TO INVENTORS

You have given us many a woman.
I'll own,
And deserve that our praise should be louder.
For your wireless graph and your
wireless phone,
Your smokeless and noiseless
powder;
Horseless cars, tailless shirts, pain-
less dentistry,
Spineless cactus and odorless onion;
You've even made bloodless the surgery
Of removing a troublesome bun-
ion;
Though the man who is not with these gifts quite content
May appear to inventors a grut-
ton,
There is never a husband but prays you'll invent
A dress without hook or a but-
ton;
You have made a self-starter for
automobiles,
Dispensing with cranking and
swearing;
You'd dispense with far more if a
woman by wheels
Could hook up the gown she is wearing.

—Geo. Douglas.

SEVERAL correspondents have written to ask me to help them in determining the type of woman who will make a good wife, says Beatrice Fairfax.

Immediately there leaps into my mind the old quotation, "Home keeping hearts are best."
I believe in women in business and in the business of government. I respect the efficient woman wage earner, and include her in the category of "home keeping hearts," even though she be forced out of the home and into the office during many hours of each day. For in the heart of every womanly woman there is an instinct for home making and home keeping that must express itself even in a fifth floor hall bedroom or in an expensive three room suite of a modern hotel.

The Wrong One.

The gadabout woman who fills all the spare moments of her life with a feverish hunt for happiness will not make a good wife.

The woman whose mind is littered with such "junk" as is formed by a kaleidoscope of tango teas, bridges, promenades on the avenue, shopping tours, flirtations, massages, Turkish baths, joy rides and beautification of face and gratification of body is a "gadabout." Beware of her.

George Du Maurier once wrote a beautiful bit of verse on life. The ideal wife would be the woman with whom a man would naturally and inevitably share such a simple and happy life.

A little work, a little play
To keep us going—and so,
Good day.

A little warmth, a little light
Of love's bestowing—and so,
Good night.

A little fun to match the sorrow
Of each day's growing—and so,
Good morrow.

A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing—and so, Goodby.

For a happy marriage many things are needed—love sympathy understanding, tenderness, congeniality. Both man and woman must bring this to the marriage.

No one can name the "type" of woman who will make a good wife—for the type depends upon the type of man to whom it is to be mated.

In general every man would do well to consider character, health, congeniality, sweetness of disposition, reliability, ability to economize and manage consistently, common sense, domesticity, capability of affection and tact. But each individual man will require these things in varying degree.

An Important Requirement.

Congeniality is fully as important as love's self. For without sympathy and interest in common love dies from lack of food. Without tenderness he freezes to death. Jealousy and lack of faith murder him.

The woman who loves home and children, and who is also interested in the affairs of nation and world—the woman who is not flighty and silly, with pleasure her great goal; the woman who is not weak enough to be influenced by what her next door neighbor is doing, is the woman who makes a help mate as well as a wife.

But real love is a wonderful transmitter of dross to gold, and even the society butterfly sometimes becomes an earnest, faithful wife.

If I were a young man seeking a wife and a happy married life, I would make sure I loved with head as well as heart. I would ask no more than I meant to give. I would seek a sweetheart and a business partner; a comrade as well as a mate; the genius to preside over my home and mother my children; a playmate and an inspiration to work; a mind I could respect as well as a body I admire. I would deserve a woman of a splendid type and win her through worthiness.

What is the type of womanhood that will make a good wife? It is the type to which you can give respect, admiration and loyal allegiance, as well as love. Don't marry without all four feelings.

AN AUTO TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Jennings, of North Bend, expect to leave in their car Saturday, July 4, on what promises to be a very pleasant fortnight's auto trip through the Willamette Valley. The itinerary of the trip will include Roseburg, where they will visit Mr. Jennings' parents, then to Eugene, Newburg and Portland, visiting Mrs. Jennings' old home in Newburg and relatives in Portland. They expect to go out by way of the Allegany and Drain road. The trip is planned as one of recuperation for Mrs. Jennings, who is convalescing from a severe illness. Their many friends will wish them a most enjoyable outing and a safe return to Coos Bay.

NORTH BEND AUCTION BRIDGE

On account of the absence of several members from the city and the contemplated camping trips of several more, the North Bend Auction Bridge Club indefinitely postponed its scheduled meeting for Wednesday. It is planned to resume meetings as soon as enough members return to warrant it.

A. N. W. CLUB

The A. N. W. Club held their annual meeting with Mrs. C. H. Dungan at her Coos River home on Thursday of this week, a large number of members and guests going up the river on the Alice H. in the morning, remaining for a delicious chicken and strawberry dinner at noon and returning at a late hour in the afternoon. Needlework, music contributed by Mrs. C. F. McKnight, Mrs. Dungan, Mrs. Stauff and Mrs. J. T. Hall and walks to different parts of the ranch filled in the pleasant afternoon and made all the members wish with the children who were guests that they might come again soon. The next meeting of the club will be the third week in September, when Mrs. Chas. Stauff will be hostess. Those enjoying Mrs. Dungan's hospitality were Mrs. Chas. Stauff, Mrs. G. A. Bennett, Mrs. J. T. Harrigan, Mrs. E. O'Connell, Mrs. J. T. Hall, Mrs. W. P. Murphy, Mrs. M. R. Smith, Mrs. Hans Reed, Mrs. Mary Mark, Mrs. F. A. Hazard, Mrs. Mary McKnight, Mrs. C. F. McKnight, Mrs. Hyde, Mrs. W. F.
