FANS TO MEET HERE TONIGHT

Harry Kimball and Ben Chandler Talked of For Manager—North Bend Meeting

MEET TONIGHT.

All interested in good baseball should be on hand at the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p. m. this evening. The report of the baseball fans committee will be received, the question of grounds will be discussed, and the home players will be heard regarding the question of imported players.

Who will manage the Marshfield baseball club this season? This question, which has been asked many times in the past two weeks, is no nearer being solved. The players are indifferent as to who the manager will be and the fans are picking men who will not accept.

Harry Kimball has been suggested by many a number of times, but each time he has refused to be connected in any way with the management. The players all consider him a good umpire, his rulings all being taken as final, thereby preventing useless wrangling on the diamond. With the appointment of a committee to whom the manager will be responsible, Mr. Kimball might be induced to accept. However, according to close friends and himself, he will decline any proposition in connection with the management.

Ben Chandler has been suggested by a score of persons to take the management and his nomination has met with the approval of all. However, Mr. Chandler himself thinks he has something to say about the matter and declines to act unless by actual necessity. Mr. Chandler feels that the position is a hard one and while he is thoroughly qualified to handle ball players and understands the business end of baseball, he would not want to devote his time to it if the services of Harry Kimball could be secured.

North Bend Meeting.

The North Bend baseball fans are planning a meeting in the North Bend Chamber of Commerce on Friday evening of this week. "Sharkey" Phillips is attempting to get the North Bend boys in shape so that they may be in readiness when a conference is held by the respective managers. One source of satisfaction that the North Benders possess is the grounds on Sherman avenue, which are in good shape, three games having been played this season. Mr. Phillips says that the North Bend ball players are slow about organizing and unless something is accomplished at the meeting Friday evening North Bend will have a mad rush on its hands in the organization of a baseball club at the eleventh hour.

RULE CHANGES FOR BASEBALL

Coaches Allowed More Leeway—Infield Fly and Pitcher's Restrictions

Several important changes have been adopted in the baseball rules for this season, one new rule is as follows: "If a coacher at third touches or holds a base runner, who is rounding third base for the home plate, the umpire shall declare such base runner out." Rule 58 regarding coaches, which formerly restricted the advice of the coach to the baserunner, is changed in such a way as to allow the coach to address words of assistance, and direction to the base runner or the batsman, and also to any member of his own team but not to the opposing team. This is a distinct departure from the old rule which restricted coaching to the baserunner only. The pitching rules were amended in such a way that the pitcher is permitted to stand on the twirling slab heretofore the rule compelled the pitcher to stand behind the slab but the rule was not always observed. The National league agreed to take the American's League's interpretation of the infield fly. A baserunner will not be permitted to run on an infield fly, as was also agreed that a balk called upon the pitcher dropping the ball.

HAYWARD ON COOS COUNTY

Oregon University Athletic Instructor Tells of Trip to This Section

EUGENE, Or., April 1.—"Some likly men are coming to the University next fall from Coos County," said William Hayward, athletic instructor at the State University, who is back from a hard trip that took in Marshfield, North Bend, Coquille, Bandon and Myrtle Point. "Where many Coos Bay men have gone to Berkeley or Stanford in former years, more are now turned to Oregon by the increased facilities," he says.

In the five Coos County cities, Mr. Hayward spoke before 1200 people, principally high school students, and came back with a high opinion of Coos County. He used moving pictures to show proper form in athletic events, and gave boys at each high school some practical instruction. The trip was part of the Extension Division work of the University.

High Schools all over Oregon are beginning to get their men ready for the third annual inter-scholastic track meet, which will be held this year on May 9, on the State University athletic field. Graduate Manager Dean Walker, who handles the business affairs of the Student Body, says he expects contestants from 40 high schools. He thinks the competitors will number 150 to 200.

The University Body will pay the expenses of four representatives from the high school of each Willamette valley town. There is no limit to the representation that may be sent, but expenses for men over the four have to be paid by the school. The Student Body will also pay the expenses of first and second winners in county meets, from counties outside the Willamette valley.

The visiting athletes will be given lessons in form, and directions for training, by William Hayward. Fraternity houses and private homes provide entertainment for most of the contestants and visitors.

Coos county and Crook county have the newest high school athletic organizations.

NEWS OF NORTH BEND

PAVING CLASH AT NORTH BEND

Wood Block and Bitulithic Adherents Contest Over Sherman Avenue

The question as to the quality and kind of paving to be used in the pavement of Sherman avenue at North Bend is causing considerable discussion among the North Bend city officials and others. City Engineer Andrews of North Bend, the one who first suggested wood block pavement, still says that in spite of the collection of photographs that G. B. Datson has submitted for the consideration and inspection of Sherman avenue property owners, showing places where the wood blocks have been used for from four to six months under restricted traffic conditions and have fallen to pieces under the strain of a few light vehicles. These photographs are on exhibition at the North Bend Chamber of Commerce.

The question as to the manner in which the final estimates for the paving of Sherman avenue will be handled is not known, but it is presumed that tentative bids will be received, thereby giving all parties interested in different kinds of paving an opportunity to compete. Many point out that the asphalt paving would answer all the purposes that bitulithic would if bids are asked for from these companies, thereby laying the matter on a competitive basis under the specifications of the city engineer.

Simpson's Protest.
The Simpson Lumber company has refused to accept the plans of the North Bend city council for the grading of Sherman avenue to the bridge at Simpson's park, through notification received by the city attorney recently. A strip of land which is being used by the city at the present time as Sherman avenue, from the ball park to the bridge, has never been dedicated to the city as a public highway and the Simpson Lumber company, taking advantage of this fact, has refused to allow the grading. The question of an unmolested trespasser upon a highway may come up for consideration in this case, as the Simpson Lumber company has never objected to the city of North Bend using the street for a highway. In some states the constant use of a highway for a period of time without notification to quit from the own-

SELECT BOOKS AT NORTH BEND

Library Meeting There Tomorrow to Choose Works Desired There

The regular bi-weekly business meeting of the North Bend Library Association will be held at the Library Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. While the new traveling library from Salem has not arrived, Miss Marvin, State Librarian, has sent a request that she be furnished with a list of books especially adapted to North Bend so that the best results may be obtained. At Thursday's meeting, this selection will be discussed and the list of books desired compiled. Everyone interested is requested to be present and those who cannot attend, but having special books in mind as desirable, are requested to telephone their selections to the secretary, Mrs. Henry Bergman. The library will be opened as soon as the new books are received from the state librarian.

er, makes the trespasser an owner of the property. In this case the city of North Bend would become the owner. Should the refusal of the lumber company be sustained by the city council, a large break of twelve feet will be in evidence on Sherman avenue, which means that vehicles will not be able to cross the bridge to Simpson's Park and Oldtown. Another bad feature will be the raising of the assessment on the property below that of the Simpson company. Some say that until the street is dedicated it would be best to leave it in its present condition as a planked roadway.
