NATIONAL PROHIBITION

AN Associated Press dispatch to The Times on Wednesday indicated that the House of Representatives will vote on the Hobson prohibitory amendment resolution has brought about an entirely new situation in Congress.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Times, reporting the situation a few days ago, said:

The word passed among House members today that any attempt to evade a vote on the Hobson prohibition resolution at the present session will be of no avail. Mr. Underwood having intimated that the dominant party in Congress will refuse to assume the responsibility of further delay now that the judiciary committee has passed the issue directly up to the house. Already apprehensive of trouble over the resolution, but hopeful until now that they would not be forced to a record vote, members from close districts and many others as well are virtually in a state of panic. The prohibition vote, it is believed, will end the political careers of many Representatives and Senators.

It is conceded that submission will be voted for by a majority of the members of the House, but it is not believed possible that the two-thirds vote needed for submission of an amendment to the constitution can possibly be secured.

But a majority vote, or even a large minority vote, will be like handwriting on the wall to the liquor interests. For that matter, the mere submission of the question to vote at all under the auspices of a democratic administration ought to be very much like handwriting on the wall.

NEWS OF GARDINER

Events Along the Lower Umpqua As Told by the Courier.

Negroes very seldom visit Gardiner and the sight of one on the streets last week caused some little speculation as to his business here. It turned out that he was just a "black bohunk" looking for short jobs and long meals. Oscar Anderson proved the Good Samaritan, and a large, neat pile of wood behind the barber shop is proof of the "dingie's" physical attainments.

The steady streams of mules transporting the 400,000 feet of lumber to the Porter Brothers' tunnel at Five Mile Lake, is a most impressive sight. In all there are ten teams of four mules each, and one is bound to think of the famous Borax team when looking at them.

Charles Hong, the Chinese Cook, who has for the past eight years, held down the position of chef in the Gardiner Hotel, has resigned his position and will probably go to China for a long visit.

J. E. Toelle, of Portland, is registered at the Gardiner. Mr. Toelle formerly resided in North Bend, and has played for the dances on several occasions in Gardiner. If he decides to remain in Gardiner, we will have one more good musician with us.

When a fellow isn't planning a vacation in June it is not always a sign that he is in love with his work. It may be that he's broke.

YOUNG COUPLE WEDDED TODAY

Herman Edwards and Miss Evelyn Langworthy Married At Noon Today

At noon today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Langworthy in South Marshfield, their daughter, Miss Evelyn, became the bride of Capt. Herman Edwards of Allegany. The Rev. J. E. Knots officiated and the ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends.

The home was very prettily decorated for the occasion, myriads of cut flowers being used. The bride wore her graduating gown. She was attended by Miss Merriman. Edward Steele attended the groom. Little Elma Langworthy was ring bearer. J. O. Langworthy gave the bride away.

Following the nuptials, the bride, mounted on the stairs, tossed the beautiful bridal bouquet out to the bevy of girl friends. It was caught by Miss Irene Preuss.

Following the ceremony, a sumptuous wedding dinner was served, Mrs. Langworthy being assisted in serving by Miss Hodson, Miss Lucy Powers, Miss Helen-Smith and Miss Dora Brown.

Following the dinner the young couple started by auto for Bandon, where they will spend part of their honeymoon. The auto barked and gave the host of friends an opportunity to shower the newlyweds with rice and attach many old shoes to the car in addition to a huge sign "We Are Married Now." Later a party of friends gave them a lively chase through town in another auto, showering them with rice all the way.

The young couple are among the best known on the Bay and a host of friends will unite in wishing them all the happiness possible. They will reside in Marshfield or at Allegany. Mr. Edwards being associated with his father, Capt. Edwards, in the steamboat business.

WM. LEDWARD returned last week from a 250 mile "hike" taken over the Coast Range mountains and up into the Siuslaw for the benefit of his health, which has greatly improved under the stimulus of the exercise and the invigorating mountain air.

The GEO. W. ELDER sails Thursday, June 18, at 6 p. m. from Marshfield for Portland.
