REPORT MADE
ON MINERALS

Prof. Diller Compiles New Volume on Southwestern Oregon Mines

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18.—Southwestern Oregon has long been known for its widespread and varied mineral resources, among which gold, silver, copper, platinum and coal are the most important. They have been the subject of investigation for a number of years by J. S. Diller, of the United States Geological Survey, and the results have just been published in Bulletin 546.

The gold rush of '49 landed many a prospector in southwestern Oregon. Placers were opened and placer mining has ever since continued to be a thriving branch of mineral industry. The gold produced in southwestern Oregon before 1881 can not be very closely estimated, but it was many millions of dollars, while from 1881 to 1912 inclusive the production of gold has been $11,257,772. During the ten years 1902 to 1912 inclusive the placer mines produced $2,014,715 and the lode mines $1,523,226. Besides the gold and a considerable amount of copper the production of silver during the same period was valued at $63,385, of platinum $15,293, and of coal $2,602,122.

The gold of the bedrock series in the Klamath Mountains, which include the Siskiyou and Salmon mountains, was deposited in veins and pockets in connection with the upheaval of the mountains at the close of the Jurassic geologic period. Ever since then the disintegration and erosion of these rocks has furnished the gold for the auriferous gravels.

The encircling beaches of the ancient "Siskiyou Island," which was surrounded by the early Cretaceous sea, contain the oldest auriferous gravels, now mined at the Forty-nine and other mines, from Arbuckle in California to Waldo in Oregon. The ocean waves, aided by the land streams, washed away the mountains and by long, deep weathering of the gold-veined rocks freed the gold for concentration by stream action into a series of auriferous basins from Gold Basin, 4000 feet above the sea, and the much later and lower "old channels" to those of the present stream bars.

Bulletin 546 is replete with illustrations and maps showing the location of all the principal mines and prospects in southwestern Oregon. It may be obtained free by application to the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

WOMEN IN DRESS VIC-TIMS OF MILL CONSPIRACY
NEW YORK, March 18.—"If a woman can't button her own dress, she shouldn't vote. How would woman, who is the slave of the powder box, treat the freedom of the ballot box?" Those are questions put by Miss Nina Wilcox Putnam, feminist. Miss Putnam has her own ideas on dress, and thinks "Women of today are the unknowing victims of a huge, carefully organized sartorial conspiracy. Textile mill owners, designers and manufacturers are banded together in control of fashion; and before a garment has come to a state of disuse, a radically new model and material is presented which will make the old one look ridiculous by comparison and they must spend money which in many cases they cannot spare. I do not urge women to adopt my style of dress," continued this little woman, "but to have the courage to follow her own ideas." Miss Putnam's costume, at the time of this interview, consisted of a skirt and bolero of brown woolen stuff, with a bodice of figured yellow silk, with apparently no fastenings other than a quaint old brooch. There was neither belt nor collar. "I don't like to bother with buttons or hooks and eyes," she explained, "so my costumes are made to slip over my head and to stay on without artificial fastenings." The general effect was of textiles draped to an uncorseted figure. But then, as she concluded: "One should be able to wear what one pleases, without coercion or the impertinence of criticism from someone whose names happen to differ."

HUBBARD'S NEW PLAN
Elbert Hubbard, of the Roycrofters, has written a communication to the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce asking that the names of the active membership be forwarded to him in order that he may send a pamphlet to them which, according to his letter, purports to be regarding the strings that are held by the National Government on the progress of the country.

FEW FOLKS HAVE
GRAY HAIR NOW

Well-Known Local Druggist Says Everybody is Using Old-time Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.
