

JAMES FERRARI IS ACCUSED

being given the desired melody. Ferrari came down and threatened to "clean up" on the bunch, saying that he "would cut their hearts out." He then testified of his trip to Galli's shack, of the visit of Ferrari in quest of a gun, of his fight with Galli to get the gun, of his going out and hearing two shots, of Galli's return and the remark: "You fellows better get out of here, I killed a man." He further testified that while on his way to Beaver Hill he heard another shot fired.

Ferrari Is Brought In.

While Bravine was testifying Ferrari was brought in in custody of Sheriff Gage, with Robert O. Graves, who was retained by the accused to represent him at last night's inquest. Ferrari is an Italian by birth and has worked in coal mines around Coos Bay for the past six years. He was awarded $6000 damages for the loss of a foot in the Beaver Hill coal mine some time ago. District Attorney Liljeqvist was retained at that time as his attorney against the Beaver Hill mine and it was through the efforts of Liljeqvist that he received the damages.

"Where's Your Gun?"

John Dempsey, a miner from Beaver Hill, was the next witness called to testify. He said: "We were all standing down by the road and I sent someone to Ferrari's to get a drink. He sent him back and he told us if you all come up, we will have a good time. We went up and had one bottle of beer when the fight started. I don't know how it commenced, but Skinny and Jim Ferrari was fighting. We left this place and went to the dock and heard a little music when Jim and a big bunch came down and made a fight. We started for the house of Galli and asked for a lamp and after a few minutes Ferrari came in and said: "Where's your gun, John?" Galli would not give him the gun but he took it and went outside. I heard two shots and then he came and knocked on the door in a little while and said "I killed a man." He tried to get more shells, but Galli said no more.

Wagner Testified.

Tony Wagner, a miner employed at Beaver Hill, testified along the same lines as the previous witness with the exception that he saw Dempsey and Bravine outside the Galli shack when he was inside. He also testified that when Jimmie returned with his smoking gun he said: "I've got them." Wagner then left for Beaver Hill and says that while on his way out there he heard another shot. He further testified that when his gang arrived back at Beaver Hill it was 1:55 a. m.

O. Bravine of Beaver Hill also testified that he was in Galli's shack when the shots were fired and that he also heard someone yell from down on the road: "Don't shoot any more—you've killed one man already. Bring a lantern down here." Tony Klum of Henryville related how the factions started a row early in the evening, culminating in one grand free-for-all later on.

"I'm Killed!"

Bert Wilson, a miner at Henryville, was the next witness called. He related how the row started early in the afternoon. "On Sunday afternoon I went up to Ferrari's with a few friends and while we were there Ferrari engaged in a fight with Slim. We left the place and went down to the dock and heard the musician, and then I returned home. Just as I was about to get into bed Kelley came up and said that Ferrari was raising hell and that he feared that Dell Hennessey was the victim of foul play, as he could not be found. I suggested that we start out and look for Dell and we did. We started down to the road that passes Galli's shack in the gulch, and just as we came to the trestle Kelley suggested that we turn out our hat lamps. Just as we did someone fired a shot from the direction of Galli's shack. Another shot followed in quick succession, one striking Kelley and the other entering my leg. Kelley rolled over and shouted "I'm killed!" I tried to pick him up but he was in such agony that he would not let me touch him. I yelled up in the direction from which the shot had come: "You've killed one man and you'd better quit shooting and bring a lantern. Nobody responded, however, and I attempted to carry Kelley to the house. I carried him a short distance and was exhausted. He then attempted to crawl on his belly, and just then we met the timekeeper. "Was there considerable drunkenness among the crew Sunday night?" asked Rev. Gregg. "Yes," answered Wilson, "everyone was pretty drunk."

Poked Poker in Window.

John Ganley was called to testify. "I had been over to Ferrari's and down on the dock, and he was bounding me around, so I sought to get up near the shack to get away from him. When I got up near the shack I saw Ferrari through the window and resolved to retaliate for the tricks and persecutions he was subjecting me to. I took a poker which I had in my hand and fired it through a window at him, breaking the window. I then went and hid in the brush and someone came out and fired two shots from the porch of the shack. At first I thought they were shooting from the hole which I made in the window."

Ferrari Takes Stand.

Jim Ferrari, the accused, next took the stand and denied all the testimony given by the others. He said that he had come to Henryville shortly before Christmas and asked for a job. He further testified that Dell Hennessey said that he would give him the first opening. After hanging around a week or so he purchased a house for $30. At the end of the second week he met Hennessey on the road and reminded him of his promise that he would give employment. Hennessey then said, according to the witness, "You don't need to work. Why don't you do like the rest of 'em—go to selling booze?" "From that day on I sold booze," testified Ferrari. He denied that he had ever had a gun in his hand on Sunday evening, that he had made any statements threatening bodily harm to anyone, and that he went to Galli's shack to secure a bed for his associates for the night. He further stated that he was at his home when the shooting occurred.

Miller Best Witness.

Charles Miller, who lives near Henryville close to the scene of the shooting, was the best witness of the evening for both sides, clearly stating what had happened. He said that the gang that was fighting Ferrari were all down under the bridge when he first saw them. He went down from his house and asked them what the trouble was. They asked him for a gun, saying that they must have some firearm to protect themselves. Mr. Miller testified that they were all pretty drunk and that he realized that if he gave them a gun and they did any shooting he would be guilty of the crime. He brought the gang to his house and offered them shelter, but after they had coaxed him for firearms for about twenty minutes they all disappeared. He said that a fellow with a lantern was standing near the shack at a gate whom he thinks was Ferrari, saying: "Cut the heart out of them."

Liljeqvist Does Good Work.

If it were not for the timely arrival of District Attorney Liljeqvist from Salem, the investigation would have concluded with the release of the three miners charged with rioting. It was mainly through the efforts of Coroner Wilson and Liljeqvist that Ferrari was brought to face a jury. Ferrari was taken to Coquille today by a county officer, where he will probably be indicted for the murder of Kelley by the grand jury at the April term of circuit court.

Court Reporter A. D. Loud took all the evidence at the inquest and the geography of the country where the shooting occurred was simplified by a sketch of it that P. M. Hall-Lewis had prepared.

TEAMS TO PLAY VALLEY TONIGHT

Marshfield at Myrtle Point and North Bend at Coquille

Tonight's the night the basketball teams on Coos Bay have been looking forward to for some time. Coquille and North Bend will play at Coquille for the championship of the county. That's what it amounts to for the one that wins, as both teams have defeated all comers so far. Marshfield and Myrtle Point will also toss the ball around at Myrtle Point this evening.

The North Bend team left on the afternoon train for Coquille to try out on the floor for a few hours before the game. The North Bend team is in fine shape and should they lose, it will not be for want of practice.

The Coquille boys have not been overlooking any bets and have been training very hard for the past week. The North Bend team defeated Coquille by a score of 14 to 10 last Friday evening.

In order that North Bend will not be without its rooting section, the special train chartered for the occasion will leave for Coquille tonight at 7:30 loaded with enthusiasts and friends of the North Bend team. The special will return to Marshfield immediately after the game and should arrive in Marshfield not later than 11:15.
