FARMERS PLAN TO OPEN STORE

Coos Bay Union to Engage in Co-Operative Enterprise Meeting Today.

The Farmers' Union decided at a meeting held in the Odd Fellows' Hall today, to open up a general store for the sale of their products and appointed J. E. Fitzgerald, Vince Pratt, Nell Watson and H. W. Sanford as a committee to arrange for the building and site.

The plan as outlined by President Culley, of the Farmers' Union, is to incorporate a private stock company irrespective of the Farmers' Union, and this company will operate the store.

The committee appointed will meet during the coming week and the definite plan of arrangement will be announced at that time.

J. M. Culley says the store will be opened within a month and the public will be in a position to purchase their goods much cheaper of this institution.

About fifty members of the union attended the meeting and the secretary announced that the union has over 100 members in good standing.

W. G. Chase, of Coquille, was present and spoke advocating the plan of a general store and his remarks were very well received.

JULY FOURTH TO BE GALA DAY

Chamber of Commerce Plans Celebration—Oppose a Good Roads Day.

The Marshfield Chamber of Commerce met last evening and appointed the executive committee of the organization to take full charge of the Fourth of July celebration to be held in Marshfield.

The question of the removal of the life-saving station from its present position to Coos Head came up for consideration, and the secretary was instructed to communicate with the Portland Chamber of Commerce, Captain Robert Dollar, C. A. Smith and Representative Nowlin, Congressman from California, the Eureka and Astoria Chambers of Commerce, to ask their assistance in securing an appropriation of $40,000 from the Government for the removal of the life-saving station, pointing to it as an aid to navigation.

J. Albert Matson said that the station should be moved and the only means by which to get an appropriation would be by continued effort through all the commercial bodies on the Pacific Coast.

Merchants Oppose Road Day

The question of the making good roads day a holiday in Marshfield was brought up and after some discussion a decision was reached that it would not be made a holiday, but those who desired to do any work on the roads would not be hindered.

Mayor Allen spoke and said that he had found the good roads spirit lacking in the local merchants, saying they protested against closing their stores on a Saturday, and that he would like to get the spirit of the Chamber of Commerce to determine whether or not he should declare a holiday.

C. R. Peck said that from the spirit he found among the people he was afraid that good roads day would be a "fizzle" and he did not want to see the Chamber of Commerce get behind a project that would be a failure. He suggested that a popular subscription of $1 be taken up during the coming week and the funds turned over to some contractor who would hire men on Saturday, April 25, to do the work.

Hugh McLain said that the people did not know what to do, where to go, or where to get tools, on good roads day. He said that he could not find any enthusiasm among the people of Marshfield, and that unless good roads day was planned some weeks ahead, the work done would not amount to much for the lack of concentrated effort.

F. P. Norton said that the people of Millington were interested in good roads, as they wanted to open some new roadway from Marshfield to Millington. He said that if matters were arranged under supervision, he would like to see a one assistance given toward the Millington people. Mr. Norton suggested a tag day during the coming week, at which a great amount could be derived, and this money used for good roads purposes.

After this discussion, on a motion from C. R. Peck, it was decided not to go on record as making the good roads day a legal holiday in Marshfield.

Coos County Building

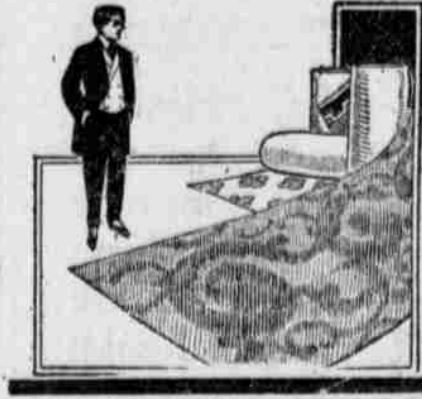

The Marshfield delegation to the County building meeting to be held at Coquille on April 20, asked the question through C. R. Peck as to the feeling of the body regarding the name of the proposed building. Hugh McLain said that it was immaterial whether it was called Coos Bay or Coos County building, and that the feeling of the meeting to be held at Coquille would decide the name of the building.

Senator J. S. Smith said that he believed the idea of calling the building other than Coos County Building was entirely wrong, as the general help of the entire county was needed and that in order to get this the building should be named after the entire county and not after any particular locality.
