VALUABLE HOURS.

The Professional-man the hours between the end of the business day and midnight are the most valuable hours. They are the time when, if he have any strength and ambition, the work is done that keeps him growing and wins reputation out side of his bread and butter calling.

FAST RUN TO BANDON TODAY

Harvey Gurnea and Companions Make Trip From North Bend in 2:35.

The Hupmobile, that made the trip to Bullards recently in six hours and 30 minutes lowered its record today, making the run from North Bend to Bullards in two hours and 35 minutes, being delayed twenty-six minutes on account of tire chain trouble, which makes the exact running time two hours and nine minutes. The Hupmobile started from North Bend at 6:20 today and arrived in Bandon at 8:55 a. m.

The Hupmobile was driven by Harvey Gurnea, who was accompanied by John W. Pitney, Walter McLeod, Fred Glazier, being the same crew who drove down when the roads were bad some weeks ago. As the roads improve the different machines are expected to lower their records.

The Hupmobile party have intended to return immediately upon their arrival at Bullards, but this plan was abandoned, and it is not likely that they will return until late this afternoon.

DAY'S NEWS IN POLICE COURT

Chas. Noble Fined $5 for Obstructing Street with Pile-driver—One Drunk.

J. A. Johnson was arrested by Officers Shoupe and Richardson at the Shamrock bar on Tuesday evening and charged with drunkenness, and causing a general disturbance around the Shamrock Bar. He had only 20 cents in his possession.

Charley Noble was arrested on Monday afternoon and appeared before Recorder Butler today on a charge of allowing his pile-driver to completely obstruct the corner of South Sixth street and Bennett avenue. He was fined $5.00 by Recorder Butler today.

Jack Marsden Arrested
John Marsden, Jr., was arrested by Marshal Carter at noon today and charged with carrying concealed weapons. He was later taken to Coquille, where he will be taken before Judge Coke for having violated a parole in connection with the trouble he had a few years ago with J. W. Bennett.

Marsden claims that he was bound for South Inlet and armed himself before starting for the launch Vega, when he was met by Carter who searched him and found the gun.

To the Voters of North Bend

North Bend, Ore., April 21, 1914.
To the legal voters of School District No. 13:

An article appearing in the Marshfield papers Saturday evening in regard to the school situation in North Bend contains so many misstatements and absolute falsehoods that we deem it expedient to reply to the same.

It is a lamentable situation if there is but one person who has taken enough interest in our schools to be intelligently informed of the needs of the same.

We, the members of the school board, believed we had a just pride in our schools and were giving it our best attention and thought, and when we came to you asking for your vote to allow us to procure more school property we were doing so for the best interests of the schools, but find we were mistaken because "North Bend does not need another school now and doubtless will not need one for some years to come."

North Bend does not need another school because "It is tragically true that small children living west of Pony Slough have a long, rainy walk across the Pony Slough bridge to recite in an unhealthy basement room in the Central school building."

Where lies the tragical part of the above situation? In the walk or in the basement? If in the basement we had hoped by your approval to eliminate the same, yet the article in question would advocate the high school basement. If in the walk you will have to decide which is the greater tragedy—for a child to cross said bridge coming to Central building or for a child to cross it going to the high school building.

North Bend does not need another school building because "It is equally true that less than one-fourth of the capacity of the high school is being utilized." If the above statement were true then perhaps North Bend does not need another building, but let us analyze the same.

The "museum" now used as a storeroom is used at present as a sleeping room by the janitor, 8' all we eject the janitor or shall we keep him on the premises?

The "library" "but which is now used for less than half a dozen typewriter students" is an absolute lie. The library is used as a library. We suppose when we get our new Carnegie Library it will be used for a livery stable, but the board believes in utilizing its library for library purposes and incidentally to accommodate Mr. Grubbs with a class of seventeen typewriter students.

A recitation room is built to accommodate the largest number of students in any class and not the smallest class. As to the actual size of classes:

Mr. Grubbs, smallest class, 9; largest 25.
Mr. Perkins, smallest class, 6, largest, 24.
Mr. Helsy, smallest class, 5; largest, 35.

est, 35.
Miss Dayton, smallest class, 5; largest 28.
Miss Fulton, smallest class, 4; largest, 8.

Again: "These small laboratories, by the way, contain some two thousand dollars' worth, more or less, of scientific apparatus, most of which has not been used in three years and perhaps never has been used since being placed there." There is not a dead piece of apparatus in the entire collection, and every bit is used as occasion calls for, a fact which may easily be verified by consulting with Mr. Perkins.

You are led to believe that the high school building is being maintained to accommodate some forty or fifty children, which is as near the truth as any other statement contained in said article. As a matter of fact the high school building is accommodating 82 high school pupils, 25 eighth grade and 34 seventh grade.

To same going into details further, and answering her absurd statements we ask you, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, to make Wednesday, April 22, 1914, beginning at 8 o'clock a. m., Good Schools Day by assembling at the high school building, the commissary building, and finally at the Central building and there by your vote help us to maintain the North Bend schools where they are today—second to none in the state. We are not appealing to you for your pocket book as we are not asking for a tax levy or a bond issue; all that we do ask is that you approve by your vote, the action deemed necessary by the Board for the betterment of your schools. The writer of the article in question has been and is a menace to the schools as you well know. She has in specific cases attempted to coerce prominent citizens to sign her petitions. She has for nearly three years past been an unnecessary source of annoyance, as an inquiry of almost any one of them will reveal. Shall this turmoil continue or will you by your vote assist us to eliminate this unnecessary disturbing factor once and for all.

We sincerely regret that this matter has ever been paraded before disinterested parties in the papers, but we know the voters of this city want facts, therefore we felt compelled to give the above reply and now ask you to go and see for yourselves, please.

Respectfully,
L. F. FALKENSTEIN,
H. G. KERN,
C. A. SMITH,
Board of Education.

MY SYMPHONY

To live and learn;
Bright days
Dull days,
All days,
Always,
And just be glad.

Man wants but little here below,
And yet he frets and frets;
He wants but little, and we know
'Tis better than he gets.

BUSINESS IS GOOD

MANY times each week we are asked, "How is Business?" Business is good. So far this year each month has shown a nice gain over the same month last year. Each year our business has made a big gain over the previous year. As we live we grow. Without any big noise or special sales The Golden Rule is doing a much larger volume of business than any similar concern in Coos county. Our prices draw. It is expensive and needlessly extravagant not to trade at the Golden Rule. Most thrifty people have learned this, therefore we get their business.
