Will Build.—Perry Dodson is making arrangements to build a fine five-room cottage on Southwest boulevard in First Addition as a home for himself and family.

Pioneer's Birthday.—Capt. John Maxton, one of the best known pioneers of Coos Bay, celebrated his 72nd birthday this week. He has been on Coos Bay about forty-two years.

Start Wharf.—Contractor L. O. Strommen started driving piling this morning for the new dock and warehouse which the Port of Coos Bay is erecting for the Union Oil Company and others.

For New Cafe.—The Flanagan building on Front street, formerly occupied by the Pioneer Grocery, is being remodelled for the new cafe which C. A. Holmes and J. F. Millard will start there.

For Patients.—W. L. Brown and wife, attendants at the Oregon State Asylum, arrived here from Salem yesterday to take back three insane persons who are now confined in the county jail at Coquille.

Poor Season.—The season for steelhead salmon on Coos Bay will close on the morning of March 20. There has been a very poor run of steelheads here this spring and the catch is far below the normal.

Ferry Traffic.—During the month of February Capt. Alex Hall of the Ferry Transit carried 5294 passengers, 49 autos, 98 double teams, 234 single rigs and 48 head of stock between Marshfield and Eastside.

Delays Trip.—Judge Coke, who returned yesterday from Coquille, received a wire from Judge Harris at Eugene today stating that Judge Coke would not be required to be there until March 16 instead of March 12, to hold court.

Meet Tomorrow.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of North Bend will be entertained at the home of Mrs. R. O. Thorpe in Marshfield tomorrow afternoon. The Marshfield Ladies' Aid is also to be in attendance.

Mail Late.—The Coos Bay mail was three hours late today, arriving at the Marshfield postoffice at 9 a. m. Captain A. F. Masters of the mail boat reports today's mail as the latest of the season. The delay was caused by a slide near Brewster Canon.

Trouble With Engine.—The old fire engine which had been pressed into service at the mouth of Mill Slough started bucking Monday afternoon and necessitated its removal to the fire house for repairs. A centrifugal pump was installed in its stead to finish the work.

Large Output.—J. Sweet of Sweet Brothers, returned from a trip to Cape Blanco today. Mr. Sweet is very enthusiastic over the workings of the new gold machine he has operated on the beach near Blanco for the past month. According to him, one machine in 28 1-2 hours running took out $30 in gold and $90 in platinum.

New Wire Chief.—J. W. Roney, who has been with the Coos Bay Home Telephone Company for some time, will succeed G. K. Gee as wire chief of the company. Mr. and Mrs. Gee leave tomorrow for California, where they will visit for

LUMBER MILLS WILL RESUME

Claim That Only 39 of 690 Plants in Oregon Now Idle Many New Ones

PORTLAND, Or., March 4.—There have been repeated signs of an awakened activity in the logging and lumber industry in Oregon which augur well for an improved general condition when a busy season of spring and summer arrives. Intermittent reports mention the reopening of mills and camps here and there over the timbered territory of both Oregon and Washington.

Announcement was made recently of the opening of a new mill at Wheeler, in Tillamook, that has a capacity of 140,000 feet of lumber daily. The plant is owned by John Du Bois and C. H. Wheeler, pioneer lumber men in the Nehalem country. This mill cost $250,000 and with the camp included, employs 425 men.

Work to Be Resumed.
 The Silverton Lumber company is planning to resume the operation of its large plant in Marion county in the immediate future, and the big mill of the Booth-Kelly company is being rebuilt at Springfield, Lane county, on an immense scale. This plant and the new one at Wheeler will be among the most modern in the northwest.

The Clark & Wilson mill at Linnton resumed full operations some time ago, after a partial pause for repairs, and the Western Oregon Lumber company, with a daily capacity of 100,000 feet, started last week.

The Grand Ronde Lumber Company at Perry and the Nibley-Minnanah company at Wallowa are reported to be preparing to start work before April 1.

Rumor is current that an entirely new mill with a large capacity will be launched in the Willamette Valley in the coming summer.

Washougal Camps to Open.
 A dispatch from Washougal reports that the camps in that locality will begin work this week and that the largest camp, that of the Du Bois Lumber company of Ariel, has already started.

The Harvey Milling company of Vancouver, Wash., resumed operations in the early part of February, with the initial employment of 100 men.

Among the other wide-awake camps in southwestern Washington are those of the Mutual Lumber company at Tenino, the Martin mill at Centralia, the Buland Shingle company at Castle Rock and the Venness mill at Winlock, Wash.

According to statistics furnished by State Labor Commissioner Hoff, of Salem, there are 690 sawmills, shingle mills, box factories and planing mills in the state, 423 of which are sawmills, and it is estimated by him that of this total only 39 are now idle. His figures show that 22,262 are employed in the lumber industry in Oregon and that they receive a total annual income of $12,663,858.18. The average daily wage is $1.79 during the working season.

In Marshfield via the Myrtle Point stage on Monday. Mr. Bunting pronounces the trip from Roseburg to Myrtle Point full of the usual joys that are to be found traveling over that road in rainy weather. Mr. Bunting will take a position with the North Bend Manufacturing company as draftsman.

SUE'S SOOTHING SUITOR
 Susan, a soubrette from the Soo, Sued a suitor who failed to suit Sue. Said Sue to the suitor: "Show a suitable suit, or Suppress tonight that superfine Slou!"

NORTH BEND NEWS
 W. Stein purchased the Buick roadster from Dr. Ira B. Bartle of North Bend on Monday. Mr. Stein will be instructed in the art of driving a machine by Fred Page, one of the former Gorst & King drivers.
 The good ship Neverask will be remodelled in order that it may have motive power to travel with the speed of her owner, J. W. Pitney, by the installation of a new propeller. Mr. Pitney says that the old propeller was inefficient to stand the speed which he desired to obtain from the craft, hence the improvement.
 A. Quatermass, manager of the Star Theater of North Bend, who has been ill for the past month, is rapidly regaining his former health.
 L. G. Meeks will leave soon for Spokane and other northern points.
 Ince Haumond and bride have returned here from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Greenough at Bandon.

awhile before proceeding via Seattle to Minneapolis where they will make their future home.

Coos Bay Looks Good.—Emerson Harris, of Salem, a retired capitalist, is making an inspection and investigation of Coos Bay and its prospects. He expresses himself as very favorably impressed and says Coos Bay looks better than any place in Oregon. Mr. Harris is an old time friend of L. S. Smith and they have been renewing their friendship during his stay here.

Fancy Price Paid.—It is stated that Geo. F. Murch paid $550 per acre for ten acres of orchard off the former Geo. Beale ranch on South Coos River, which he recently bought from Matt Justrom. The tract is all in bearing trees and Mr. Murch is arranging to have it developed into one of the best orchards in Oregon. It is near Mr. Murch's summer home on Coos River.

New Clerk at Lando's.—Mrs. R. Etherington has accepted a position in Lando's. Mrs. Etherington, who is a late arrival from California, has had years of experience in the East and West and comes highly recommended. She takes the place of Miss Farley, who has resigned to accept a position with her father. The addition of Mrs. Etherington is but one step in the progressive policy now being inaugurated by this firm.

Will Return.—Rev. R. O. Thorpe has received word that Madame Marta Sandal, the noted Norwegian songstress, will return here for two concerts about March 13. One will be given in the Masonic Opera House in Marshfield and the other in North Bend. Mme. Sandal appeared here a few months ago under the auspices of the Marshfield Norwegian Lutheran church and scored a distinct hit, and will be welcomed on her return.
