The Metropolitan Opera House Of New York Uses 53 Hardman Pianos

The Metropolitan Opera Company, of New York City, the most distinguished musical organization in the world, uses exclusively one of the two or three most distinguished of the world's pianos of distinction.

The following is a copy of a letter received from the manager of this opera company to Hardman, Peck & Co., manufacturers of the Hardman Piano.

"Gentlemen: It gives me great pleasure, on behalf of the Metropolitan Opera House, and also the artists who have taken part in the performances during the season just closing, to thank you for the Hardman Pianos which have been supplied since last November, and to express the thorough satisfaction that we all feel in these instruments, which, of course, we use exclusively.

The Hardman Pianos have been in constant use in the dressing rooms of the artists, in the orchestra and elsewhere for practical work besides a large number were used by the artists in their private apartments. The fine tone quality, fullness and splendid durability of these pianos are fully recognized by everyone here.

We shall start upon the coming season with complete assurance in regard to the unqualified satisfaction the Hardman Pianos will give to us and to our artists.

Believe me, Yours very truly, JOHN BROWN

Last week we ordered a Hardman Grand and sold it on the day of arrival and have ordered another of these fine instruments to arrive on the next steamer from Portland.

We are always pleased to have musical people drop in at our store and try our instruments. THEY BEAR INSPECTION.

Sheet Music: All popular music, 15c the copy. McKinley Edition, 10c a copy. New pieces every week.
