

TRIED TO ROB SECOND SAFE

Gardiner Bandits Either Scared Away or Ran Out of Nitro-glycerine

Capt. N. J. Cornwall of Gardiner was a Marshfield business visitor today. He stated that there were no new developments in the safe robbery at the Gardiner Mill Company's store and offices. Sheriff Quine and District Attorney Brown are still there and going into the matter very thoroughly, sifting all possible clues.

Capt. Cornwall says that an effort was made to break into the small private safe of W. F. Jewett, which contained about $100,000 worth of bonds and negotiable securities. The combination knob was knocked off the safe and the burglars either became alarmed or their supply of nitro-glycerine was exhausted.

Capt. Cornwall says business is active at Gardiner. The mill company is busy getting out lumber for the railroad work. The San Gabriel, the company's steamer, is in port for a cargo and the sailing vessels Caroline, Moulie and another one are tied up owing to the mill having so much lumber to get out for the railroad that it is unable to provide cargoes for them.

The run of salmon there has so far been comparatively small, he says.

Ambrose LaRouche, who is now conducting the Gardiner Hotel, is getting along fine with it, giving excellent service and enjoying a good patronage.

Steamer GEO. W. ELDER sails for Portland TOMORROW, THURSDAY at 10:30 A. M.

VAUGHN TELLS OF HIS CASES

Writes Hard Luck Story From State Penitentiary at Salem—Harris' Case

Frank Vaughn, serving a term at Salem for stealing a team from the Lib Haines' estate near Eckley and suspected of being implicated in the Myrtle Point bank robbery, although he proved a partial alibi by revealing a poker game at Myrtle Point which resulted in a number being fined, says that he is the real hard luck individual. However, local officers have very little sympathy for Vaughn as they think that he is a bad actor. He has just sent the following letter from the state prison which throws some new light on the case of Peasley or Harris, who was recently brought back from Washington and is now in the county jail at Coquille:

Editor Coos Bay Times.—I wish to say to the readers of your paper and all interested that I told all I knew concerning the bank robbery case. All I knew of it was what I was told by Larry Miller in the county jail. I was convicted of having stolen property in my session. I got those horses from Peasley, better known as Harris, and I did not know they were stolen. If it had not been for Harris, I would not have been in the penitentiary, but would have been home with my family. There is a time when a man gets tired of persecution. That time is here. Mr. Liljeqvist has rung me in and persecuted me every time he could possibly do so. Harry McGowan was made a witness against me and was released from prosecution. He got as much as I did and more, counting his fees. I want a square deal, but the other fellow gets the glory and I get the penitentiary. Frank Vaughn

WILL COLLECT FAIR EXHIBIT

Three Coos Bay Men Want to Be Appointed for Work—Consideration Friday

The Marshfield Chamber of Commerce at its meeting next Friday night will probably decide to recommend some one to collect the Coos county exhibit for the San Francisco Exposition. The appointment will have to be made by the Coos County Commissioners.

So far Sec. Motley has received applications from three. Dr. Hayden wants to do the work and wants $200 per month salary and expenses. H. C. Diers wants the place but offers to do it for $100 per month and expenses. J. A. Ward offers to do the work for $100 per month and expenses.

It is likely that others will endeavor to secure the place also.

ACCUSE YOUTH OF NOT PAYING

Constable Cox Seeks A. C. Erwin for Beating Board Bills in Marshfield

Mrs. George B. Hughes today filed charges with Justice Pennek against A. C. Erwin, accusing him of trying to beat her out of a $70 board bill. She claims that she boarded Erwin last spring and he promised to pay, but left and has not paid yet.

She also informed Justice Pennek that Erwin was owing board bills to Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Umstadt.

Today Constable Cox has been looking all over for Erwin but has not located him. Mrs. Hughes made serious charges against Erwin's past life. She said that he was a young man. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes formerly ran the Dotson Hotel, but now conduct the Marshfield Hotel on Commercial avenue.

HARD TO GET MEN MONDAY

Longshoremen Will Observe Labor Day Strictly—Three Vessels Due Here

The local longshoremen today notified the dock managers here that they would not work between 7 o'clock Monday morning and 7 o'clock Monday night, even at pay and a half for a holiday, because they wish to observe labor day.

The announcement caused quite a furore owing to several vessels being due here Monday morning with cargoes to be unloaded. At the Smith Terminal dock the Redondo, Nann Smith and Geo. W. Elder will be ready to unload.

Henry Huggins, assistant to Agent McGeorge, started in today to find a crew of workmen to do the work.

TELLS ABOUT BIG BALL GAME

Roseburg Version of the Visit of the Marshfield Elks and Their Playing

The Roseburg News has the following story of the visit of the Marshfield Elks for their ball game there Sunday:

They came, they saw and were conquered. The ball game that the local Elks have been looking forward to for so long is a thing of the past and the only thing they have now is the memory. Never in the history of the City of Roseburg has there been so jolly, lively and good natured a bunch of visitors within the city limits as those who invaded here Saturday night, intent upon taking the scalps of the Roseburg ball team home with them. Fully fifteen auto loads of them came from the coast city bearing about sixty five good live Elks. They were met a number of miles out by a large delegation of the local lodge, who escorted them into the city where they proceeded to get acquainted. It did not take long to get the rust worn off and soon a feeling of good fellowship existed between all the visitors and the citizens. "Hello Bill" could be heard wherever one went, on the streets, in the lobbies of the different hotels and in the "movies." Shasta water from the famous mountain springs had been provided in liberal quantities by the Roseburg Elks in order to wash down the dust that had accumulated in the throats of the visitors during the ride over. In was a dusty ride and the amount consumed was a large one. In the evening the big dance was held in the armory and the crowd that was present reminded one of the dances given during the strawberry carnival. The hall was crowded and every one present had a splendid time until the hour of midnight.

The ball game itself was worth coming miles to see. Brilliant plays abounded throughout the game and had it not been for the fateful third and fourth innings when the local boys landed on Freeman for six safe hits that netted eight runs the score would have been 11 to 9 instead of 11 to 9. After that he settled down and the Roseburg team managed to get but one run. Baker of the locals, covered himself with glory during the game, having 15 strikeouts to his credit, to Freeman's 6. In the ninth inning after all had been lost the visitors ran in four pinch hitters, A. Wernick, Bill Painter, Bill Haines and Lou Keizer and of the four, Painter managed to get a safe hit. People wondered why he had not been put in the game earlier, as he showed an unusual amount of baseball ability. The grandstand was crowded to the limit and everyone had a splendid time roasting the umpire and giving instructions to the players, all of which was given and taken in the best of spirits. The visit of the Marshfield Elks to this city was one that the people will remember a long time with pleasure, for the crowd that was here was one that did every one good to meet.

To attempt a detailed review of the game would be a hopeless task for the reason that the Roseburg team to a man played good ball, and made spectacular plays when in the field or at bat. Even when a player fanned out it was worth seeing and the grandstand howled with laughter. Bargar, Miller, Carter and Baker each made two runs, while Hargreaves, Glass and Baker each came across with one run apiece. Bargar made his two runs without getting a hit, he being exceedingly lucky on slipping to the bases on errors by the other players. The pitching of R. Baker, for the Roseburg bunch, was exceptionally good. Glass at catch assisted Baker materially and had to his credit 15 putouts. Carter at first gave a splendid exhibition and put out seven.

McNair pulled in the only run for the Marshfield Elks. He managed to winkle through when the Roseburg boys weren't looking. Freeman for Marshfield did good work but had poor support in the field and toward the end of the game he weakened and his delivery was easy, giving the local team a chance to swat the ball, but without serious results.

DRUG PRICES STILL ADVANCE

If War Continues the Situation Will Become Serious in The United States

With the price of carbolic acid advanced already 350 per cent and other drugs similar amounts, the situation of the drug business as a result of the fight in Europe can be readily seen. The supply of many drugs is growing smaller every day and the price is rising correspondingly. According to local druggists there can be but one solution to the problem unless there is a speedy settlement of the European war, and that is the investment by American capital in American laboratories to compete with those in Germany.

This too, is the solution of the problem as offered in an editorial in the American Druggist for September. The editorial says that the available supply of German coaltar chemicals is abundant enough to last for six months without further production, but if the war persists longer than that American manufacturers will either have to return to the use of chemicals employed before the advent of coaltar products or establish laboratories of their own.

"The German factories," it continues, "which supply most of our modern drugs, have no doubt been shut up for lack of workmen or have been commandeered by the government for the manufacture of military supplies."

Daily notices are received by local druggists from wholesale houses of the effect of another rise in the price of a certain drug or that they are unable to fill the entire order even at the advanced price.

The following statement of the situation is made by a leading wholesale druggist in a letter to the retail trade:

"When our orders to leading chemical houses have three-fourths of the items omitted and cancelled, the prices advanced 100 per cent on the part delivered, the situation in the chemical trade can readily be seen."

FORGER CAUGHT IN CURRY CO.

Ira Sullivan Who Broke Jail After Conviction and Sentence is Recaptured

GOLD BEACH, Or., Sept. 2.—Ira Sullivan, the convicted forger who escaped from jail here Thursday night, was captured by Sheriff Bailey on Saturday night at Encre Creek, 12 miles north of Gold Beach. Sheriff Bailey had received word that Sullivan had been seen in that neighborhood and lay in wait at night, watching the county road, and the fugitive walked into the trap.

Sullivan said that he took a boat and crossed Rogue River at the mouth, then took to the hills back of Wedderburn, where he became lost, finally ending up at a hay barn on Sheriff Bailey's ranch. Here he said, he crawled under the hay and spent a day, and that night returned to the road, and was making his way north by traveling nights.

Sullivan made no resistance, but claimed that he will never be taken to Salem alive, and that he will again escape. He says that a friend from the outside passed in the hack-saw with which he sawed his way to liberty, and that he will receive aid to escape again.

BIG LEAGUE BALL SCORES

S. Louis and Chicago Show Great Spurt and Close Up on Chicago and New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The remarkable four-club struggle for lead in the National League showed baseball attention throughout the week ending Sunday. St. Louis and Chicago added to the excitement by Boston's remarkable spurt to catch New York. The Cardinals were so close at one period that it was possible for them to take the lead as the result of one day's play. Chicago also worked dangerously close to the lead.

American League interest is confined to struggles for position. So far as percentage points indicate Boston has less chance of catching the Athletics than Pittsburgh. Last place club in the National League has of closing out the Giants. Figures show the Mack men to be thirteen games ahead of the Red Sox while Pittsburgh is only twelve games behind New York.
