of potatoes, he can raise a field of perfect hills, and that is work that counts.

They will be shown how to work for the best results; how to keep exact records of the results, that in another year they will know how much to expect from a certain variety of seed, what is the best variety for any given locality. The child's garden study problems will be solved by an intelligent understanding of the simple scientific principles governing the work.

Dr. Hodge would have the Oregon school children building bird fountains in all the school yards, and in their own home yards, throughout the state. No better means can be afforded for studying bird life.

HOW MARY GOT A NEW SUIT

Mary had wanted a new suit since early this fall. She had looked carefully over the assortment to be had in town, and many times tried them on and every time she had a suit on that she thought would become her style of beauty, the price would be $40, $45 and $47.50. Now Mary had made up her mind that she would not pay over $25 for a suit, and every time she tried on one of the cheaper suits, after she had seen and tried the more expensive ones, she could not satisfy herself with the cheaper suits, so she waited, and had waited ever since, until her friend called on her and told of the beautiful suit she had bought a few days ago at THE WESTERN OUTFITTING COMPANY'S STORE. She told Mary they had the biggest values she had ever seen in her born days. Mary replied that she had seen the store but had not gone in as she did not expect to find anything very attractive. However, after a little persuasion from Carrie she decided to visit the store. On entering she was cheerfully received and said: "I came to price some of your suits. I do not intend to buy today but would like to see them."

"I was shown the most beautiful line of suits I have ever seen this fall and tried on a suit of chiffon broadcloth, elaborately trimmed in silk velvet collar and cuffs, silk lined throughout with draped skirt, fancy buttons and a slit on the side of the skirt. It fitted me so nicely and I was astonished when I was asked only $23.75 for the suit. It was really a $47.50 suit of the latest cut and style."

Now it is the talk of the town how Mary got that suit. THE WESTERN OUTFITTING COMPANY'S STORE is located in the Russ-B building on Central avenue.

AMONG THE SICK.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Rhodes of South Inlet, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is reported to be getting along nicely. It was discovered that the appendicitis was caused by a single shot, presumably eaten in the meat of a wild duck.
