

Abolish Your Cooking Troubles

by placing a Sterling Range in your home

You can do so on the convenient low payment plan.

The Sterling is Guaranteed for 15 years

Your own sound reasoning will tell you that a range, in order to carry such a guarantee, must possess merit of construction, of material, of workmanship and of finish. It is for these very reasons that the "STERLING" is backed up by this substantial 15-year guarantee—a "STERLING" guarantee. It is built better and is better than ranges that sell at a much higher price. The "STERLING" body is polished Wellsville steel, which will not warp or crack. The firebox is extra wide and shallow. The linings are made in three sections and ventilated. Has 16-gauge steel oven. In all, the "STERLING" range is made to cook and bake well and quickly, and economically. It's the range for every home, no matter what the requirements might be, for it meets every requirement. It is guaranteed by us to give perfect satisfaction and to be a fuel-saver.

BIG MAIL ORDER BUSINESS

The first allotment of Sears-Roebuck catalogues, for which Roseburg has been designated the distributing point in Oregon, arrived yesterday and is being stored in the H. S. house pending the time for sending them out. Yesterday's installment consisted of one carload of 23,045 books. The freight on the one car was over $1200. The territory to be covered from this point is all of Oregon, but the fact that the concern does the most business in Coos and Curry counties is responsible for the location of the distributing center at Roseburg. Two more full cars are to be brought here before February, —Roseburg Review.

PEACHES FROM ROSEBURG

Sam Stout and Ray Hyde, of Coquille, Coos County, left here this morning for home, taking a truck loaded with peaches. They arrived here last evening and immediately secured a load. They have a two-ton Reo truck and expect to dispose of their cargo with considerable profit.—Roseburg Review.

Small Powers Will be Drawn Into War "Spectators" Think.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The Spectator says: "The great war has come, as every sensible person knew it would come—very suddenly, without apparent reason. Germany and Austria-Hungary are already at war with Russia, France, Great Britain, Belgium and Serbia. At any moment Germany may be at war with Holland. Italy and Roumania are almost certain to come in as soon as Russian troops appear in strength on their frontiers.

"Russia wants Transylvania and its 4,000,000 Roumanians, now oppressed by Austria. Denmark and Switzerland may very easily be forced to take a hand for the small powers are beginning to realize that the issue for them is one of life or death. If the Germans win there will be no place left for the little independent nations. They know that they will always have a genuine friend and protector in Great Britain.

"What caused the war? Our answer is that Germany was ready and determined. She thought that we, Russia and France, were neither ready nor determined and she therefore struck. Germany began her preparations for war as soon as the Kiel canal was finished, that is as soon as, in her belief, her readiness was at its maximum. The German government has always been a firm believer in the importance of material preparation as well as in the idea that war is not a matter of self defense."

An American writer, referring to the Spectator article, said:

"The new England is not fighting for dominion nor to deprive any power of its right or independence. Realizing this, with that instinct for justice and right common to our race this idea cannot be expressed in better words than those of the greatest American, Abraham Lincoln, in his second inaugural address:

"With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in * * *"

THE VICTOR-DEATH.

"The victory is ours!" they cried, "They cannot take the field!"

"Not so!" the enemy replied, "Our troops will never yield!"

And forth they flashed a joyful word to set the chained hopes free,
 For lo! two waiting nations heard and claimed the victory.

But one there was whose face was hid—a figure strange and grim.
 He spake. They knew not what they did, nor why they turned to him.

The grief of years was in his tones—of fearful hearts that pine—
 A baby's tears—a mother's groans—"The victory is mine."
 —Anon.

and Merchants Bank. He comes from Tillamook, where the closing of the lumber camps put his hospital out of business, but found the Pacific Coast too attractive to be willing to get far away from it.

E. C. Barker, who used to run the jewelry store on C street here now owned by W. H. Schroeder, came in Friday from Allegany and went out to Fairview Saturday to visit his mother. He is planning to remove to California this fall.

J. E. Houck has purchased 100 acres of F. B. Phillips' ranch at Beaver Blough for $4500. He comes from Joseph, in Wallowa County, and his family consists of wife and two daughters, who are school teachers. Mr. Houck had been travelling for his wife's health and looking for a location that would agree with her, and as soon as he saw this valley was ready to exclaim "Eureka!" They are living in tent on their place now but are planning to build a neat modern bungalow this fall.

Imitation Is Flattering

Nothing so testifies to the merit of standard articles as the extent they are imitated.

An army of "me toos" and "just as goods" flock after the trail of the sure standards.

Wise dealers never offer the imitations when the real articles are called for.

It is not considered business ethics or a wise policy.

There is larger profit in selling the imitations, but they do not build business.

They disappoint and the public loses confidence in the store that sells them.

The quality of the trade-marked articles advertised in The Times from day to day is the kind of quality that makes reputation for the merchant who sells them.
