

Opportunity Knocks at Every Man's Door

It is now knocking at your door. Why not stop paying rent and put the same amount of money each month into a home of your own? Remember that rent receipts are worthless paper.

FIRST ADDITION is the place where over 60 families are now living happy and contented. Why? Because they are free from landlords and high rents, and they are making valuable homes for themselves. A trip through this tract will convince you.

Observe the graded streets. In addition to those already graded there will be seven more graded this summer. Observe that the houses are supplied with city water service. Observe the new homes now under construction in FIRST ADDITION. There will be many more built this season. A new school house also will be built to accommodate the growing population of school children.

Heaven is not reached by a single bound
But we build the ladder on which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
As we mount to its summit round by round
I count this thing to be grandly true
A noble deed is a step toward God
Lifting the soul from the common clod
To a purer air, and a broader view.
—J. G. Holland.

Does the drink traffic ladder take the soul of the drinker, round by round up toward God? or downward to—? Are noble deeds the fruits of the man who habitually goes to the saloon and spends his money there for drink? Ask the broken-hearted wife and the beggared children!

Recently joint resolutions proposing amendments to the Federal constitution, to extend the right of suffrage to women and for nationwide prohibition, were ordered reported without recommendation to the house by the judiciary committee.

The Anti-Saloon League is to have a printing plant in Washington, D. C., and to publish a daily newspaper. One person has already given $50,000 towards this enterprise.—The Youth's Instructor.

250,000 saloons in the land of the free and the home of the brave; and what a host of drunken slaves! Such a dirty house Uncle Sam has got! But there's plenty of scrubbers to cleanse every foul blot.

I believe that the world grows better, because I believe in the eternal order. There is always a movement, swift or slow, toward what is right and true—a tendency toward higher things, stronger than the impulse of evil.—Lucy Stone.

Excerpt from an article in the White Ribbon Review. At the late election great gains were made in Nebraska. Seventeen towns hitherto wet became dry.

In Minnesota the prohibition forces scored heavily. Madison, Marshall, Laverne and Canby, the leading saloon towns in the southwestern part of the state, entered the dry columns. Also Litchfield, a leading saloon town for twenty years, went dry, and a number of smaller towns. 800 saloons have been put out of business in Idaho in the past few years; and many other states have made radical innovations in the liquor trade.

Cannot Oregon measure up in this respect—her women prove themselves willing and anxious to use their newly acquired power, by registering and using the ballot to bring about better conditions along all lines.

Will not the women of Oregon awake to the fact that they hold the balance of power, and that the fate of the proposed prohibitory amendment is in their own hands? Will they fail to recognize their individual responsibility in relation to the home, the children and society? O women, awake! Be alive and prompt to duty.

BUSINESS MEN ENJOY BANQUET

tance to the people of Coos County in general and this section in particular.

Secretary C. N. Caton in outlining the work accomplished by the organization said that he had received 31 rating sheets giving 5000 ratings on 3000 people, representing the largest business houses in the Coos Bay district. He said that the organization had 25 charter members and that its membership had increased to 74. Mr. Caton said that he had collected $281 in dues since the organization was established.

President E. P. Lewis told of the benefits derived from the rating cards and urged all of the members who have not turned in their list of accounts to do so as soon as possible. He said that it was of prime importance that the members of the association know the credit standing of the people in this community and particularly the business men. The rating cards are open at all times to the members of the association, said Lewis.

The question as to whether or not subscriptions to any public enterprise should be made by the club as a whole or individual members formed the principal theme for discussion. The matter was not definitely decided upon as the constitution and by-laws of the association hold that such matters requiring a majority vote of the association must be put in the form of a resolution and passed on at the following meeting.

M. C. Maloney said that the association should wield its power in the spirit of co-operation. What is a benefit to one is a benefit to all and what is harmful to one is harmful to all should be the policy, he said. He suggested that each member of the organization contribute his share in the way of donations, through the association, leaving the matter in the hands of the secretary. He said that when collectors called on each member of the association they could be referred to the secretary of the organization. He said the association should be the mouth piece of the community if it would accomplish anything.

Toastmaster Matson dwelt on the points brought out by Maloney suggesting that the secretary turn such matters over to the auditing committee which would appropriate the amount of the donation expected of each member. He put the matter in the form of a motion and it carried. The question as to whether or not there would be any limit to the assessment placed on the individual member was then broached, offering a new ground for argument.

President Lewis held that there would be no limit placed on the assessment and some of the members imagined they could see their bank roll fluttering with a brand new pair of wings. Lewis brought the discussion to a close when he said that the constitution held that this was a matter that would have to be passed on at the following meeting, which will be held three months hence. He suggested that the members talk the matter over between themselves in the meantime.

R. A. Coppel, Vice-President of the association, read several amendments to the constitution which were approved by the association. He said that since the organization had been established it had become necessary to appoint a secret committee, for which no provision has been made in the constitution. That committee is for the purpose of eliminating matters not worthy of consideration of the association and to make private investigations bearing on the credit standing of the business men in the community.

Another amendment read by Mr. Coppel holds that four members of the board of directors will constitute a quorum instead of six. In explanation of that point President Lewis said that it was easier to get a committee of four together than a committee of six.

Mr. Coppel suggested that the association go on record as not favoring a Coos County building at the Panama Pacific Exposition. He said it would hinder the very thing aimed at. Mr. Coppel said that when he visited the Lewis and Clark Fair at Portland he was very much disappointed in not finding a Coos county exhibit in the Oregon building. He said that he did not know that Coos county had a separate building for its exhibit until after he had returned home. Mr. Coppel declared that hundreds of people left with the impression that Coos County did not have an exhibit at the fair. Coppel stood alone in his contention. It was pointed out that Coos county was the only live county in the state and received much credit for supporting and maintaining a separate building.

Secretary Caton read several communications from clubs and organizations in other cities extending congratulations to the Coos County Business Men's Association. He read a letter from the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association which extended an invitation to the local body to have a representation at the state meeting of the association to be held at La Grande.

The following members of the association were present at the meeting last night.

Guy Warner, J. C. Jones, P. B. Hazer, Wm. Ekblad, Tom Harvey, Geo. E. Cook, R. A. Coppel, Herman Hillier, Milo D. Sumner, W. F. Miller, A. J. Eberhart, C. M. Caton, Sec., E. P. Lewis, J. A.
