HISTORY OF BASEBALL

JUNE 19, 1914. THEN AND NOW. Sixty-eight years ago today the first match game of baseball on record was played. The game was between the Knickerbocker and New York baseball clubs in the Elysian Fields at Hoboken, N. J. The players were members of the leading New York families and engaged in the sport as a pastime. A bevy of town belles in the group of spectators made the occasion seem like a social function. The field was marked off into the baseball diamond so familiar today. None of the players wore gloves, masks or protectors. It was the custom for the batter to say where he wanted the ball thrown. The pitcher, or "giver," as he was then called, delivered it with an underhand toss, according to the rules of the game. It was thought that the pitcher had an unfair advantage over the batter when he threw the ball overhand, hence the rule. The catcher stood at a safe distance behind the batter, ready to catch the ball on the bound. The rules dictated that if he caught the third strike on the first bound the batter strike out; otherwise he must throw to first base to put him out. Likewise, the fielders, or "scouts" were permitted to catch hits on the first bound. Three outs retired the side. The team that first scored twenty-one runs, or "aces" regardless of the number of innings played, was accounted the winner. After the game the players resorted to one of the famous taverns of the day where the victors had a dinner at the expense of the vanquished.

Glenda Farrell (h), Helen Gulovson (h), Harold Haines, George Hansen (h), Wilma Hoagland (h), Eugene Kelly (h), Frances Lang, Thelma Lyons (h), Mary McArthur (h), Reginald McCarberry, Augusta Micklem (h), Evelyn Mirrasoul (h), Carol Rahkopf (h), George Schroeder (h), Valerian Vasey, Arthur Whereat, Ernest Whereat, Ray Pritchard.

BARTON CASE IS UP

Brown and Liljeqvist Ask Rehearing in Supreme Court. The Roseburg Review says: District Attorney George M. Brown returned here Tuesday evening, after a couple of days spent at Salem. While there he assisted District Attorney Liljeqvist, of Coos County, in presenting a petition before the Supreme Court asking for a rehearing in the case involving Representative Barton, of Coquille. Mr. Barton was convicted of assault by a jury in Coos County, but upon appealing the action to the Supreme Court, the decision was reversed. The decision of the lower court was reversed by the Supreme tribunal on the ground that the prosecuting attorney erred while making his closing argument before the jury.

COOS COUNTY CASES.

Among the decisions handed down by the Oregon Supreme Court were the following from Coos county: David S. Rouse vs. Riverton Coal & Development Company, appellant; from Coos; action to enforce an option for the purchase of land; affirmed. Archie H. Rosa et al, appellants, vs. City of Bandon; suit to enjoin collection by the city of a street assessment; reversed.

Convenience and Safeguard If you have ever stumbled on the dark basement steps, you can realize what a convenience it is to have an Electric Light Switch at the head of the stairs. When planning your new home or the remodeling of your present home, don't forget the switch on the basement stairs, or the switch to light the second floor lights from the first floor. Remember to include closet lights, porch lights, baseboard sockets for the flat irons and other appliances. It's simpler and less expensive to plan these things before the actual work is started.
