Early Days In Scottsburg

ONE OF the first houses to be built in Scottsburg was erected in Boston, was brought around the Horn in the knockdown aboard the Bostonian and was put up by George Snelling. When the Bostonian, the second ship that ever crossed in over the Umpqua bar, was wrecked, the cargo was put ashore at the site of the present city of Gardiner. Snelling, who hailed from Boston and was a nephew of Mr. Gardner, the owner of the cargo, had the goods rescued from the ship taken up to Scottsburg. Forming part of the cargo was a zinc house. This Yankee contrivance looked like an aristocrat when placed alongside the more plebeian log houses of the other settlers at Scottsburg.

Scottsburg was founded by Captain Levi Scott, a pioneer of 1844, who came from Burlington, Iowa, but who was born in Illinois.

In 1846, Jesse and Lindsey Applegate and about a dozen others, explored the Umpqua Valley and went on into the Klamath country in search of a road across the mountains. The captain of the expedition was Captain Levi Scott, then 48 years of age.

Captain Scott was so much pleased with the country that two years later, in the spring of 1848, he moved from the Willamette, valley, taking up a claim on Elk Creek, three miles from Yoncalla, in what was afterwards known as Scott's Valley. His two sons, Will and John, settled in Yoncalla Valley not far distant. Two years later Captain Scott went down into the valley of the Umpqua and laid out the town of Scottsburg at the head of navigation on the Umpqua River, twenty-six miles from its mouth.

Shortly after Captain Scott had put up his cabin, James McTavish brought in a stock of goods and put up a canvas store, the canvas being the sails of the Bostonian, wrecked near the mouth of the Umpqua. Snelling's zinc store came next.

By 1852 there were fifteen stores located there and Scottsburg was the metropolis of Southern Oregon and the supply point for a wide stretch of country. John Heddon is the survivor of this goodly company. He was born in Scottsburg fifty-seven years ago and has lived there all his life. In place of from 200 to 500 pack animals standing around to be loaded for the mines, as in the old days, an occasional farmer drives in his buckboard to get his supplies.

There was a time when it was planned to run steamers from Scottsburg to Roseburg. A company known as the Merchants' and Farmers' Navigation Company was formed. J. C. Floed was president and James Watson was secretary. A steamer costing $8000 was built and the government appropriated $22,600 to aid navigation. $14,000 was spent for blasting out rocks in the channel. The Enterprise made an attempt to go to Roseburg, but was unsuccessful, so the government had to charge its $22,000 expenditure to profit and loss.

Scottsburg became the county seat of Umpqua county. The founding of Crescent City in 1852 took away from Scottsburg the trade of northern California and gradually the city began to wane.

I spent an afternoon recently with Mrs. John Heddon at Scottsburg and she showed me the old account books of the store kept in the 50's. Lane & Floed, R. H. Dearborne & Co. and other merchants are on the books for large amounts.

In 1861 the Umpqua River rose 45 feet at Scottsburg, washed away most of the stores and put the finishing touch on the town. Now it is but a shadow of its former self.—Portland Journal.

SAY DANCING SELLS SILKS

Manufacturers of Costly Goods Praise It Now.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Dancing has been blamed more or less directly for divorce, and for the high cost of living and it has been credited with being good for the nerves, and now at the meeting of the Silk Association of America, it has been accorded the thanks of the manufacturers, who say dancing has given an unusual stimulus to the silk industry. Manufacturers are unable to fill their orders, the demand has grown so great. "The great number of dancing gowns demanded by the average woman," said Mr. Ramsey Puget, secretary of the association, "has had a direct effect upon the silk industry. The custom of dancing in the afternoon as well as at dinner and after the theater has become almost universal in New York City and the craze for this form of amusement is rapidly spreading to other towns and cities throughout the country. And," concluded the secretary, "every woman who yields herself to this most popular fad needs a much larger wardrobe, which usually means a greater variety of dancing and dinner costumes of silk." Now will we hear from the shoe trade?

Forest fires in the United States have caused an average annual loss of seventy human lives and the destruction of $25,000,000 worth of timber.

NOTES OF THE SPORT WORLD

Herbert Murphy may not be able to tango or wear London-cut clothes like Mike Doolan, but if he bats harder and fields just as good there will not be many cases of apoplexy among Phil partisans.

Shorty Foley says: "You can't palm off a team of cast-off players as a major league combination any more than you can put fighting togs on a cornfield scarecrow and call it Johnny Kilbane."

Ritchie has finally signed up to meet Jimmy Duffy, a real fighter, one who has been practically overlooked by sporting writers in casting about for likely candidates for lightweight championship honors. Duffy is the only fighter in America today who has a sportsman for manager and Ritchie's admirers can bet all the money they want when these boys meet at Buffalo during the Fort Erie spring race meeting.

Warhop, the diminutive Yankee twirler, is said to be rounding into fine shape at the Texas retreat. For the past few seasons the little one has been away off form, and his rejuvenation would be a big boost to the Yankee stock.

Both President Hempstead and Manager John McGraw of the Giants plan to run over to Los Angeles from Marlin Springs and try to persuade Artie Shafer to return to the New York ranks. Shafer's contract has two more years to run.

Pitcher George Farthing, old Western League favorite, will play ball for the Casper, Wyo., team this summer. The big southpaw says he still retains some of the stuff that made him dreaded among batters in the O'Neill circuit a few years ago.

Jack Johnson has returned to France, and was admitted by the immigration authorities, who declared that he was not an "undesirable alien." We should worry what France thinks; we have our own opinion.

Out in St. Louis the fans are cheering for the Feds because they say that Mordecai Brown's team cannot possibly be as bad as the Browns and Cards.

Mrs. Cornelius Magillcuddy, who is none other than Mrs. Connie Mack, has presented her spouse with a bouncing baby girl. Connie is delighted, yet he weepeth over the loss of another hoped-for member of the Athletics some twenty years hence. Those who have seen Charles P. Taft and Charles W. Murphy cannot believe that the latter is hiding behind the former. There are two things in the world that can't be done and that's one of them.

Men who speculate on glove contests will weigh up closely the bout between Johnson and Langford, and if Johnson does not come up to expectations it will mean a wad of good American money being sent over to France to bet on Moran to win the championship, there being little question that Moran would give Johnson at least a decent battle.

In spite of the poor showing that the Yanks have made in the South, they are likely to come north and burn up the league for a while at least. The unexpected has happened so often in baseball that it can almost be expected.

MORE MOTOR VEHICLES.

Secretary Olcott Estimates Oregon Has 18,000 Gas Vehicles.

SALEM, Or., April 3.—That the registration for motor cars and motorcycles for the year will reach 17,000 to 18,000, a gain of about 4000 over last year, is the estimate of Secretary of State Ben W. Olcott.

Approximately 10,270 motor vehicles and 1696 motorcycles have been registered while during the corresponding period last year the total registration aggregated 7764. Under the law of 1913, providing for the registration of dealers, seventy-nine registrations have been made during the current year.

Approximately $43,500 was returned to the counties of the state in proportion to the registrations from 1913 during the year 1913, for the improvement of the county roads, and on the basis of the current registrations the amount to be returned to the counties for the same purpose at the end of the present year will approximate $58,000.

ARE YOU BOTHERED WITH CORNS? If so, you are deprived of half the pleasure of life—pleasant walking and healthy exercise. A visit to Mrs. Olivia Edman, Scientific Chiropodist, Apt. 3, O'Connell bldg., will be the source of a permanent remedy for aching feet.

FOREST NOTES.

The forest products laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin, has made 4000 tests on the strength of American woods.

The gathering and selling of acorns is a new industry in Arkansas, to supply eastern nursery firms with material for forest planting.

Thirty different wood preservatives are in commercial use in the United States; many of them utilize crotonic acid of one sort or another; others require chemical salts.

Last year the forest service distributed 116,000 basket willow cuttings; 15,000 to forest schools, 26,000 to agricultural experiment stations, and 81,000 to individuals.

More than 800,000 horsepower has been developed from streams on national forests under government regulation. This represents the output under conditions of lowest stream-flow.

Minnesota has a forested area of 28,000,000 million acres, the largest of any state east of the Rocky Mountains.

The Reason Fewer People Take Salts

We find the use of salts and other harsh physics is becoming less every year because more and more people are using Rexall Orderlies, which we and they firmly believe to be the best bowel remedy ever made. They taste so much like candy that even the children like them. At the same time they act so easily and naturally that there is no purging, griping or pain. They promptly remove the constipation and, by soothing and strengthening the bowels, make it less likely to occur again. We have the utmost faith in them. We know what they are made of and the pleasant beneficial results that always follow their use.

You needn't take our word for it. If Rexall Orderlies don't help you—if they don't entirely remove all your bowel troubles—come back and tell us and we'll give back your money. In vest pocket tin boxes; 10c, 25c, 50c.

You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Stores, and in this town only of us. Lockhart-Parsons Drug Co., "The Busy Corner."
