COOS COUNTY AT SAN FRANCISCO

COOS COUNTY people who visit the Panama Exposition in San Francisco in 1915 will be embarrassed, whether residents of Coos County now or formerly, if they find the county not at all represented there.

It is evident, however, that if there is to be representation in any form at the 1915 Exposition, it must be organized promptly. It is now only seven months until the opening of the big fair and the time is none too ample to prepare and collect a proper exhibit.

There should be prompt and effective action by the commercial bodies and public spirited business men in every town in Coos County to get this movement started.

It is a project which justly will appeal to the pride of the people and they will be gratified if it is carried out.

WORLD CENTER PROPOSED.

AT THE bottom of the consciousness of mankind there is a growing appreciation of the fact that the world is made of one people and that there is a community of interest between nations and between races which, when properly understood, will overcome the tendency toward opposition and war.

AS A MATTER OF NEWS.

It is not particularly exciting news that Marconi will try to telephone by the wireless method across the Atlantic. But it will be big news when he does it.

WITH THE TEA AND THE TOAST

O toiling hands of mortals! O wearied feet, traveling ye known not whither! Little do ye know your own blessedness; for to travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive and the true success is to labor.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

THE COMFORTER.

When the flood rushed down from overhead, And we rallied at the drenching day, "Sunshine after the rain," he said, "Will bring the grass to hay, And, anyhow, why raise a row?— We needed a holiday!"

Lots of Coos Bay men who wouldn't steal ten cents from you will hang around when you are busy and waste $10.00 worth of your time.

A Coos Bay man who has followed the Mexican situation says that if Carranza doesn't watch out he's likely to Diaz Medero did.

Today's neglect spells tomorrow's worry.

The end of a busy little bee is more or less painful.

bone. Don't know about that, Jesse; there are occasions when one might get the notion that it was the funny bone.

Fortune seldom knocks at the door of a loafer.

VACATION NEEDS.

Vitality. Arnica. Courage. Appetite. Trout. Industry. Opulence. Nerve.

Nourishment. Energy. Enterprise. Duds. Savings.

A Coos Bay girl can fall in love at first sight, but she usually takes a second look after marriage and falls out again.

Two can't live as cheaply as one, but they can have a battle every day trying to.

A Coos Bay woman can't see why she should pay cash for things when she can brag that she has credit at the grocery store.

A ball game between two picked nines might easily be marked by many fouls.

THE QUIET OBSERVER SAYS. "It is a good thing clothes were invented, because if it wasn't for the difference in fronts one man would be as good as another."

Some women sweeten their tea with gossip instead of sugar.

You can always gain a Coos Bay man's friendship by telling him he is working too hard.

Many a woman's imagination makes her an invalid.

A SECRET AMBITION. I envy no man his success, I envy none the thrill of fame, I could be very glad, I guess, Though strangers never heard my name.

I do not yearn some day to be a leader of my fellow men, I have no great desire to see A multitude assemble when I am returning from a trip, Nor hear them clap their hands and cheer.

I'm just a deckhand on life's ship, I do not even want to steer, But I possess one secret wish, One thrill that dearly I would prize, Some day I'd like to catch a fish Of extraordinary size.

An economical woman tries to make her waist as small as possible.

Every little helps—especially little kicks when you are going down hill.

Probably the most difficult thing in the world to learn is to know thyself.

And many a poor man after winning a woman's hand finds himself under her thumb.

Carelessness with parlor matches is responsible for a few fires and a lot of divorces.

Many a man has been afflicted with a total loss of memory after touching a friend for a ten spot.

Many a fool man has worked himself to death trying to earn money to keep up the premiums on his life insurance.

It isn't hard work that kills a man, It's usually scheming how he can put in the most time on a short job that plays havoc with his vitality.

Experience is a great teacher, but there are some conceited men who imagine they can give experience cards and spades and beat it at the teaching game.

TO GET LOW RATE. Dudley Evans Seeking One and One-Third Fare to Walla Walla.

Dudley Evans, the veteran athlete, who is boosting the Frontier Days to be reproduced at Walla Walla September 17-19, reports that he is receiving great encouragement on all sides for a big party from the Bay cities. He has taken up the matter of round-trip rates with the Southern Pacific and expresses the conviction that they will be liberal on a rate through to Walla Walla and return, connecting at Portland with the O-W, R. & N. Railway, which makes one and one-third fare for the round trip.

For Women and the Home

THE ROAD OF LIFE. There are beautiful things on the road of life. Awaiting our seeing eyes. The tiniest plant that nature bestows.

The fleeciest cloud on the skies; An innocent child and a gray old age And the long glad days between. But when the end of the road is reached. Can we say that we have seen?

There are wonderful paths on the road of life. Awaiting our wandering feet. They lead o'er mountain and valley and plain. They lead through the busy street. And all of them hold such marvelous things— A path for us each along— But when the end of the road is reached. Can we say we have found our own?

There are beautiful sounds by the road of life. Awaiting our listening ear. The ripple of brook and the ocean's roar; A laugh and a word of cheer; A whisper of love, a message of hope, Or a simple song of a bird. But when the end of the road is reached. Can we say that we have heard?

There are noble deeds on the road of life. Awaiting our helpful hand. A hopeless brother, a wayward son; A sister too weak to stand; A discouraged man or a weeping child. Are near as our course we run, And when the end of the road is reached. Can we say the deeds are done?

There are sorrows and tears on the road of life. Awaiting the voice of love. The moan of the sick; the cry of the lone. Are with us wherever we rove, And should some sorrow remain unsoothed. And some tears be undried, All will be well when the end is reached. If we can say, "We have tried." —ANON.

HOME HINTS AND RECIPES. DOMESTIC DISCOVERIES. The substance which adheres to agate kettles or basins, when food or fruit has been burned on them, can be removed by sprinkling thickly with concentrated lye, pouring over it boiling water. Let stand an hour, when the kettle can be cleaned by ordinary washing without injury by scraping.

When the kitchen drain becomes clogged, pour into it one can of concentrated lye, followed by several gallons of boiling water. It will clean the drain and prevent sewer gas from arising.

The best way to open fruit jars is to invert the top of jar into hot water, taking care that the water is not deep enough to touch the glass. The principal is to expand the metal top, then open as usual. A minute or two is sufficient.

When damp days come and the salt does not pour readily from the cellar, try putting a few lumps of starch into it, keeping them as large as you can. The starch gathers the moisture to itself, and if a piece is always kept in the cellar the salt will flow freely the year round.

In washing anything blue put a handful of salt into the water; green, a lump of alum; gray or brown, a little ox gall; tan or linen goods, a little bay water; reds and pinks, use a little vinegar.

FASHION FLASHES. The tunic skirt is the skirt of the season. The tunic is but a few inches shorter than the underskirt and it falls in graceful folds from a gathered top.

The new detachable tunics are hailed with delight by the woman who likes variety in clothes. With one skirt as a foundation and two or three tunics of different materials and colors she may have a different costume for every occasion. A skirt of navy blue gabardine makes a very good skirt for these "transformations."

Street skirts are worn very short; many smart women wear them to about where the shoe-top would be if high shoes were worn.

Very few tunics are worn on evening dresses, except on gowns intended for smart occasions. Dancing frocks are very short.

Dictates of Fashion. Patent leather is used to trim felt outing hats.

Some of the new cloth capes have little vests of brocade.

A new veil is caught into a velvet neckband decorated with rhinestone or cut steel.

A charming sleeve is simply a square tube fastened into the armhole and falling, like a wing, as far as the belt.

Mammoth poppies and pansies share favor with great posies of bleached flowers and leaves, with perhaps here and there just a suspicion of black leaf introduced for corsage decoration.

Health and Beauty. Plenty of sleep and plenty of fresh air will do all the necessary doctoring for the tired nerves. Old Mother nature is very kind to her children unless they fly in her face. For disobedience to her she metes out severe punishment, but to her obedient daughters she is the best of nurses. And sleep and oxygen will freshen up and rejuvenate the tired body.

Many and varied are the directions for the sister who is thin. Much sleep, exercise in the open air, plenty of fresh circulating air in the sleeping chamber, a nap in the middle of the day and a glass of milk and egg, or better still, malted milk, if it is liked, will certainly add nourishment and give but little trouble to the digestive organs. Above all, do not worry; that will pull pounds from the stout one.

There is a simple remedy for headache which can be concocted with half a lemon, a glass of water, a small teaspoonful of sugar and an eighth of a teaspoonful of baking soda. Put the lemon juice and sugar in a glass of water, stir well, then add the soda, stir again and when it foams nicely drink the mixture immediately. This is an agreeable as well as a very excellent remedy for some kinds of headache, and certainly is one of the most harmless.

To Freshen Cloth. If you would keep your tailored suit always fresh and the skirt equally worn with the coat, do not wear the skirt indoors. The skirt will grow shabby long before the cloth is worn out. Cloth should be pressed only when absolutely necessary. A simple way to freshen material that will not stand frequent pressing is to hand it over steam. An excellent way to freshen serge that has grown shiny is to brush it against the nap with a cloth or a soft brush dampened with ammonia and water.

ALLEGANY ITEMS.

(Special to The Times) E. C. Barker and wife, Frank E. Barker and wife, Frank Sumner and wife, and others, made a picnic excursion up to the West Fork bridge Sunday, where they enjoyed a fine dinner, boat riding, wading, etc., having a general good time. They also enjoyed a hay ride up and back.

The road crew is now working on a big fill near George Stemmerman's place.

Our part of the country is pretty dry. We need rain badly. The hay is nearly all cut and put in.

There are several families camping now in Gould's Grove near Allencursion up to the West Fork bridge among them. Gould is putting up some toilets, seats, swings, etc., and will charge a small fee for picnic crowds when the improvements are completed.

The autos are carrying good crowds to Scottsburg now and the roads are in fine condition. "All take a ride with Andy." The Telephone is carrying the stage passengers now, as the Cadillac is out of commission.

LAUNCH FREAK leaves every day at 1:30 p. m. for SOUTH Coos River. Docks at CENTRAL AVENUE slip.
