HEARD ON THE STREETS

"I am glad that the city is spending money to maintain the band in Marshfield," remarked a prominent business man on his way home from the band concert Tuesday evening. "It is all right to make improvements which will remain as monuments to the energy of the people of this generation. It is all right to keep employees enough to do our work. It is all right to get the best and pay for the best in all branches of our city government. But we should not forget the present in planning for the future. We should not neglect the men and the women and the boys and girls of today. There is no better way to reach a large per cent of the people than by music. There is no better way in which to make our city worth while. There is no better way in which to make Marshfield a place in which it is a pleasure to live."

(Special to The Times.)

They have planned a trip in Mr. Kearney's Lozier through the Yosemite Valley and from there to San Francisco. The party consists of Mrs. W. H. Kearney, J. L. Greene, G. N. WINDJAMMERS ELIMINATED.

Passing of the Sailing Ships from Pacific Ports.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—With the departure of the American ship John Ena from Pearl harbor recently, the quietest was sounded of the passing of the many windjammers that formerly crowded Honolulu harbor, awaiting cargoes of sugar from domestic and foreign ports. Advice from the Hawaiian port state that the John Ena will be the last sailing ship to clear from there laden with sugar. The business hereafter will be given to steam vessels, for obvious reasons. The John Ena was towed by the Matson Navigation Company's steamer Lurline to Hilo, from which port the final trip of this famous clipper in the sugar-carrying trade was begun. The ship was loaded with 5000 tons of sugar for the Delaware breakwater upon arrival at Hilo. The John Ena is well known along the local waterfront, having made many passages around the Horn, and her passing from the western ocean, which the decision reached in Hawaii practically means, will be viewed with regret by the oldtimers.

HIS PIPE

Though grandpa left us long ago, with years and labor ripe,
Yet still upon the shelf we keep his old black briar pipe,
And when we take it down we seem to see above the bowl
The keen blue eyes that mirrored forth his wise and kindly soul.
We took our sorrows to his knee, he listened to them all,
From sister Letty's love affair, to Benny's "losted" ball,
And when he filled and lit his pipe, we knew that he had found
The end of all the troubled skeins our careless hands unbound.
So when my grown-up heart is sad

with life's eternal pain,
With reverential touch I take the old black pipe again,
About it hangs the aroma of good tobacco still,
And calls his sturdy spirit back to brace my weakened will.
Through that old pipe he speaks to me, just as he used to do,
And bids me face the world again, with strength and courage new
And hope around me folds once more her rainbow colored cloak,
And all my little troubles fade as once they did—in smoke.

PECULIAR AND PERTINENT.

In southern France the fig tree is now cultivated almost exclusively for the production of fresh fruit, which has always a ready sale in the large centers. The drying of figs has been practically abandoned in this region, except for the personal requirements of a small number of growers.

An apple tree belonging to S. W. Alexander of Los Angeles county, California, is exciting considerable interest because it bore two crops in one season, and the second crop was of a different variety than the first. The apples of the first crop were light in color and of medium size, while the second edition were dark reddish in color and in no way resembled the earlier crop.

THE BAROMETER.

Barometer means "weight-measurer." The barometer was first discovered by an Italian named Torricelli. He took a small glass tube, closed at one end, and filled it with mercury in the tube. This was the basis of the barometer. The barometer of today is used mainly to record air pressures, so that weather predictions can be made. If the air pressure is very high in a certain locality, there is almost sure to be no disturbance there. If it is very low it means that air currents are going to rush in there from all sides. It means winds and probably rain. A barometer taken to the top of a mountain will fall rapidly. That means low pressure.
