

PARCELS POST REPORT MADE

Over 50,000 Pounds of Matter Handled Through Here—Mostly Incoming.

Parcels Post reports just given out by the Marshfield postoffice show that the new rival of the express companies has been doing a large amount of business in Coos and Curry counties, having carried over twenty-five tons in packages from 1 to 50 pounds during the past three months. During all this time not one Parcel Post package has gone astray, and the new service is daily meeting with approval of the public. Since January 1, 42,992 pounds of parcel post matter have been received by the Marshfield postoffice for Coos and Curry counties. This has been for the most part packages from the small order houses and but a small percentage comprises the transportation of commodities that cannot be purchased here. From the same period, 8972 pounds of parcel post packages have been dispatched from the Marshfield postoffice to the outside, both the incoming and outgoing parcels since last fall being carried on the Breakwater and the Alliance.

A package of fifty pounds can be sent within the local zones, or from Marshfield to Myrtle Point. Many persons have been taking advantage of this, and it is not at all uncommon for a number of suit cases, loggers' blankets, or express packages to be sent by this new method.

Arrangements have also been made by the Marshfield postoffice for the delivery of Parcel Post packages by the carriers on local routes, whether the party receiving the package has a box at the local postoffice or not.

PLAN TO SAVE POOR FAMILIES

Marshal Carter to Forbid Sale of Liquor to Men Whose Families Need Money.

An order was issued today from Police headquarters forbidding the sale of liquor to Charles Jarvinan, who is alleged to have been intoxicated on many and sundry occasions. He has a family and for this reason Marshal Carter escorted him to emporiums of thirst today and had the proprietors take a good look at his countenance, telling them not to permit Jarvinan to partake of liquor of any kind. Marshal Carter said that it is his intention hereafter not to permit the saloon keepers to sell liquor to any person who is neglecting his family through over indulgence.

"There's a difference between the high cost of living and the cost of living high" said the chief today. "A man who has a family to support and educate in this age cannot grant him self the so called pleasure of drinking to excess whenever his appetite craves liquor. In the past there has been too much of this going on, many women being content to suffer abuse in silence rather than be subjected to a little notice and future enjoyment."

"It is my intention hereafter to investigate the case of every married man that is arrested for drunkenness and if his home life shows that he has neglected his family I shall instruct the saloon keepers not to sell him liquor of any kind."

Officer Dean reported two cars last evening for turning in the streets contrary to the city ordinance. The car numbers are 5936 and 5195.

EUGENE, Or., April 10.—Five cities of Coos county will hear a lecture each during the Easter vacation from Dr. James H. Gilbert, professor of Economics in the University of Oregon. Prof. Gilbert will lecture at Marshfield on Monday, April 13; at North Bend on Tuesday, April 14; at Bandon on April 15; at Coquille on April 16 and at Myrtle Point on April 17. In "Democracy and Great Fortunes," which is one of the oftentimes called for his lectures, Dr. Gilbert will suggest a national inheritance tax and certain adjustments in duties on imports as means of checking the accumulation and retention of such colossal fortunes as exist now in the United States. He will point out the danger of centralization of wealth to a pure democracy.

In "Education and Public Opinion," he will show the value of education in molding properly the public opinion of a community.

Dr. Gilbert will speak in Marshfield under the auspices of the College Women's Club; in North Bend and at Coquille under high school auspices and at Myrtle Point under the auspices of the public schools.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR WORK

Crew Begins New Telegraph Line From Eugene to Coos Bay

The Eugene Register says: A special work train will be provided by the Western Union Telegraph company by the Southern Pacific company today to be used in the construction of the telegraph line between Eugene and Coos Bay. Everything is in readiness for the beginning of actual work on the line, and the crew is on hand to start at once.

A. F. Green, foreman in charge of the work, has been in Eugene for over two weeks. A crew of six men was brought from Portland with him and they have been busy since their arrival at the Willamette Pacific material yards west of the city, erecting the butts of the poles and preparing them for the cross arms.

Foreman Green estimates that he will be able to build three-fourths of a mile of line complete every day until the mountainous country is reached, but in the rougher territory the progress will naturally be slower.

With the crew is a telegraph operator who will have instruments and equipment in a car set aside for that purpose and he will be in almost constant touch with the Eugene office.

DREDGE EARNS LARGE AMOUNT

Seattle Paid $53,468.62 for Month of March—Pump Off Water Now.

The Dredge Seattle during March made a new record for the amount of dredgings pumped from the Bay, according to the figures submitted to a special meeting of the Port of Coos Bay Commission yesterday. The dredge earned $53,468.62 during the month of which about $13,000 is paid by the property owners for fills. This leaves a balance of about $91,000 in the Port of Coos Bay fund, derived from the $200,000 bond issue, and it is believed that this is more than ample to finish the deep channel to the bar especially if the dredge Oregon is sent back here.

So far, the Seattle has received about $50,000 from local property owners and the Southern Pacific for fills made in addition to the twelve cents per yard paid by the Port.

In measuring the dredgings, it is found that there was a shrinking of twenty per cent at North Bend and Mill Slough it may run as high as thirty per cent. This shrinkage is from the yardage as computed in the Bay, the excavation being cross-sectioned. It is due to some loss and also to some of the fine silt washing away.

Pay by Months

The following is the monthly earnings of the dredge Seattle since starting in on the project here:
August—$12,124.60
September—$18,080.47
October—17,091.33
November—$17,531.40
December—$33,178.50
January—$34,500.23
February—$45,411.31
March—$53,468.62

Pump Out Water

Mayor Allen, City Engineer Buckingham and the Port Commissioners held a joint session yesterday afternoon to see what could be done about taking away the water accumulating west of the Tenth street bulkhead. It was finally decided that to prevent a large amount of the soft fill in Mill Slough being washed out it would be better to leave the drain box closed until the dredging is completed. The Port Commission will have two electric pumps, one of a six-inch and the other an eight inch, installed to pump the water out of the newly formed lake up over the bulkhead so that it can flow off over the dredging.

OPPOSES SIMPSON'S PLAN

Bandon Paper Scores Proposal for Coos Bay Building.

The Bandon Recorder says: According to the Marshfield papers Mayor L. J. Simpson of North Bend has stated that he was in favor of a building at the San Francisco fair to be called the "Coos Bay" building and insists it shall be "Coos Bay" instead of "Coos county."

The papers do not state what Mr. Simpson's line of argument would be to convince us ignorant Coquille Valleyites, but he probably has something up his sleeve. The people of Coquille Valley are anxious to help advertise Coos county, but we do not belong to Coos Bay, and there is hardly a man in the Valley who will not resent any such thing flaunted in their faces. If the people of Coos Bay want to advertise Coos county in a legitimate way, then our people are with them, but we will not stand for any more of the snake and the frog affair which has been handed us in the past. "Coos Bay" is only a small part of Coos county and not the most important part, and to name the building "Coos Bay" would not be fair to the rest of the county.

LAND GRANT APPEAL

Huge Volume Filed by Southern Pacific in Oregon Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 10.—The Oregon and California railroad company, through its attorney, filed in the United States circuit court of appeals a record on appeal which is the largest individual review of a cause ever placed on record in the history of the federal courts of this state. The record is a document composed of 9000 pages and consists of 3,000,000 words.

The Oregon-California railroad company's appeal is in a land grant case involving property worth $50,000,000. The government brought suit six years ago against the railroad to force forfeiture of a grant of 2500 acres in Oregon which was acquired by the railroad in 1896. The government based its suit on the grounds that the grantee had failed to sell the land as agricultural acreage at the specified price of $2.50 per acre. It was also alleged by the government that individual applicants had not had an opportunity to secure the land as provided for in the grant. In the United States District court of Portland, the government won and the railroad corporation is now taking their appeal to the higher court.

The appeal will be argued on the May docket of the court in this city. One of the chief points on which the railroad company bases its grounds for an appeal is in the argument the lands are not suitable for agricultural purposes.
