LITTLE SPENT BY CANDIDATES

Aspirants for Political Offices in Coos County File Campaign Expense Accounts

The Coquille Sentinel says: Not all the candidates for office in Coos county at the late primary election have filed their expense accounts with the county clerk, as required by law, but the following have come across with the data, and County Clerk Watson is getting after the rest with suggestions of the things that are going to happen to them if they procrastinate much longer:

J. L. Kronenburg was a candidate for commissioner of the Port of Bandon, and as such candidate expended $6.00. He certainly got off cheap, but as it hasn't yet been decided whether such a port actually exists, or is only a myth, it may be he paid all the barren honor is worth.

W. W. Gage, who was the successful democratic candidate for nomination as sheriff, a position which the people of Coos county have been entrusting to him for the past sixteen years, spent $75.70 to keep in the running.

It cost his democratic competitor, Zachariah Taylor Siglin, $53.75 to get knocked out.

James Watson expended $148.75 in a desperate and so far successful attempt to "Watsonize" the county.

M. E. Treadgold, notwithstanding his patronymic is eloquent of wealth beyond the dreams of avarice, and even smacks of the New Jerusalem pavements, didn't waste a darned cent to get a look in as Port Commissioner.

It cost W. C. Chase, of this city, $44.90 to chase the will-o'-th-wisp of a republican nomination for county judge.

A. N. Gould only dropped $28.90 in attempting to secure a republican nomination for the office of county surveyor, which he now holds.

Alfred Johnson, Jr., got through successfully on $57.30 in his race for the republican nomination for sheriff.

C. R. Moore, as candidate for commissioner of the Port of Bandon, also found zeros all that was necessary in making his report.

C. S. McCulloch won the republican nomination for county surveyor at a cost of only $25.70.

It cost Thomas B. James, of Marshfield, $35.80 to be defeated as a republican candidate for county commissioner by George Armstrong, who had a couple of smokes left out of a five dollar bill when the campaign ended.

A. E. Shuster of North Bend wanted to run for justice of the peace badly enough to put up twenty-seven cents for the privilege.

F. E. Allen had his leg pulled a little harder than most of the candidates and pleads guilty to paying out $124.95 in trying to get into the fray as a candidate for county clerk.

T. M. Dimmick appears to have had a practical monopoly on the business of running for the treasurer's office on the republican ticket and got his hat chalked for the place at an expense of only $6.50—really a bargain counter figure.

George J. Armstrong, of Bandon, the present incumbent, won against a big field, however, as a candidate for county commissioner at an even lower figure—$4.90.

Robert R. Watson, who was also in the conspiracy to "Watsonize" the county, but pulled off the stunt successfully, as far as he has gone, by digging up $143.15 for the republican nomination for county clerk.

Walter Sinclair, of this city, for precinct committeeman, and C. L. Pennock, of Marshfield, who wanted to act as J. P. again, were both lucky enough to get through on nothing apiece.

J. J. Stanley, as the unopposed democratic aspirant for county judge pleads guilty to having squandered $26.

It cost W. B. Cox, of Marshfield, several times as much to get on the ticket for constable, as he thinks he owes some one fifty cents for campaign services.

M. H. Hersey, of this city, was another candidate who found nobody to fight, but still he spent $16.45 in reaching the goal as the democratic candidate for county treasurer.

F. D. Kruse got nothing for the $63.45 he expended running for county clerk on the republican ticket except some experience and a free trip up Salt Creek.

WET-AND-DRY DEBATE HELD

Labor Unions Decide to Remain Neutral on National Prohibition Question

The mass meeting held by the unions affiliated with the Central Labor Council of Coos Bay, at Langshoremen's Hall yesterday, and at which a wet-and-dry debate was given, was not very largely attended. About twenty-five union men gathered to hear the discussions. R. N. Fenton, of the musicians' union, was elected presiding officer.

The debate generally dealt with prohibition of the liquor traffic, but particularly was intended to aid the various local bodies at a conclusion as to whether they would or would not, endorse the action of the National executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, in protesting against the two bills dealing with Nation-wide prohibition which are soon to be acted upon by Congress.

The National committee asked the local body for its support and endorsement in the stand the former had taken in the matter. On the question, however, a difference of opinion manifested itself, and to settle the question, the debate before a mass meeting of union men was arranged. A decision to remain neutral, however, was the result of yesterday's deliberations, and the unions and labor council on Coos Bay will take no official stand in the matter, allowing each individual member to exercise his discretion as to whether he shall encourage or oppose prohibition.

The debates upholding the stand of the National officials of the labor movement were Messrs. Theodore Myers, President of the local labor council and Mr. Rensner, piano player at the Royal Theater. Those opposing the stand of the higher officials were A. Landles, secretary of the local labor council and C. P. Mason, of The Times mechanical force.

NO TAXES ON LAND GRANTS

Attorney General Says They Cannot be Assessed Pending Decision of Suit.

The following from a Eugene paper will be of interest here as there is a considerable portion of the O. & C. land grant in Coos County and the old Coos Bay Wagon Road holdings of the Southern Oregon Company come under the same conditions:

"That the Oregon & California railroad grant lands cannot be listed for assessment till the Supreme Court of the United States decides the case which has been pending in the courts for several years, where-in it is sought to have the lands revert back to the government and for settlement, was the substance of an opinion given by Attorney-General A. M. Crawford at Salem to B. P. Aeeney, County Assessor of Lane. This means that a large amount of tax money will be lost to Eugene for at least two years and possibly longer.

Assessor Keeney has figured that there are 300,404 acres of this grant land in Lane County and that the total assessed valuation is $3,345,655. The total tax on this land at that valuation, including all the special levies in the different road and school districts which contain lands belonging to the company, is over $80,000.

"The railroad company refused to pay the 1913 tax this year and as the Attorney General advises that it is not to be assessed for 1914, over $160,000 will probably be lost to the county in tax money on this account. Of course, if the railway company finally wins in the United States Supreme Court, the taxes will be paid, but it is the general belief at the highest court of the country will probably uphold the decision of the United States District Court and that the land will finally revert to the government.

BOY SENT TO MARSHFIELD

Claude Call, the boy who was found in Eugene several weeks ago as he was on his way alone from Portland to San Francisco to see his mother, having run away from the place in Portland where he had been staying, was sent by Walter B. Jones, probation officer, to Marshfield this week. The lad has an uncle there and his mother is also going there to reside. He has been staying at the home of Mr. Jones.—Eugene Register.
