SPRING IN AN ATTIC.

Tressed in the old cedar chest,
Faint perfumes hung about it,
With India shawl and satin vest,
In paper wrapped we found it.
The roses pallid turned from pink,
The ribbons frail and yellow,
A bit of gauze, of lace, a link
Grown fine and mellow.

O relic of a bygone day,
A vintage past, forgotten,
When girls wore bonnets made this way
And danced in gowns of cotton,
Why were you left to linger here,
To pine alone in tissue?
Did she, perhaps, decide you queer
And never miss you?

Where is she now, that winsome girl
Who one glad springtime wore you?
Did she set dandies' hearts awhirl
And hearts aflutter o'er you?
And was the face beneath the brim
Proud, pouting, shy or simple?
Tell us, O rosebud pinkly dim,
Was there a dimple?

Go back, O hat of other days,
To shelter where we found you,
Safe from our coldly modern gaze,
Your spicy scents around you,
For with some gallant, ardent swain,
When midnight chimes emp'atic,
You sweet old ghost may come again
To walk the attic.

—Kate Masterson.

A WOMAN'S DEMANDS

THAT a man be as iron to all the world, but putty in her hands.

That he will be a creature of inflexible determination, BUT let her wind him around her finger.

That he will know how to kiss, BUT that she will be the first woman he ever kissed.

That he will be an adept at love making, says Dorothy Dix, BUT never utter a word of sentiment to any woman except herself.

That he will always notice how she looks, BUT be blind to every other woman's appearance.

That he will admire her when she is dressed up and her hair waved, BUT that she will be equally beautiful to him when she has on a dirty kimono and her hair in curl papers.

That he will never fail to go into ecstasies over the cooking when the dinner is good, BUT that he will not mind a burnt roast, nor watery vegetables.

That he will have no nerves himself, BUT will know how to make allowance for nerves in his wife.

That he will be the head of the house, BUT permit his wife to say where they will live, what they shall spend, where they shall go, whom they shall know.

That he will consider it a privilege to roll all day to support his family, AND be delighted to see around half the night with his wife to parties and theaters.

That he will be a cash register, AND a guitar, so to speak, one who can make money with both hands while discoursing the superhuman and the over soul.

That he should adore his wife, he would be utterly miserable when she is out of his sight, BUT be perfectly willing for her to go off for three month jaunts to Europe without him.

That he should honor his wife by marrying her, BUT always be ready to ply her for having married him.

That he should never whine or complain about how hard a man has to work to support a family, BUT that he should be filled with sympathy over the hard lot of his wife for having to spend what he has made.

That he should be fond of his own family before marriage, BUT sever all relations with them as soon as he gets married and perceive that his wife's relations have an inalienable right to camp in the best bedroom, and have all the money spent in taking them about, and buying them presents.

That he should be a lion and not a mouse, BUT never dare to voice a command in his own house, or ask for a hook in a closet.

That he should be a crackerjack business man, BUT think it all right for his wife never to keep an account, or know where her money goes.

That he shall make money like Mr. Rockefeller, AND spout high-browed philosophy like a long haired Socialist.

Expecting all these divergent things, is it any wonder that so many women are disappointed in their husbands?

SURPRISE PARTY.

Mrs. J. D. McKay was the recipient of a most delightful surprise party at her home in Eastside last Saturday. She had almost forgotten that the day marked the sixty-fourth anniversary of her birth when a large crowd of friends and neighbors came in, bringing their lunch baskets with them. Games and music were followed by a sumptuous repast. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Prey, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Steckel, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore, Mr. and Mrs. E. Vineyard, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. McLagan, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Whitty, Mrs. F. A. Cassity, Mrs. Walter Robertson, Miss Hattie McKay and E. Peterson.

ENGAGEMENT.

Friends of Capt. Herman Edwards of Allegany, son of Capt. and Mrs. C. E. Edwards, of Allegany, and Miss Evelyn Langworthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Langworthy, have been apprised of their engagement, although the event has not been formally announced. They are among the best known young people in this vicinity and many will unite in congratulating Mr. Edwards upon the charming young lady he has won.

COQUILLE WEDDING

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Judge and Mrs. E. D. Sperry, Saturday evening, March 14, when their only daughter, Lucia, was united to William Wright Stratton. The impressive Episcopalian marriage service was used, Archdeacon Horsfall officiating.

The charming bride was elegantly gowned in a tailored suit and carried a shower bouquet of white lilies. Miss Clara Sherwood acted as maid of honor and Mr. H. O. Anderson as best man. The two large living rooms were profusely decorated with narcissus and ferns.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome gifts of cut glass, silver and household articles for the little cottage which they are furnishing and where they will be at home after Easter.

After the ceremony delicious refreshments were served. Those present were Judge and Mrs. E. D. Sperry, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Leneve, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, A. Lijevist, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard, Miss Clara Sherwood, H. O. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Norris Jensen, of Marshfield.

NEWLY-WEDS.

The Newly-Weds enjoyed a pleasant afternoon with Mrs. Elmer Vineyard at her home in Eastside Wednesday. A dainty lunch was served, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. Nick Stambone of Marshfield. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Stambone in Marshfield. Those enjoying Mrs. Vineyard's hospitality were Mrs. Jan McIntosh, Mrs. L. Sallag, Mrs. C. J. West, Mrs. John Vineyard, Sr.

YOUNG MATRONS

Mrs. J. Q. Jarvis entertained the Young Matrons last week at a very jolly sewing party at her home in Ferndale. Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Claybaugh, Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Grannis, Mrs. John Kendall, Mrs. Guy Kendall, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. Maloney were out. Mrs. F. C. Birch was a guest of the club. At 4 o'clock Mrs. Jarvis served a delicious lunch of steaming baked beans and Boston brown bread, assisted by her niece, Miss Jessie Trask, and her daughter, Ruth. This week the club met with Mrs. Guy Kendall, with Mrs. Grannis, Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. John Kendall, Mrs. Jarvis, Mrs. Maloney, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. McMillan present, and Mrs. Hildenbrand as special guest. Mrs. John Kendall will be hostess next Thursday.

PLAN SOCIAL.

The Marshfield Epworth League is planning for a big social next Friday night.

RANCH PARTY.

A most enjoyable party was given at the home of Mr. Charley Hagquist Saturday evening by the neighbors, who spent evening in dancing, followed by a splendid supper. The families present, with guests from Marshfield and Sumner, were those of Carl Egenhoff, Charles Dungan, John Grant,

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Last Sunday, N. G. Hames, of North Bend was the recipient of a surprise party there and the surprise was even extended to his wife

Music and games preceded refreshments. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Waukash, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Juza, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Olin, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Loomis and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brainard. Joe Emery, of North Bend, was also treated to a surprise party Wednesday evening in honor of his 28th birthday. Games and diversions were followed by a fine supper, a feature of which was an excellent birthday cake cooked by his mother.

NARCISSUS CLUB.

The Narcissus Club will be entertained next Wednesday evening by Miss Blanche Tellefson at her home in Eastside. The Club has decided to hold evening parties instead of afternoon sessions as it will be more convenient for most of the members.

ROOK PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Sumner will entertain at Progressive Rook next Tuesday evening.
