

What is it That Makes Good Value?

Not low cost alone, for trash is not good value at any price.

Not quality alone, because the market teems with merchandise of high grade, whose prices are made unfairly high by lavish advertising or excessive selling cost or maker's greed for profits.

Such goods are not good value.

Honest Quality And Fair Price

Must join to make a Good Value

We handle many low-priced goods. We believe price has as much to do with good value as quality has. We try as hard to sell an article of reliable grade at less than market price, as we do to give a BETTER ARTICLE for the usual market price.

But we will not sell trash. Every article that we sell must meet the Quality as well as the Price test. It must satisfy the person who buys it.

That's why The House Behind the Price is just as important a factor in good buying as the price itself.
