DICTATES OF FASHION.

Jet and gold in combination will be seen on evening gowns. Plain colored velvet has had a decided vogue this season and is always charming. Frocks of gold and in dark colored iridescent spangles are charming for evening. Plaits, frills and gathers are strong points of every frock, but the separate skirt coat is mannishly plain. Shell pins for the coiffure with heads beaded to match the color of the gown are the newest conceit in this accessory. Black moire ribbon is used to lend the impression of height to the little turbans of hemp. It will also be used in the form of bows to trim turbans. It is heavy and will not be worn as the midsummer days arrive.

Health Hints

The Times has arranged with Dr. R. R. Daniels, the well-known writer on health subjects to contribute to this paper a series of practical articles on health and body care. This is the first of the series.

(By Dr. R. R. Daniels.)

Here is a message to the man who lives only for a good time, who believes that pleasure is the sole end of earthly existence: There is no pleasure equal to that sense of physical well being that accompanies real health; no artificial intoxication that can compare with the buoyancy of the disease-free body.

Starving with a full stomach isn't a joke—it's a feature of indigestion for you to digest.

One reason why health is not to be had out of a bottle is, that it requires no effort on the part of the sick man and is in opposition to Nature's inexorable law that nothing of value is to be had without labor. Effort is as necessary to health as it is to everything else of value.

Man seems to be the only animal who doesn't know enough to stop eating when he is sick.

Wrong eating doesn't cause everyone to have dyspepsia any more than the use of coffee always leads to nervous disturbances. Bad habits affect different people differently; as a rule, the weakest organ or part of the body bears the brunt of abuse. In many persons bad habits cause frequent attacks of illness; while in many nervous had habits simply cut off life at fifty when it should have gone on until eighty.

When you eat what you need it is food for you; when you eat what you don't need it is food for the germs in you.

Not everyone who abuses his body develops disease any more than everyone who spends money foolishly becomes bankrupt. Many millionaires eventually go broke, just as many persons of good constitution die young. We criticize the spendthrift because he could use his money to a better advantage; similarly in a few years we will criticize the man who spends his vital force in over eating, drinking and following enervating habits when there are so many opportunities to do useful work.

Foley's Kidney Pills will do it surely and quickly. They give good health, freedom from pain, a return of appetite and sound sleep. Try them. Owl Prescription Pharmacy, Frank D. Cohan, Opposite Chandler Hotel, Phone 74, Central Avenue Drug Store, local agency.
