WHEN TIME BEGAN.

An hour and a minute
 Took a walk
 Out of the clock
 And off for a talk.
 But soon they fell out,
 And the looks of the hour
 Were distinctly unkind
 And dreadfully sour,
 And the minute scowled,
 And shook his head,
 And to the hour
 Proudly said:
 "At the beginning of time
 I made my debut,
 Just fifty-nine seconds
 Earlier than you."
 But as he boasted
 A second came,
 Glanced at the minute
 And called his name.
 Then the second smiled.

At the Churches

(Ministers and others are requested to hand in the Sunday church notices not later than Friday evening to insure insertion Saturday.)

Go to church tomorrow; it may do you good;
 Go and learn your duty, as a Christian should;
 You may hear a sermon that will give you cheer,
 Truths may there be spoken that you ought to hear;
 Cease to think of money for a little while;
 Go and learn that virtue isn't out of style;
 Go and learn that kindness is a splendid thing,
 Go and hear the anthems that you used to sing;
 Bow your head and listen when the preacher prays,
 Let your fancy wander back to other days—
 Back to home and mother; try again to be
 Strong in what she taught you kneeling at her knee.
 Learn that God still watches when a sparrow falls;
 Learn that He will listen when the sinner calls;
 Learn that they are bravest who are kind and just;
 Learn that One is ruling whom we still may trust;
 Be once more a member of Christ's Brotherhood—
 Go to church tomorrow; it may do you good.
