THE SOUND BUSINESS SITUATION.

A. L. MILLS, leading Portland banker, says that as a consequence of the new currency law there can be no more money panics such as the country had in 1873, in 1893 and in 1907.

The new currency plan is the administration's greatest accomplishment thus far. It has created general confidence and brought about an undecurrent of optimism everywhere.

A PLAN OF LIFE.

IF MORE people made a practice of adopting a certain rule or plan of life they might often accomplish more than when they merely carry out a vague policy of general conduct.

To smite all humbugs, however big; to give a nobler tone to science; to set an example of abstinence from petty personal controversy and of toleration for everything but lying; to be indifferent to whether the work is recognized or not, so long as it is done—these are my aims.

THE ARGUMENT THAT CLINCHES.

THE city of Alameda owns its own electric lighting plant. The citizens have cheap lights. The city, which is thoroughly and very artistically lighted, pays nothing at all.

It is arguments like this which will finally bring about universal public ownership of public utilities. Money talks a language taxpayers can all understand.—San Francisco Examiner.

A REFORM THAT IS NEEDED.

ONE of the orators of the graduating class assured his hearers, at the State University the other day, that the common criticism of legal procedure was not justified and that people lost sight of the nine hundred and ninety-nine cases in which the courts efficiently administered justice while censuring the one case in which they did not.

Most of us thought and talked the same way when the ink still glistened on our parchments. As he grows older and learns something worth while in the big University of Life, our young friends will doubtless come to perceive, as the rest of us have, that the beautiful theories of youth and the campus are mostly woven of moonshine and glittering generalities.

A drastic reform of the whole legal system is necessary and, we think, is imminent. The twentieth century is not in love with the solemn nonsense that passed for the last word in human wisdom in the courts of Elizabeth or James.—Examiner.

APPROPRIATE DRESS

THE PRICE of good dressing is often not so much one of money and lavish expenditure as of good taste and appropriate choice. If a woman have these latter attributes she can usually adapt her means to the occasion. Says Jean Worth, the famous French authority on dress: "One of the best dressed women in Paris, perhaps the best among them, buys only three toilettes a year. But those three are in perfect taste, in fit and materials. They are made of the choicest fabrics of their kind, with rare skill, and they accord marvelously with their wearer.

The woman who is tempted by a gorgeous variety would do well to follow the suggestions of this expert and see that her gowns are adapted to their wearer and are fewer and more "subtly telling."

AMUSING OURSELVES.

THE famous dancer, Mile. Dazie, says that our zest for the modern dances is accounted for in the fact that here we have an amusement in which we ourselves are the principals. We have too long been addicted to hired entertainers. We sit back and watch other people play. Now we are getting into the game ourselves.

The theory is at least ingenious and suggests that if this psychological basis is really present we may discover other things in which we may be the principals and have just as good a time with perhaps less disturbance. Why don't we play games instead of hiring somebody to play them for us.

SCANDINAVIAN IMMIGRATION HAS HAD A POTENT INFLUENCE.

THE Scandinavian immigrant is the latest of the European-born children of the United States to receive notice from the University of Wisconsin's professor of sociology. Professor Ross remarks that Scandinavian immigration did not become considerable until after 1860, passing its crest about 1885, but that now the Americans of Scandinavian birth number 1,250,000, and that a fourth of all men of Scandinavian blood live west of the Atlantic.

Scandinavia has contributed 2,000,000 immigrants, all told, to the United States. Sweden sent the most, but the Norse immigrants form a larger proportion of the population of Norway than is the case of any other country except Ireland. The property owned by the Norse in America is equal in value to all the property in Norway itself.

About a fourth of the Scandinavian immigrants had been servants in their old homes, a third of them common laborers, but only a sixth skilled workers. They imported less skill than the British, and far less than the Germans and Bohemians. But in schooling they led all other immigrants, only one in 250 Scandinavian immigrants being an illiterate. Most of the Norsemen have stuck to the farm, as have forty per cent of the Danes, but the industrial Swedes to the extent of more than two-thirds flock into the industries.

WITH THE TOAST AND THE TEA

As a rule, when women kiss there is little sweetness wasted.

It is only when people are in need of a cure that they appreciate the price of prevention per ounce.

Miss Imah Bird has just been voted the handsomest young lady in a Kansas town. "Some chicken? eh?"

The man who is his own worst enemy has a fool to overcome.

Some people are born in Marshfield, some in the middle of the week and are looking both ways for Sunday and some are born in East-side and some wish they had never been born.

Freckle-Face

Sun and Wind Will Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under the guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

WITH THE TEA and TOAST

GOOD EVENING.

I do not know what I may appear to the world; but to myself I seem to have been only like a boy playing on the seashore, and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me.—Isaac Newton.

Shame to Take the Money. Alas! When you are ripe to fall for her sweet charms and ask to call, And she say "Goodness me, oh dear! I'm dated up this week, I fear, But won't you come next Friday night?"

That time will suit exactly right! Don't sit and mutter in your den And envy all those lucky men; For, ten to one, she calmly sitting All alone with her knitting, Sighing up her chiffon sleeve At the way her kind deceives, But she'd rather sit alone, Or with some confiding croupy, Than to have you think a minute That she isn't strictly in it!

The man who is always making excuses never makes good.

A man is also well known by the company he doesn't keep.

Don't be alarmed when you see Julius seize her.

More energy is not necessarily a virtue. A lazy man asleep in the shade is just as useful as a "hustler" who stirs up nothing but trouble.

It's a good plan to neither borrow nor lend—trouble.

Some Coos Bay people prize their reputations more than their characters. Care of the latter relieves all worry of the former.

Ask the father of twins if two can live cheaper than one.

The man in the "Cheer up!" business Does very much for his town, And sets more good things done for the world than the one Whose business is running things down.

A negro exhorter shouted to his audience, "Come up and join the army of de Lord!" "Ise done, ined," replied one woman. "Whar'd you jine?" asked the exhorter. "In de Baptist' Church."

There is a vast difference between bigness and greatness in men.

The hen that cackles the loudest doesn't always lay the biggest egg.

Every man who pats himself on the back is not a contortionist.

Don't worry about having one foot in the grave. You'll get there with both feet.

Ask the boy in the bowling alley if he thinks its good luck to pick up pins.

Here is what might be termed as the legal description of the tango: "Advance 15 paces oblique left to a corner post at the southwest boundary to a potted palm, then due north four chairs to a second post where the lines of the cash register and the punch bowl intersect, thence back to the place of beginning, if you have strength to get there."

Here is a suggestion for an automobile advertiser: "Buy the STREAKOLITE. Will run on gasoline, benzine, kerosene, alcohol, perfumery, high balls or witch hazel. Can be lubricated with soap when you run out of oil. If the tires run out of wind, put a copy of Bryan's COMMONER in each, and drive home in comfort. Nothing wears out but the speedometer."

The naked truth is a bare statement of facts.

Said the grave gay goose to her goslings gay: "Don't walk so querr and jerky! Just glide; or people along the way May mistake you for a turkey!"

Quoth Madame Turkey: "Don't walk so flat! Do move with more animation, My son! They'll think you are a gosling! That Would be such a mortification!" —Independent.

What a small world it is, and yet how far apart we sometimes get on public questions.

Look before you leap, but don't stand and stare.

Common sense was wrongly named — it is not at all common.

QUESTIONS FOR THE DAY.

If a man is called a "mister" why isn't a woman called a "mystery?"

When some Coos Bay wives ask their husbands to beat a rug, why do they always "beat" it?

A Marshfield preacher says you can't fill a man with spirituality when he is already pickled with aprits.

The royal road to happiness is to give it.

As between false tongues and false teeth we prefer the latter every time.

TODAY'S ADVICE.

If you are going to say "yes," say it quickly and graciously. The reluctant "yes" is but a synonym for "no."

CAR LOAD OF FORDS TODAY

Another Large Consignment of Popular Autos Arrives on Coos Bay.

Another carload of the popular Ford autos arrived on the Paraiso today consigned to George Goodrum. Of the entire carload all are sold except one and Mr. Goodrum says he expects that to be gone before tomorrow night.

Notwithstanding the large output, the demand for Fords continues to be in excess of the supply and Mr. Goodrum says he is already experiencing difficulty in getting his orders filled promptly. If you are thinking of getting a Ford this season you should not delay in placing your order.

See Goodrum soon if you want a Ford.
